FRENCH AIR CHIEF DIES

Four Others Meet Fate in Plane

Cabinet Member Was Guest of Poincare Before Crash Near Toul

PARIS, Sept. 2. (AP)—Maurice Bokanowski, French Minister of Commerce and Aviation, crashed to death and his body was cremated in an airplane accident near Toul this morning. Four others, Pilot Andre Rahn, Mechanic Jean Villa and Wireless Operator Henri Williaume, the general secretary of the aviation company, Edouard Lebon, also perished.

Bokanowski spent last night at the country house of Premier Poincare at Conflans, where he attended an informal meeting of the Cabinet yesterday celebrating the Premier's sixty-eighth birthday and also the second anniversary of the formation of the National Union Cabinet. This morning the Minister motored to the aviation field some miles away and took his place in a plane specially ordered for the trip from Le Bourget.

THEN NOSE DIVE

The machine, a Spad biplane with an air-cooled motor of 380 horsepower, took off laboriously with a noisy coughing, but rapidly gained altitude. It was exactly 9:15 o'clock. Sadoert, who was escorting the Minister's ship in a similar plane, noted the Spad suddenly veer to the right when about 100 feet aloft and go into a nose dive. The plane rapidly descended to the ground and burst into flames. The machine, which had been in the air barely five minutes, carried a full load of gasoline and was headed for Clermont-Ferrand, where Bokanowski was to attend an aviation festival organized by Gilbert Roland, one of France's distinguished war aces. Two hours were required to extricate the bodies from the wreckage and Bokanowski was identified only by a platinum watch which he was known to wear.

Premier Poincare upon hearing news of the disaster proceeded by motor to Toul. It is expected he will announce that the Minister died in the performance of ministerial duty. Minister of the Interior Albert Sarraut returned to Campaigny from Corsica and sent word to Mme. Bokanowski just as she was approaching the ninth green in a friendly round of golf. The Minister's wife bore up bravely.

NOT AFRAID TO FLY

The death of Bokanowski robs France of an aviation minister who was not afraid to fly. Just prior to entering the plane while chatting with Gen. Du Ferray and Capt. Sadoert the Minister said in a characteristic manner, "Newspaper men interview me when I never fly, that I take all possible precautions even when I approach a plane standing on the ground."

"Au revoir," he said, as he jumped into the cabin of the plane, "an airplane ride has no terrors for me." Minutes later Bokanowski was dead.

Bokanowski was the youngest member of the Poincare Cabinet. His political career was short, but eventful, a brilliant one. He was a member of the Paris Council and was elected a deputy in 1924. Since that time he was returned every election. In 1926 he was made General Secretary of the Budget Commission and was later entrusted to him the portfolio of commerce and aviation.

FIGHTERS NEAR SAN DIEGO COMBAT FLAMES IN VAIN

Score of Cottages Left in Ashes as Fire Races on Morena Lake; More Men Called For

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Burning fiercely on a wide front, the forest fire which started Friday on Guatay Mountain, forty-five miles east of San Diego, was sweeping southward from Buckman Springs in the vicinity of Morena Lake sixty miles from the city, early today. In the fifteen-mile wake of the ravaging flames were the ruins of twenty-two summer cottages, eighteen of them in Pine Valley, and giant pine and oak trees, ignited by the blaze as it passed, kept firey vigil over more than 3000 acres of land laid waste.

Three hundred and fifty men are fighting the flames and additional men and equipment have been ordered from the Trabuco forest area in the north. The fire fighters, aided by a turn in the wind, saved the Pine Valley resort from total destruction and succeeded in turning the fire away from the Laguna area, into which the flames penetrated for some distance.

OVERCOME BY HEAT

A number of fire fighters were overcome with heat, but revived later and went back to their posts.

Forest Supervisor Elliott, in charge of the fire fighters, has marshalled his forces for the two-days' battle against the flames. He took the air this morning in a forest service airplane to make a reconnaisance of the fire and map out plans for handling the situation.

Early this morning the flames had slowed down to a steady march due to the absence of wind, but with the coming of daybreak the wind sprang up again and made the situation worse.

While the fire was flaming fiercely along both sides of the State highway yesterday travel to the Imperial Valley was routed by way of Spring Valley, Dulsura and Campo. Travel was possible last night over the State highway, but was not considered advisable as the road winds through lanes of giant trees which still are burning fiercely and probably will remain afire for days.

COTTAGES BURN

Starting west of Pine Valley Friday afternoon the flames destroyed four cottages before reaching Pine Valley. Swooping into the valley with great vigor yesterday the fire assailed the settlement near the resort. Giant pines and oaks burst into flames and eighteen cottages (four belonging to the resort) soon were ablaze. Heroically fighting to turn the fire away from the Pine Valley and resort the fighters were aided by a favorable turn of the wind which sent the flames away from the hotel. Baffled, the fire raged up the highway to Laguna Junction and then up the road to the Laguna recreation area. The flames were turned back before they penetrated to the timber of the Laguna area and then they swept along the highway again southward from the junction toward Buckman Springs.

Night fell as the flames swept southward. Ridges were crowned with fire, making an awesome spectacle. Before reaching Buckman Springs the fire turned to the south a bit, allowing the springs cottages to escape. At last reports today the fire was on the way toward Morena Lake.

FIRE SITUATION IN STATE IMPROVES

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Invading new timber areas while 600 men under Federal service officials sought to check them, two serious forest fires continued rampant in the Shasta National Forest today. While the situation within the northern forest admittedly is grave, conditions are much improved in other regions stricken with the fire bane, reports to local forest headquarters indicate.

FILMS WILL RUN SILENT

Chicago Walkout Set for Today

Lawyers Say Musicians May Quit Without Violation of Court's Order

Nation-wide Fight to Fnish Between Exhibitors and Unions Predicted

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (Exclusive) Three hundred-odd Chicago motion-picture houses probably will be silent, operating without orchestra or organ tomorrow, as the result of expiring contracts and the advice of attorneys that the musicians involved may quit without violating the restraining order issued Saturday by Federal Judge Wilkerson.

This will be one of the first moves in a controversy that started several weeks ago and which, it is predicted, will end in a finish, nation-wide fight between the motion-picture exhibitors and the unions affecting their industry.

The houses affected by the walkout—which undoubtedly will occur—are all outlying, smaller ones. The large loop theaters are not affected as yet. These have a contract with the musicians that has a year to run and for the present—the injunction existing—will run as usual.

GO WITHOUT MUSIC

"My judgment is that the owners of the theaters involved will simply operate for the time being without music," Mr. Balaban said. At the same time he denied the statement of James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Musicians Federation, that a nation-wide fight impends.

"Publix and Paramount are making amicable agreements with the unions wherever the unions will listen to reason and most places they do listen to reason."

Publix and Paramount Theaters, Inc., are the big exhibitors of the country. Petrillo has declared these two, with a string of 450 big theaters across the country, control the exhibiting end of the motion-picture industry. There are powerful men at the head of these, he said, who have determined to wipe out the musicians", the stage hands' and the motion-picture operators' unions.

ISSUE STATEMENT

A statement purporting to advise the musicians whose contracts ended at midnight of their rights despite the injunctions of the Federal court was issued by Petrillo and his union officials after a seven hours' conference with the three union attorneys.

Just what force the strike may have will depend largely, it is stated, on whether the motion-picture operators and stage hands in the houses affected, go out in sympathy with musicians. Neither Thomas Molay, president of the operators, nor George Browne, heard of the stage hands, would comment, however.

Attorney Jos B. Fleming, who represented the exhibitors before Judge Wilkerson, when told of the statement of the union officials said:

"Certified copies of the restraining order have been served on Petrillo and his board. Notice also has been given, as far as practicable, to the members of the musicians union. That order speaks for itself."

DARROW TERMS BAN ON UNION UNTHINKABLE

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Clarence Darrow, veteran criminal lawyer, today defied a Federal court order when he informed Chicago theater musicians whose contracts with operators expire at midnight tonight that a temporary restraining injunction issued yesterday does not prevent them from walking out.

Darrow in advising the musicians quoted from the fourth section of Judge Wilkerson's order, which restrains the musicians "from leaving or threatening to leave the employment of said complainant, either by way of strike or otherwise, unless with the consent of said complainant, for the purpose of forcing or coercing said complainant, to agree to, acquiesce in, or comply with said demands or any of them."

"This provision," declared Darrow in a prepared statement, "is almost incomprehensible in view of the settled law that men have the right to leave employment for the purpose of compelling an employer

WOMEN IN 'POLITICAL SWIM'

Republican Feminine Leader Gives New Meaning to Old Phrase With Party for Coworkers

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—A hundred and twenty "lady politicians"—State committeewomen, county and district leaders of New York—will go this week to the Southampton, L. I., estate of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee, to participate in a new kind of political confab. When they received the call to the meeting from Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, vice-chairman of the State committee, they found at the end of the summons this message from Mrs. Sabin:

"And bring your bathing suits."

Around headquarters the men refer to the meeting as "Mrs. Sabin's swimming party." They look amused. And the expression on the faces of some of them indicates a slight but nevertheless skepticism as to the amount of Republican business that is going to be accomplished at that meeting.

But Mrs. Sabin says:

"We are merely carrying out a man-established custom, that's all. Ever since the game of politics started men have had their smokers, haven't they? Well, we women politicians are going to have a swimming party."

The meeting—which would ordinarily last one day and be conducted in a New York hotel—will last through Wednesday and Thursday. Thursday will be devoted to a clam bake and swimming party at Montauk Point.

For those two days all of those 120 women are to be the guests of Mrs. Sabin. As many as she can accommodate she will take into her home. Some will stay at the home of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, Miss Butler's father. For the rest, Mrs. Sabin has taken over a Southampton inn.

There will be a swimming party at Mrs. Sabin's private beach Wednesday morning, then luncheon in her house, then a business session—and they are going to work fast and try to accomplish all their business in one afternoon—then more swimming, dinner and an entertainment in the Southampton motion-picture theater which Mrs. Sabin has taken over for the evening. She has chartered busses to take all her guests to Montauk Point next morning.

"For years," Mrs. Sabin said, "men have been getting together in their social political gatherings and, fifteen minutes after being introduced, have started calling each other by their first names.

HOOVER AND HIS FOLKS GO TO MEETING

Candidate and Kin Make Surprise Visit to Rustic Quaker Chapel

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—Typical of his desire for simplicity, Herbert Hoover worshiped today in a little moss-covered Quaker meeting house in the Maryland countryside.

Eluding not only newspaper reporters and photographers but secret service men, the Republican Presidential candidate, his wife and son Allan motored to the historic Sandy Springs monthly meeting-house in near-by Maryland to mingle with the three score regular worshipers.

They failed to disturb the sunny serenity of the picturesque Quaker church nestling in green woods far back from the road with any advance notice of their coming and only some sixty of its 200 members attended the service. Even the family in the adjoining farmhouse, unwarned of Herbert Hoover's visit, went to another near-by Quaker meeting-house.

In the cool, dark interior with its plain wooden benches divided into two sections, for men and women, and its old wood stoves at either end, there was the same quiet service today that has been held there since the meeting-house was built.

Man's Skeleton Found in Woods

LONGVIEW (Wash.) Sept. 2. (AP) A skeleton believed to be that of F. S. Janes, 73-year-old Kelso man missing since March 7, was found in the woods six miles from Ostrander by boys today. Officers were sent to bring in the body, identification of which is not yet positive.

Janes went into the woods to inspect a timber tract. His automobile was found but there was no trace of him despite a search made with bloodhounds.

Boy Plans Solo Flight to East

OAKLAND, Sept. 2. (AP)—Richard E. James, 17-year-old youth from White Stone, N. Y., arrived here today to prepare for his solo flight by easy stages from the west coast to the eastern seaboard.

He expects to take off from Oakland municipal airport next Tuesday and cross the continent in about twenty jumps. The youth, one of the youngest flyers in the country, is using a Travelair plane with a Seimens motor.

Ships Near Cuba Warned of Storm

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—The appearance of a tropical disturbance of slight or moderate intensity apparently central a short distance west of Port Au Prince, Haiti, caused the Weather Bureau to issue an advisory storm warning to vessels bound for Cuba and adjacent waters to use caution during the next twenty-four hours. The disturbance was moving in a west-northwest direction.

PASSENGERS FAINT FROM SUBWAY GAS

Score Overcome and Many Trampled in Rush After Third Rail Burns Out

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—More than a score of persons were overcome by smoke and gas and several other passengers in a subway train were trampled today, when a third rail burned out in the East River tube of the Interborough's subway line from Manhattan to Queens.

Reports of the number treated by ambulance surgeons varied from twenty to fifty, but none was reported in a serious condition.

The train was nearing the first station in Queens when a dense volume of smoke billowed from the floor of the first car of the five-car train. Passengers, recalling the crash of a train at Times Square last week in which sixteen persons were killed, screamed and ran for the doors.

The door to the second car was blocked before many had passed through and those left struggling in the smoke were gasping for breath.

The train was stopped and the passengers piled onto the tracks and followed subway workers and police reserves to the station. Several were carried out of the train to the surface. Several women fainted in the rush to escape from the car. Some of these were revived at the station and others were taken to hospitals.

Interborough officials said the smoke and gas came from the burning out of a section of the third rail over which no train was operating at the time.

PRESIDENT'S SON BREAKS HOME TIES

John Coolidge to Launch Out "on His Own" Today; Pleasure Before Business

SUPERIOR (Wis.) Sept. 2. (AP)—Their son John accompanying them for the last time this summer, President and Mrs. Coolidge worshiped once more today at the small church at Brule.

Tomorrow evening John definitely will leave his family and start out on his own to earn his living. At the thought of the separation Mrs. Coolidge's eyes shone with tears in church today as she clung to her son's arm.

At the end of the service she approached John Taylor, the blind lay preacher whose sermons the Chief Executive has been attending all summer, and said:

"This is the last time John will be here."

John Coolidge will entrain tomorrow night for an eastern destination which the White House has insisted on keeping confidential. It is understood, however, to be Hartford, Ct., which he well knows on account of numerous previous visits there as guest of Gov. Trumbull of that State.

John's immediate plans also have been kept secret. It is known, however, he intends to welcome Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of Gov. Trumbull, on her return in a few days from a trip to Europe. After that, it is understood, he probably will go for a short time to Maine, where the Trumbull family is spending the summer, before settling down to work.

MRS. EUDORA NELLIS DIES

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 2. (AP)—Mrs. Eudora Nellis, 71 years of age, a native of Ohio, died today at Doyle Gulch. She was the daughter of Judge Safford, for sixteen years a member of the Supreme Court of Kansas and one of the twelve original founders of the Santa Fe Railroad.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Sept. 2. [To the Editor of The Times:] President Calles of Mexico issued a very unusual statement. He said: "When my time is up I will get out, I won't accept the job of provisional President till one is elected and I also won't at any future time accept the Presidency of Mexico."

In all our 150 years of politicians we have never had one say that. On their dying bed they believe they will some day get back into office, but Ambassador Morrow always told me that this Calles was a very unusual man, and that he had none of the earmarks of a politician. Wouldn't it be great if Mexico started electing by the ballot instead of by the bullet, and us electing by the ballot instead of by the bullion.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

MISSING SWEDEN FLYERS FOUND ALIVE IN NORTH

Hassell and Cramer at University of Michigan Observatory in Southern Greenland

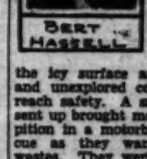
NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (Monday.) (AP)—Missing two weeks in the Arctic, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, American flyers, were safe today at Mt. Evans, Greenland, the second stop on their projected flight from Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm, Sweden.

While the world was becoming convinced that they had suffered the fate of other aviators who perished daring the Atlantic, they were making their way over a fifty mile stretch of icy Greenland waste.

Word of the rescue of the flyers came to the New York Times via its radio station in a dispatch from Prof. W. H. Hobbs, leader of the University of Michigan Greenland expedition. Members of the expedition, which has a base at Mt. Evans, brought the airmen to safety yesterday after picking them up in the icy wastes, a short distance from the base.

The flyers were uninjured. Although hungry, having lived on a ration of eight ounces of pemmican a day, they were stated to be in excellent condition.

Shortage of gasoline forced the airmen down on the ice arm of Point Sukkertoppen on August 19. Point Sukkertoppen is a headland on the southwest coast of Greenland, about fifty miles southwest of Mt. Evans, at the base of which the Hobbs's expedition had prepared a landing field for the airmen.



The plane was not damaged. For two weeks the airmen traveled over the icy surface and through wild and unexplored country hoping to reach safety. A smoke signal they sent up brought members of the expedition in a motorboat to their rescue as they wandered over the wastes. They were taken across a fjord to Camp Lloyd, three miles from the radio station at Mt. Evans.

FORCED OFF COURSE

Apparently Hassell and Cramer had been forced off their course by adverse weather when they attempted to fly from Cochrane, Ont., to Mt. Evans, a distance of 1600 miles, on the second leg of their flight.

Hopping off from Cochrane in their monoplane Greater Rockford at 12:12 p.m., Eastern standard time, on August 19 the airmen were sighted over Piskenaesset, about 200 miles south of Point Sukkertoppen at 10.30 a.m. the next morning.

News of their sighting over Piskenaesset was not received, however, until August 23 when the Danish government made public a report from the Greenland administration announcing the receipt of a message from the Sheriff of South Greenland saying the plane had been sighted. The Sheriff stated that two motorboats would be sent out immediately to search for the flyers. Prof. Hobbs organized land-searching parties for the airmen. The United States Coast Guard cutter Marion and the Danish coastal vessel Islandfalk also took up the search.

OBSERVING WEATHER

The expedition led by Prof. Hobbs is engaged in experimental work by which it is hopped to establish a system for forecasting Atlantic weather by measuring the force and direction of gales which blow from the Arctic. Hassell carried instruments for meteorological observations and was to have worked with the Hobbs expedition.

News of the flyers' safety came a day after another mystery of Arctic flying had apparently been cleared up by the finding of one of the floats of the missing seaplane in which Roald Amundsen and five companions had gone to the rescue of the ill-fated Italia expedition. The float was found off the Fugloe Island, near Tromsoe, Norway, from which point Amundsen started north on June 18. With its finding the slim hope that Amundsen and his companions were still alive faded.

FIRE SEEN ON ISLAND IN ARCTIC

Hunting Vessel Reports Discovery and Connects It with Lost Italia Men

COPENHAGEN (Denmark) Sept. 3. (Monday) (AP)—A report received from Tromsoe, Norway, early this morning says that a hunting vessel, the Jopetter of Aalesund, Norway, which now is lying off Frans Josef Land, saw a fire on Stone Foreland, the eastern extremity of Edge Island, a fortnight ago.

The crew of the hunting vessel were so sure they saw a fire that they attempted to go ashore, but ice prevented. They believe the fire was connected with the missing Italia group. The report says there were no other hunting vessels in that vicinity.

Stone Foreland is the name of a cape on the eastern coast of Edge Island, the southeast member of the Spitsbergen archipelago.

Count Karolyi Visits New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—Count Michael Karolyi, Hungary's first President, in this country for forty-eight hours while en route to Spain, appeared at a meeting of the anti-Horthy League tonight, but kept his promise to the State Department that he would not talk Hungarian politics.

"It is due to an immigration regulation concerning transient travelers that I am here for a few hours," he told the 1000 or more persons at the meeting. "It would not be fair for me to utilise those hours for propaganda for our cause."

Sweden Intends to Indorse Pact

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2. (AP)—The Swedish Minister of Foreign Affairs has advised the United States Minister that his government intends to adhere to the Briand-Kellogg peace pact recently signed at Paris but that the government's acceptance first must be ratified by Parliament.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 2. (AP) Advices reaching here from Angora state the Turkish government has resolved to adhere to the Briand-Kellogg renunciation of war pact without reservation.

TWO COAST SHIPS DISABLED

Crashes in Fog Result in Serious Damage to Craft Off California and Washington

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2. (AP)—The steamer Calmar was disabled off the California coast 100 miles north of San Francisco early today as a result of a collision with the British vessel Canadian Rover, during a heavy fog.

Advices to the Marine Department of the Chamber of Commerce here said the Calmar was struck amidships and the Canadian Rover with its bow stove in, is standing by. The Coast Guard vessel Cahokia left Eureka for the scene of the accident, near Point Arena, while the Sea Ranger is steaming up from San Francisco.

The Calmar was en route here under tow tonight, said radio messages to the Red Stack Tug Company.

Marine authorities believed the Canadian Rover, reported less seriously damaged, would continue to this port. It stood by until help arrived for the Calmar.

The Calmar, owned by Calmar Steamship Corporation, a subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and operated by Swayne & Hoyt of San Francisco, was northbound from San Francisco. Full details of the accident were lacking.

The Chamber of Commerce said radiograms indicated the Calmar had been struck amidships and that a large hole was in the port side at the water line. The Canadian Rover's bow was stove in, said a message from the steamer Edna Christenson which passed the scene and saw the two vessels. The Calmar was anchored and the Canadian Rover standing by.

ARMS TOPIC HAS STAGE

League Ready to Seek Slashes

Reducing War Units Center of Discussion of Eve of Council's Meeting

United States' Help Sought as Greatest World Force in Peace Movement

GENEVA, Sept. 2. (AP)—Disarmament supremely dominates all discussion on the eve of the ninth assembly of the League of Nations.

Admittedly difficult of solution, it stands out all the more for this reason as a problem demanding urgent attention from the delegates of some fifty nations who have gathered in Geneva for the world parliament opening tomorrow. The Briand-Kellogg pact renouncing war has pushed disarmament to the front because it is regarded as a great incentive to the reduction of armaments.

Linked with disarmament is the problem of weaving the peace fabric more closely so that the Kellogg plan and the League covenant will be supplemented and strengthened. Many delegates were heard to say today that the solemn engagements entered into in Paris renouncing war constitute magnificent steps in the advance but that governments must commit themselves further against war by binding pacts of nonaggression and agreements to settle all disputes by arbitration.

OTHER PACTS

Model pacts for the regulation of conflicts by pacific means will be submitted to the Assembly in the hope that nations will be induced more widely to accept them.

The Kellogg pact frequently was referred to today as indicating the powerful rôle played by the United States in the international drive for universal peace.

"The United States holds everything in the hollow of her hands," one prominent European statesman told the Associated Press correspondent, emphasizing that nothing great or worth while in the domain of international politics can be achieved without American collaboration. He declared, like many others, that the immediate prospects for disarmament depend on the fate of the recent Franco-English naval accord; that without agreement with the United States, Italy and Japan, but especially the United States—nothing can be accomplished.

LEADERS READY

Chancellor Muller of Germany, Premier MacKenzie-King of Canada, Foreign Minister Briand of France and almost a score other foreign ministers are here ready to review world affairs. The Polish-Lithuanian dispute over the sovereignty of Vilna is a problem that is causing the statesmen some concern and may be aired on the floor of the Assembly, unless Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania receives satisfaction.

The great importance the League gives to American co-operation is shown in an official commitnique issued today outlining the agenda of the Assembly. It consists chiefly of a summary of the extensive collaboration by the American government and its citizens in various League activities, such as disarmament, social welfare, economic problems, health, opium, transit and codification of international law. Many hundreds of Americans are seeking tickets to the opening session, but only one out of every eleven applications can be granted.

Complete approval of the manner in which the League Council handled the request of Costa Rica for an interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine was expressed today by Dr. Gustavo Guerrero of Salvador. Dr. Guerrero, who was prominent in the stand taken by various Latin-American states at the Havana Pan-American conference, said:

"The reply was as it should have been. Clear as to the meaning of Article XXI of the covenant and logical in respect to a doctrine the interpretation of which does not belong to the Council."

INGE DISCUSSES LEAGUE IN GENEVA SERMON

GENEVA, Sept. 2. (AP)—Very Rev. William Ralph Inge, dean of St. Paul's, London, in delivering today the peace sermon at the Geneva Cathedral in commemoration of the opening tomorrow of the Assembly of the League of Nations, discussed the status of the League and international relations.

Dean Inge remarked that he must be most careful about making suggestions because he might seem to be imputing blame to one or another of the great powers who may appear to be placing their own security or their own desire to avoid foreign entanglements above the common interests of the civilized world.

After insisting that nations must bear one another's burdens, he criticised out and out pacifists as harmful and declared the notion that wars are made only by kings and emperors and that to make the world safe for democracy is to make it safe for peace is utterly untrue and extremely dangerous.

"My study convinces me," he said, "that in bellicosity and injustice to weaker nations there is nothing to choose between monarchies and republics."

Dean Inge condemned "megalomaniac nationalism" as one of the chief causes of war and called for patriotism, which would be based on the desire to be honored and respected and even loved by other nations. He cited the American grant of independence to Cuba as a notable instance of international generosity.

Nevertheless, he said, he is convinced that the main cause of war is the fear of sudden unprovoked attack and he said he believes, as did Roosevelt, that this fear is justified.

The dean said he feels certain that if the League could succeed in removing this feeling of fear it would solve the riddle of the Sphynx, and that he wonders if the creation of an international air force to maintain the peace of the world is not worthy of consideration. He urged all people to pray for the League in its mission to abolish war.

National forests are either wholly or partially under control and although no report has been received from the Cleveland Forest in Southern California regarding the destructive fire which has raged there the last three days, it is believed that conditions are improved on this line also.

STILL RUN WILD

In the Shasta Forest the principal danger zones are at Stevens's Pass and Panther Creek, where fires of large proportions have raged for the greater part of a week. Both are running wild today, it is reported from the office of the Forest Supervisor at Mt. Shasta.

The Stevens Pass fire has burned over approximately 18,000 acres of forest land, while that at Panther Creek has swept over approximately 6000 acres. District Forester Show and District Fire Chief Price, both from San Francisco headquarters of the Federal Forest Service, are directing fighters here.

WINDS FAN FIRE

Low humidity, strong winds and generally dangerous weather conditions aided the progress of the flames.

Two other fires in the Shasta Forest, one on Mt. Eddy near Weed, the other at Bear Springs are under control. That on Mt. Eddy started Saturday and burned over approximately 300 acres before it was checked.

In the Klamath Forest two fires are burning strongly but are partially controlled by 450 men. These blazes are at Willow Creek and Slate Creek.

Three fires in the Sierravale district on the eastern edge of the Tahoe National Forest are under control after burning over approximately 400 acres, part of which was virgin timber.

STEVENS PASS FIRE BESTS FIGHTERS' EFFORTS

YREKA, Sept. 2. (AP)—The tireless efforts of 1000 men were unrewarded today as the Stevens Pass fire continued to rage over 23,000 acres of brush and timberland. Intermittently the blaze would jump the fire lines and the fighters would have to form a new front.

Every ranger station in the Shasta National Forest was rendered useless by the heavy pall of smoke that hung above the area. In the city of Mt. Shasta winds had blown the smoke so low that it was impossible to see for more than a block.

So dense is the smoke that forest rangers, officers of the service from San Francisco and others have been unable to discover a new fire until it has assumed dangerous proportions.

PRAYS FOR TWINS; TRIO ARRIVE

San Francisco Woman Finds Pleas Answered With Good Measure

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2. (AP)—The efficiency of prayer will never be questioned by Mrs. Harry Edwards, 35 years of age, wife of a San Francisco contractor.

Mrs. Edwards lost her only baby girl two years ago, and when she learned that she again was to become a mother she prayed for twin daughters to take their place.

"I guess I prayed too hard," she said today, after the nurse had taken her infant daughters back to the nursery. All three of them.

Zogu Begins His Royal Sway Over Albanian Affairs

First Day as Potentate Spent in Mother's Cottage

Uniform Donned but Crown and Scepter Lacking

TIRANA (Albania) Sept. 2. (AP)—While Christian churches and Moslem mosques alike prayed today for his success as the ruler of the newly created kingdom of Albania, Ahmed Bey Zogu spent his first day as King quietly with his venerable mother, who under the revised constitution becomes the country's Dowager Queen.

Throwing aside the conventional civilian garb he wore as President of the republic, the 34-year-old commoner donned the uniform of the commander-in-chief of the army as a more appropriate dress for his exalted position of King. In this splendid attire he received the homage of his subjects and heard the address to royalty, "Your Majesty."

As he sat beside his proud mother—who is "Her Royal Highness"—in her humble cottage adjoining Tirana's "White House," Ahmed Bey Zogu, who, like the new Shah of Persia, rose almost from the status of plebeian to the position of potentate, was a striking figure of youth and aggression.

He whom fate had raised to the kingly power overnight affected neither crown, scepter, nor jewels, but his strong earnest features give a promise of the fulfillment of his undertaking to Parliament, "to consecrate his life to Albania and to rule the country wisely, justly and tolerantly."

NATION JUBILANT

Although carpenters have not yet had time to build a throne, a hastily made royal standard now floats over the executive mansion and Albania seems in a jubilant mood at the change which has taken place in its government.

One of the novel feaffires of Zogu's elevation to regal status is that his sister becomes a full princess and his brother a prince. These are the only titles of nobility which henceforth will be recognized in Albania. The revised constitution provides that the succession to the Albanian throne will fall to Zogu's first male heir. As the new monarch is single his promoters already are casting about for a queen to share the throne with him and bear him a son.

In this connection Princess Giovanni, daughter of the King of Ital, and the beautiful 19-year-old Princess Ileana of Rumania have been mentioned, but as Zogu is Mohammedan, it is feared neither such marriage can take place unless the new King shows a willingness to become a Christian.

CORONATION PLANS

The National Assembly will devote several sittings to drafting elaborate details of the coronation, which it is believed now will be held December 24, next, the fourth anniversary of Zogu's triumphal entry into Tirana after his overthrow of the semester before by revolution.

Tirana is in quite a festive mood at the new status of its ruler. The city, which has a population of about 12,000, has suddenly been swollen to a city of perhaps half a million people with no accommodations for visitors. Its streets have blazed with lights and fireworks, while its brass bands and confetti have reminded one of Coney Island on a holiday.

Last night thousands of paraders surrounded the cottage of Zogu's mother and thanked her for giving Albania such an illustrious son, the while a group of Albania's prettiest girls presented the King himself with a huge crown of flowers.

In foreign diplomatic quarters here it is feared the question of Zogu's coronation may be complicated by his acceptance of the title of "King of All the Albanians." Certain European countries, particularly Jugo-Slavia and Greece, which have large Albanian populations, are unwilling to recognize Zogu by that broad title.

In British and French diplomatic quarters the Associated Press was informed that the great powers will give the question of the kingdom the most careful consideration. It is not expected, however, that there will be any obstacle to full American recognition provided the new regime honors the old republic agreement with the United States. Neither is it clear what Albania will do with various entangling treaties and alliances contracted with European powers while it was a republic

ENVOYS ABSENT

The diplomatic council under the chairmanship of Charles C. Hart, American Minister and dean of the Diplomatic Corps, which yesterday decided that in the absence of instructions from the home governments they could not attend the proclamation ceremony in Parliament in full-dress uniform with their decorations, today likewise declined to attend the state banquet in honor of Zogu. The excuse was given that their governments had not yet recognized the new regime. During the proclamation ceremony the sole occupant of the diplomatic box of Parliament was the correspondent of the Associated Press.

As a gesture of politeness and friendship, however, the foreign diplomats decided to attend in a strictly unofficial capacity a reception given by Zogu late this afternoon. Adherents of the new government consider this the first diplomatic victory of the new regime. The diplomats tomorrow, however, will abstain from attendance at the ceremony for congratulations to the new monarch.

ESCAPES SHIPWRECK

The dead Minister's war record includes four citations and he had been decorated with the Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre. In 1916, while aboard the steamship Provence en route to Saloniki his ship was torpedoed and he swam for a half-hour before he found a raft upon which he kept afloat for ten hours before being rescued.

Bokanowski was born in Le Havre on August 21, 1879. He celebrated his forty-ninth birthday last Friday. French aviation experts hope that today's catastrophe will terminate what they call the "black series" in French aviation history, beginning with Nungesser and Coli through Guilbaud and Amundsen and culminating in the death of the Air Minister and his companions today.

BRIAND DECLINED RIDE ON ILL-FATED FLIGHT

LONDON, Sept. 2. (AP)—The Exchange Telegraph Company says in a dispatch from Geneva that France's Foreign Minister, Aristide Briand, narrowly escaped the fate of her air minister, Maurice Bokanowski, who was killed in an air crash today.

Yesterday at Campigny, says the dispatch, Bokanowski invited M. Briand to fly to Geneva with him, but Premier Poincare dissuaded him from acceptance of the invitation. M. Poincare also tried to dissuade Bokanowski from flying today, the dispatch says. Had he been successful the air minister might still have been alive.

ADMIRAL FISKE HAS FLORIDIAN CREW

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 2. (AP)—With the ship's company of the American-Hawaiian steamship Floridian aboard, the steamer Admiral Fiske tonight is feeling her way north toward Seattle through the Straits of Juan de Fuca, according to advices received here by the marine radio station of the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company. The Admiral Fiske and the Floridian collided Saturday night in the fog sixty-five miles south of Tatoosh off the Washington coast. A great hole was torn in the Floridian's side and the Fiske's bow was damaged.

The forty-three men aboard the Floridian took to the lifeboats and were picked up by the Admiral Fiske. They reported the Floridian had gone down but some time later the hulk of the intercoastal freighter was seen by lookouts aboard the Fiske. Tonight the United States Coast Guard cutter Algonquin, the Salvage King and the John Cudahy, tugs from British Columbia and Grays Harbor, respectively, are standing by the scene of the wreck in hope of sighting the derelict.

At the time of the collision the Admiral Fiske was steaming south from Seattle with freight for San Francisco, while the Floridian was steaming north with cargo for the Sound. The crash occurred at 10:36 p.m. There were no passengers aboard either ship. The Admiral Fiske formerly was the steamship Senator. It was taken off the passenger run from Portland south on May 16, last, with her arrival in this port and supplanted by the Admiral Farragut.

CALLES LAUDED FOR ABDICATION

Pledge to Give Up Office on November 30 Cheered

Morrow's Applause for His Action Wins Favor

Congress Will Be Forced to Pick New President

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2. (AP)—Praise, even from his enemies, was accorded President Calles today for his unequivocal stand on the Presidential succession in his message to the new Congress yesterday.

Friends of the President had said prior to its delivery that he intended not to seek further tenure of the Presidency, but nothing so firm and unrelenting as his declaration that he will retire November 30 at the end of his present term and never more thereafter will hold that office was expected.

This declaration by President Calles provoked a demonstration such as rarely has been seen in this chamber of many demonstrations when it was made Saturday night.

SHOUTS RESOUND

When the full import of his words, renouncing the Presidency forever with the unselfish idea of ending "one-man rule, the rule of the man on horseback and the caudillo, and the establishment of Democratic government in Mexico" was borne upon them, the Assembly shouted and cheered, "Viva Calles," "Viva El Presidente," Viva El Patriotismo."

Here at this time, too, occurred another incident which has thrust an American, Ambassador Morrow, into the spotlight with the retiring President. Ambassador Morrow had attended the convening of the Congress with others of the Diplomatic Corps. They, with diplomatic impassiveness and immobile faces remained seated, and quiet even when the demonstration was at its height.

MORROW LAUDED

This was not a partisan political occasion, therefore there was no real reason why the Ambassador, or others of the Diplomatic Corps, might not have applauded. But the fact that the others retained their customary aloofness and only Morrow applauded caused discussion, favorable discussion, on Mexico City's streets today second only to that of the Presidential message itself.

At other points in the Calles message the apparent concord of the Congressional body with the President was not so marked. There was no applause when the President appealed for representation in their deliberations of the "minority, reactionary, and even clerical reactionary" groups. The silence was most conspicuous.

There was still another impressive moment in the Congressional chamber when Sr. Calles addressed himself to the generals of the army present. At his mention of their "loyalty and patriotism" they stood at attention.

MORE APPLAUSE

The President spoke slowly and impressively, pleading that they would resist any treasonable suggestions from politicians, but would continue instead as "faithful guardians and defenders of constitutional government." The message was spoken directly to the officers, the President occasionally leveling his finger to emphasize direct speech to one or another of them. This, too, was followed by moments of enthusiastic applause.

When the speech was concluded the President walked out down the aisles, while around him rose "vivas" and "bravos."

Outside the renunciation of his power, and the condemnation of the rule by "caudillos" or military chieftains, the President's statement of his faith that the "revolution" had reached the "constructive" stage, where the moderating tendency of conservatism may be expressed in its parliamentary conduct has caused discussion here. It is what everyone had hoped for.

HE COULD HAVE IT

The President, indisputably, understated the situation when he said in effect he could retain the Presidency if he desired. It is known indeed that powerful pressure has been brought to bear to keep him in office. He might even, had he so desired, re-enacted the regime of Porfirio Diaz, kept himself at the head of the country until removed by revolution or assassination.

But, since last night's speech, the impression here is that he will remain master of the situation only until November 30, retiring peacefully then to give the reins of government to whatever figure Congress chooses to entrust them.

Further than that few care to predict.

Sportsman Ends Life With Rifle

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—The body of Charles K. Eagle, a silk merchant, hunter and sportsman, was found today with a bullet wound in the temple in the gymnasium of his penthouse apartment on the roof of the upper west side apartment-building he owned.

Police said he had committed suicide with one of his hunting rifles which was found beside the body. They learned he had suffered from insomnia for three weeks and had been under care of a physician. He was 51 years of age. Mrs. Eagle, who has been ill for some time, told police her husband had no financial worries.

MORROW FETED LIKE HERO

Zzpotecan Indians Pay Exceptional Tribute and Confer Every Possible Honor on Envoy

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2. (AP)—American Ambassador Morrow is friend, brother and honorary headman of a tribe of Zapotecan Indians down in the tropics of Oaxaca State, so proclaimed by conclave of the clan.

He is honorary Mayor of the town of Tule, where grows the gigantic cypress tree, considered the oldest living thing on earth. It is 160 feet in circumference and scientists say it was 3000 years of age when Columbus discovered America. Perhaps it never has seen anything stranger than a Zapotecan chieftain giving Morrow an "abrazo," or hug, patting him affectionately on the back in the custom of the country, while an orchestra of barefooted or sandaled Indians in suits like white cotton pajamas played the "Star Spangled Banner" and then yelled "viva, Mees-ter Morrow! Viva, el senor Presidente Coolidge! Viva los Gringos!"

The Ambassador is honorary Mayor of Mitla, where he visited the ruins of an enigmatic civilisation, gone and forgotten unknown ages ago, once mighty, it would seem, but now just another of the puzzling tracery of Mexico's mysterious past.

DWIGHT W. MORROW

He is an honorary citizen of Oaxaca and of Puebla and of every town, village and hamlet in between. Apparently the only reason he wasn't made honorary Governor of a few States during his recent travels was that nobody thought of it. Everything that anybody could think of to do honor to the visiting American Ambassador was done. While Mr. Morrow was supposed to be on a quiet little sightseeing trip in a private and personal capacity, he was handled like a national hero.

He was feted and honored and fussed over in a way not many Mexicans and probably no foreigner except Lindbergh has been treated in Mexico.

The train roared down out of the mountains into a village of bamboo, straw-thatched huts, almost hidden under cocoanut and banana palms, and was surrounded by several hundred Indians, barefooted or with sandals, tossing their big straw sombreros in the air, waving home-made tissue-paper flags of red, white and blue, promiscuously splashed with stars, and shouting "Viva, Mees-ter Morrow," at the top of their lungs. The place resounded with explosions of native firecrackers, bamboo joints packed with gunpowder. Stalks of bamboo and sugar cane were stuck in the ground in rows along each side of the railroad track—a sign of especial distinction.

BARRAGE OF FLOWERS

The Indians pelted with gorgeous tropical flowers a smiling little man upon the back platform, who waved back at them and returned their salutations with a few words of Spanish. Then they viva-ed "Mees-ter Morrow" all the more. The Spanish was pretty bad, but, as everywhere, Morrow's linguistic ventures make him "muy simpatico" with the Mexicans. The fact that he tries to talk to them in their own language probably has done more to popularize Morrow in Mexico than anything else. In all their lives these kindly, simple Indians have seen few distinguished foreigners. Most of them have seen none. It touches them that this man of whom they have heard much should come among them with an air of simple friendship. They undoubtedly had been told to turn out for Morrow. But they did it with a spirit no order could have inspired.

BET DECLINED

After one of these stops, Col. Alexander McNab, United States military attache, who speaks Spanish fluently and often is Morrow's interpreter, entered the club car snorting.

"Well, I'm through with him!" proclaimed McNab. "Here's where my job's finished. When he gets so he can make a back-platform stump speech in Spanish and make 'em like it he needs me no longer. I'll bet five to three he's making a stab at talking Zapotecan before we go 100 miles farther."

Nobody took the bet.

And under the big tree of Tule Morrow asked the Indian hearman who hugged him, how to say "thank you, very much," in Zapotecan, and then Morrow said it in Zapotecan.

Parkhurst Hoists Hoover's Banner

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—Rev. Charles Henry Parkhurst, for many years pastor of the old Madison Square Presbyterian Church and president of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, today notified Republican headquarters here that he and Mrs. Parkhurst would support Herbert Hoover for President.

"Gov. Smith," he said, "has tremendous energy, clear thought and the ability to make himself clear to the minds of the people, but . . . Tammany cannot change; it is organized corruption and Mr. Smith as a decisive influence in Tammany Hall has not experienced any change of heart."

MISSING FLYERS FOUND IN NORTH

Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, pilots of the airplane Greater Rockford, which disappeared on a flight to Stockholm, Sweden, was received.

A spontaneous celebration took form on the streets as throngs rushed downtown for the latest word concerning the two flyers whom they had believed lost.

First word of the safety of the two men was received over the radio by citizens of Rockford.

Factory whistles were sounded and a continuous din kept up as cheers of the celebrants mingled with the shriek of whistles.

Mrs. Hassell, wife of the pilot, was hysterical.

"I would have kept my hope if he had been gone a year," she said, while hundreds of laughing, shouting people swirled around her little cottage.

The three children of the Greater Rockford's pilot were awakened. The oldest is 5 years of age.

"Daddy's coming home soon," their mother told them.

Mrs. Fannie Cramer, mother of Parker Cramer, was so overcome with joy that she hardly could express her happiness. "I'm so glad," was all she could say.

Throughout the days of doubt, Mrs. Hassell had remained calm. Neighbors say she comforted them more than they could comfort her.

But tonight her self-control was gone. She laughed and cried alternately. "I wonder how long it will be before he gets home," she said.

The Greater Rockford took off on its flight after a summer of illluck which pursued it almost since it was received from the Stinson-Detroiter factory.

During a trial flight early in the summer, the plane landed in a cornfield in Iowa and was damaged so badly it had to be shipped to the Stinson-Detroiter factory for repairs. On another flight to Memphis, Tenn., the ship was forced down because of lack of fuel.

Plans were finally completed for the crash, but Hassell, the pilot, and a beautiful run, the Greater Rockford took the air and disappeared in the mist at the end of the flying field. Five minutes later another airplane returned to the field to tell the throngs there that the Greater Rockford had been forced to land in a cornfield five miles away.

The plane again was damaged in the crash, but Hassel, the pilot, and Cramer, the navigator, escaped injury. The Greater Rockford was returned to the factory for repairs and two weeks later, August 16, it again hopped off, with Cochrane, Ont., its first destination. Its takeoff from Cochrane was delayed for two days by rain.

After taking off from Cochrane, the plane's radio was heard at frequent intervals until signals suddenly ceased at 3 a.m. Sunday morning, August 19, when it was about seventy-five miles off Cape Chidley, on its way to its second destination, Mt. Evans, Greenland.

BROTHER REFUSED AID LEARNS OF KIN'S SAFETY

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (Exclusive) Dejected because of his failure to obtain governmental assistance for a relief expedition to Greenland, William H. Cramer, youthful brother of Parker Cramer, one of the Greater Rockford flyers, went to the office of the New York Times tonight and learned that his brother and Bert Hassell, pilot of the plane, are safe.

Mr. Cramer earlier in the day had made a personal appeal to Assistant Secretary of War Davison, only to have the latter deny, regretfully, his request that Army planes be sent to Greenland to hunt for the missing aviators.

RAIL MEN COUNT VOTE ON STRIKE

Action of Western Employees Depends on Result

Tally Will be Complete Some Time Today

Workers Will Urge Walkout, Official States

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—[illegible] officials tonight were counting the strike vote of 70,000 employees of western railroads. The only possibility of averting a walkout, if the vote is voted, they said lay in the proposed plan tentatively agreed upon at a recent Washington conference of union heads and the Federal Mediation Board.

E. F. Curtis, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors [illegible] Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and A. F. Whitney, Cleveland, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, are counting the vote. Curtis said, however, the count had not been finished and the results would be made public tomorrow.

"Ninety-five per cent of the votes will be in favor of a strike," one railway official, who did not want his name made public, said. "The votes always are."

The Order of Railroad Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen of the western roads have demanded a wage increase of 7½ per cent on the grounds that southeastern and eastern lines have been given such an increase.

The roads offered to meet the demand if the unions would agree to abrogate certain rules, but the unions refused. Negotiations between the roads and the unions were broken off three weeks ago.

Smith Corrects Error Made in Walsh Attack

"My attention has been called to a stenographic error in a statement made by Senator Walsh of Montana and released from the executive mansion.

"The Senator, speaking of the iniquities of the Republican administration in Washington, made specific reference to 'Forbes and Miller.' Through a stenographic error it was written 'Forbes and Wilson.' Senator Walsh made no mention of Secretary Mellon in this connection, and I join with the Senator in expressing regret at the cause of the error."

The statement referred to by Gov. Smith was issued by Senator Walsh at the time of his speech on the Democratic Presidential nominee here two weeks ago.

STRATON IN NEW SMITH ATTACK

'Ask Day of Fast and Prayer to Beat Executive

New York Governor Called "Liquor's Best Friend"

"Bad Citizenship of Good Man" Denounced

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—Repeating his pulpit attack on Gov. Smith and his supporters in the Presidential campaign, Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton in his sermon at Calvary Baptist Church tonight urged that the "antiliquor, anti-Romanism forces call for a day of fasting and prayer in the near future and for another such day just before the election on November 6."

The pastor, who twice has called Smith "the greatest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom," said tonight that Smith is "the chief friend of liquor in America today."

He declared, "because of the vital interests at stake," the policies of New York newspapers of both parties in advocating changes in the prohibition laws.

WILL DESERVE FATE

"One of the sorest maladies from which America suffers is the bad citizenship of good men," Dr. Straton said. "Wrong or evil men are elected and put into power . . . because many of our 'best citizens' are so busy making money and enjoying their own homes they are not willing to cast a clean ballot for wise and righteous rulers. If we let Tammanyise the United States by putting the greatest live Tammany tool in the Presidency we will deserve our fate."

The "practical anarchy" which ruled in Chicago "until the city's slumbering civic conscience was awakened," Dr. Straton cited as the condition which may be expected everywhere unless the tendencies toward lawlessness, vice and crime are checked and clean, honest and courageous officials put into office."

ONE REAL SERVICE

"We can thank candidate Smith for the one real service thus rendered in the campaign," Dr. Straton said. "That is his boldness in openly forcing the liquor issue squarely to the front.

"We therefore now have a chance in this country to settle this matter once and forever . . . by an overwhelming defeat of the chief friend of liquor in America today—the Democratic candidate for President."

SENATOR TYDINGS DENOUNCES STRATON

ROCKY POINT (R. I.) Sept. 2. (AP)—Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the National Democratic Committee, opened the Smith campaign in Rhode Island today with an address here which his listeners regarded as an attack on the John Roach Straton, who from a New York pulpit twice has called Gov. Smith "the bitterest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom."

"Gov. Smith need not fear the attacks directed at him," Senator Tydings said. "Take the activity of some publicity seeking clergyman. There is nothing so despisable in a Democratic government as the attempt to assassinate a man's character in a place where he has no chance to defend himself from the attack made upon him.

"The clergyman, whatever his sect or creed, who uses his pulpit as a place of vilification and slander shows he is unfit to wear the mantle of religion. He knows the person he attacks cannot reply. He knows the person attacked can never plead his case to the exact audience which heard him denounced. He knows that in the sacred precincts of a Jewish synagogue, a Catholic cathedral or a Baptist tabernacle, all he may say, true or untrue, justifiable or slanderous, is said where no answering voice can be raised.

"The clergyman therefore who will use his pulpit in such an irreligious and unchristian manner and who attempts to assassinate the character of another is no different from the sneak thief who behind the protection of a gun takes the worldly goods of his victim. The cases are in point. One attacks from the pulpit; the other from behind a gun."

The meeting, arranged by Senator Peter G. Gerry, member of the Democratic National Advisory Committee, was held under auspices of the Rhode Island general committee.

ARIZONA PLACED ON HOOVER LIST

Republican State Chairman Sees Victory There

Democratic Hopes Declared to be Ridiculous

Eastern Leader Announces List of Speakers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Arizona will cast its electoral votes for Hoover, according to advices received by the Republican national headquarters today.

"Arizona is a western State—west of the Rocky Mountains, and our citizens want a President whose knowledge of geography extends beyond the Hudson River," George W. Mickle, Republican State chairman of Arizona, declared in his telegram to Chairman Work.

The Arizona State chairman branded as ridiculous the recent claims of Democratic Chairman Raskob that Arizona will go Democratic.

FIGURES QUOTED

The remainder of his wire said: "President Harding carried Arizona by a majority of 7470, and President Coolidge, with the Republican vote split because of the candidacy of La Follette, obtained a majority of about 4000. Our recent primary registration shows a Republican gain of 5181 and a Democratic loss. Moreover, thousands of Democrats in this State will vote for Hoover."

Because of prevailing prosperity, Mickle said, the electorate of Arizona is enthusiastic in its support of Hoover and Curtis, believing that present conditions can be maintained only under a Republican administration.

LIST OF SPEAKERS

Col. John Q. Tilson, director of the eastern division of the national Republican speakers' Bureau in charge of the fight in the East to elect Hoover, announced in New York a comprehensive list of speakers for the eastern territory and some of their assignments for the month of September. The announcement was made following a conference with Mr. Hoover and other leaders.

"Republican speakers will not indulge in 'mud slinging,'" Col. Tilson said. "The voters' interest in this campaign lies in the record, achievements and character of Herbert Hoover and Senator Curtis. Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech and the Republican platform have proved to be of far greater interest to the voters than any mud-heaving or tale-twisting tactics."

The territory of the eastern division of the speakers' bureau includes New England, New York and New Jersey, the Middle Atlantic States and West Virginia.

Nearly 200 popular speakers have been selected so far from a large number of prominent men and women who have volunteered their services or have been asked to speak by local committees.

Hawaiian Company Raises Twelve Tons on Each of 6139 Acres

HONOLULU, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Breaking the world's record for sugar production, the Oahu Sugar Company has produced an average of 12.02 tons of commercial sugar per acre from the 6139.28 acres of cane harvested for the crop of 1928. Other plantations here and in Java have grown more sugar on small plots, but never before has a like yield been obtained from one block of cane covering nine and three-fifths square miles.

SMITH FARM FUND MAKES GOOD SMILE

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—James W. Good, western Republican campaign manager, yesterday scoffed at the vote-getting propensities of the $1,000,000 which John J. Raskob, Democratic campaign manager, says his party expects to spend in the Middle West.

Mr. Good returned from Washington after a week of conferences with Herbert Hoover, Republican Presidential candidate, with the comment that "you cannot fool the farmer and cannot buy him. He knows what has been done."

Concerning the Democratic party's campaign expenditure in the Middle West, Mr. Good said: "It will be indeed interesting to watch the expenditure of $500,000 among the farmers in an effort to make them believe that Democracy is now in favor of the high cost of living and the expenditure of a like sum among the producers in the same territory in an effort to convince them that the Democrats are in favor of reducing the high cost of living."

RICH UNCLE BEQUEST NOT ALWAYS FICTION

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 2. (AP)—Mrs. Lenna Huber of this city is among those who know the rich-uncle bequest is not always a bit of fiction. After working as a telephone operator since 1919 she has inherited $100,000 from the estate of her uncle, Charles Edward Wayne, who died August 15. So Mr. Huber, who operates a modest cafeteria here, can branch out into bigger quarters if he desires, and Burnell Huber, 18 years of age, can have that college education.

HEADQUARTERS OF G.O.P. BUSY

Washington Offices Grow at Rapid Pace

Men and Women Have Equal Space There

Many Activities Centered in Barr Building

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—From the modest beginning which Herbert Hoover had planned, Republican national headquarters here have grown apace since the opening of the campaign and now have spread out over two huge office buildings in the downtown section.

The visitor to the home of the national committee who gets past the din of carpenters hammering on the ground floor of the Barr Building finds that the headquarters have overflowed from the two floors originally rented into rooms on two other floors and to additional space in the Transportation Building, a block away.

The center of activities remains on the fourth floor of the Barr Building and the front rooms, with wide windows overlooking the trees of McPherson Square, still have an air of quiet spaciousness, though behind, above and below them there is a hum of crowded activity.

ROOMS DIVIDED

Divided with careful equity between Republican manhood and womanhood, the airy front rooms, sunless except in the early morning, are allotted to Dr. Hubert Work, the national chairman, on the one side and Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice-chairman, on the other, with offices between for their aides, Lee Nixon and Mrs. E. T. Weimore.

In their respective sanctums, across large mahogany desks and under favorite pictures of the candidates, the two national leaders interview endless streams of visitors, drawing together the reins of organization that are passed on to the Presidential candidate.

Dr. Work's visitors are met in a small central reception room between the two, with only space for a desk and a few chairs, but several partitions were knocked out to make space for a much larger lounge for Mrs. Hert's women callers. There, large comfortable wicker chairs and magazine-strewn tables await them, with negro maids to ask their signatures in the register and introduce them to Mrs. Weimore.

PUBLICITY GROUP

Down the long corridor toward the back of the building, where Lawrence Richey, close personal friend and adviser of the candidate, has his office, two rows of tiny, box-like offices, simply furnished in maple, house a number of activities, among them men's and women's publicity under former Gov. Allen of Kansas and Mrs. Steese Richardson of New York.

The ground floor, where the press department has its batteries of typewriters and mimeograph machines, still is a maze of half-finished partitions, and typists and pressmen work in an endless bedlam of noise. High above, on the eighth and tenth floors, research offices for elaborate election statistics from every section of the country and business offices for all the detail of ordering supplies, have been installed.

At the entrance on the ground floor of the building, quarters are provided for the negro organization. There a large force of officers and clerks handle the details of work being carried on among the negroes all over the country, east and north as well as south, and there, too, a steady stream of visitors finds its way.

Specialized moving-picture, radio and foreign-language campaigns all are directed from the overflow offices in the Transportation Building. From there national committee photographers for both "stills" and "movies" are sent out with both the Presidential and Vice-Presidential nominees. The first "regional broadcasting" has been planned for next week in Maine.

"Because of the widely varied interests of different parts of the country," Paul Gascoigne, head of the new radio division, says, "it has been thought more practical for the local listeners in many centers to have the speakers discuss phases of the party's policy which are of particular interest to them."

DICTIONARY GIVES OUT BEFORE YOUNG SPELLERS MISS A WORD

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2. (AP)—The spelling bees held here yesterday in connection with the State Fair proved so successful that one of them, the elementary school division contest, had to be called off when twelve children had survived all prepared lists after six hours and apparently could not be "stumped" by any word in the dictionary.

Leonard Randall, Auburn, Placer county, won first place in the high-school division. Alice McCune, Pacific Grove, Monterey county, won second and Mary E. Comings of Romona, San Diego, finished third.

Young Randall is to receive a $200 cash prize and a gold medal. Miss McCune will receive $100 cash award and a silver medal, while Miss Comings is to get a bronze medal and $50 in cash.

The real interest centered in the elementary division. The contest started with representatives from forty-seven counties. By noon practically every available list of hundreds of words each had been "spelled out" and some thirty contestants still survived.

Through the afternoon session the children struggled cautiously with words given them by J. B. Lillard, president of the Sacramento Junior College. Late in the day, with twelve survivors undefeated the contest was called off for lack of new words and the prizes were split as follows:

Burton Goldstein, Sutter county and Elsie Lewis, San Luis Obispo county, were awarded $42.50 cash each. They had spelled every word without an error.

Three awards of $30 each went to James Collins, Fresno; Aya Mangta, San Jose, and Charlotte Hudson, Watsonville. They made but three mistakes each.

Awards of $25 each went to Ruth Barnes, Goldrun, Placer county; Elbert Papecott, Yreka; Ernestine Nichols, Red Bluff; Dorris Swanson, Turlock; Orlando Wiebe, Bakersfield; Dorothy Nelson, Los Angeles and Hugh Skinner of Chula Vista, San Diego county.

A spelling contest for adults is to be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

EARLY BIRDS OF SESSION ARRIVE

Capital Fast Filling Up With Legislators

Members Convene Tomorrow to Tinker Tax Law

State Faces $20,000,000 Loss, Governor Declares

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Senators and Assemblymen of the California Legislature were beginning to arrive in Sacramento today for the special legislative session called by Gov. Young to convene at 11 a.m., Tuesday, for consideration of the proposed constitutional amendment relative to taxation of banks and corporations of the State.

There appeared to be little speculation on the part of the lawmakers as to what may be done about the taxation problem when the two houses are called to order.

Gov. Young labored until late Saturday on his message to the Legislature. The Governor has repeatedly declared that if the legislators do not devise some means of relieving the present situation the State is likely to lose more than $20,000,000.

GOV. SMITH PLANS WEEK MINUS CARE

Nominee to Stay at Home and Prepare Himself for Speech-making Tour

ALBANY (N. Y.) Sept. 2. (AP)—Pending completion of his speech-making itinerary, Gov. Smith will continue to groom himself for the Presidential campaign in the seclusion of the executive mansion here and on the golf links.

With Mrs. Smith and his friend, William F. Kenny of New York, a house guest, the Democratic Presidential nominee attended mass this morning at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception.

Meanwhile, the nominee's schedule for his first speaking trip in behalf of his Presidential candidacy is rapidly taking definite form.

While this is being prepared, particular attention is being given to the creation of a reference library for installation on the Governor's special train. This library will be very extensive, covering nearly every speech the Governor has ever made and embracing material on national subjects from which he will draw in taking his campaign to the people.

RELIGIOUS TOLERANCE HELD ISSUE

Van Dyke Says Smith's Election Would Be Proof of American Freedom

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—Dr. Henry Van Dyke, moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, which met here in 1902, in a statement made public by the Democratic National Committee yesterday declared religious tolerance to be the principal issue in this year's Presidential campaign.

His statement was sent from Seal Harbor, Me., to William Church Osborn, Director of Finance in this State for the Democratic National Committee. While it espouses the cause of Gov. Smith, it does not in so many words come out for his election as President.

Few of those who will vote this year, Dr. Van Dyke said, have any comprehension of the "fierceness and subtlety with which American freedom is now being attacked," by a "widespread cabal to keep one of the candidates from being elected because he is a member of the Catholic Church."

Election of a Catholic to the Presidency, he said, would "prove the reality of American freedom by manifesting the firmness of the separation between Church and State."

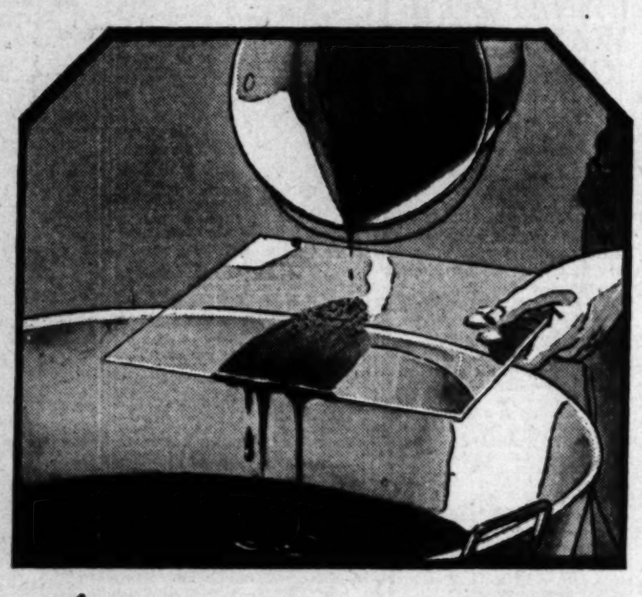
Drys Plan for New York Fight

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the national committee of the Prohibition party, left for New York today to lay plans for an extensive "anti-Smith" campaign, to be waged entirely separate from that of William F. Varney, Presidential nominee of the party.

The two lines of attack were decided on at a meeting of the executive committee here this week-end when, by a vote of four to three, it was agreed that Varney and James Edgerton, Vice-Presidential nominee, will be kept in the running. Varney has made tentative plans for a special campaign committee, with Dr. B. E. P. Pruch of Harrisburg, Pa., as chairman.

This hard gritty carbon that causes wear

There's an oil now that forms none of it!



Pour waste oil on a pane of glass—you'll see bits of metal "filings" from your motor's moving parts. And "dirt"—gritty black carbon that causes wear!

Shell Motor Oil forms only 1/3 to 1/5 the carbon of even the costliest oils—and soft, soot-like carbon that easily blows away through the exhaust

You likely think of carbon as it forms in hard layers on piston and cylinder heads—removed only by expensive scraping.

But the tiny abrasive chips of flint carbon that constantly "sandpaper" your bearings, your cylinder walls—every moving engine part—they'll wear your motor out before its time!

And you may be blaming hard carbon to something other than its real cause. It comes from burned motor oil. It causes knocking, you may know. Flakes chip off and get under valves, holding them open to waste power, to burn and warp.

Strangely enough, even the costliest oils often form the most carbon—three to five times as much. And the carbon they form is hard, flint-like—the sort that causes serious damage.

So you can't judge motor oils on "lubricating value" alone. A vital point is the carbon they form—How much? What kind? There is one oil you should know about in this connection.

Soft carbon—and only a little of it

Shell Motor Oil, made by a new refining process, forms less carbon than any oil you can buy. What little it does form is soft, sooty—blows away through the exhaust.

It has a remarkably high heat resistance, holds its sturdy lubricant body under heat that would ruin ordinary oils.

In every way it is a smoother, finer lubricant; you are fully justified in saying that it "adds thousands of miles to the life of your car."

Insist that Shell Motor Oil be put into your car when you refill, when you buy extra oil. You are sure then not only of good lubrication—but freedom from gritty carbon.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

Shell 400, the new "dry" gas that explodes cleanly and keeps out of the crankcase, is the ideal running mate for Shell Motor Oil. Even Shell Motor Oil can be ruined by "thinning" with a "wet" gas

BUELL RETORTS IN LIBERIA CASE

Defends His Statement on Firestone Deal

Argues That Washington Was Involved

Calls on Government to Publish Data

RICHMOND (Mass.) Sept. 2. (AP) Prof. Raymond Leslie Buell, research director of the Foreign Policy Association, said today that after reading the reply of the State Department and President King to his address on Liberia before the Williamstown (Mass.) Institute of Politics, he is of the opinion they had failed "to comprehend my position."

"My fundamental contentions," Prof. Buell said, "were:

"(1.) That if Mr. Firestone carries out his announced plan of developing 1,000,000 acres of rubber land in Liberia and of employing 3,000,000 men, it is inevitable that, despite his good intentions, compulsory labor and native demoralization will result. This has happened whenever the plantation system on a large scale has been introduced elsewhere in Africa.

LOAN REFUNDED

"(2.) That the new 7 per cent loan, upon which Mr. Firestone insisted, fulfills no productive purpose since the larger part of its proceeds merely refunds a 5 per cent loan which would have expired in 1962. The new 7 per cent loan does not expire until 1967 and Liberia cannot even refund it during twenty years without the consent of the finance corporation, that is, Mr. Firestone.

"(3.) That the State Department was actively connected with the negotiations. It is difficult to understand Mr. Castle's statement that the department took 'no more part in the loan than it does in any foreign loan' when in the loan agreement, the text of which remains unpublished, the President of the United States is authorized to 'designate' the financial adviser of Liberia and the State Department is authorized to arrange with Liberia for the arbitration of disputes. Obviously the finance corporation and the Liberian government, the parties to the loan agreement, would not have inserted these provisions without the active co-operation and assistance of the State Department, which the department does not give in the case of ordinary foreign loans. The participation of the department in the negotiations for the concession, as distinct from the loan, is proved by Mr. Castle's statement that the department proposed amendments to the agreement and by the fact that it agreed to arrange for arbitration of disputes.

BASIS OF STATEMENT

"Mr. Castle asserts that there was no connection between the loan and the boundary dispute. President King would seem to support the contrary position when he states that the effect of the loan has 'been to avert foreign intervention' and that 'there have been crises in our relations with the French government growing out of undetermined frontiers.' That many Liberians believe that in accepting the loan they were obtaining the diplomatic support of the United States is proved by quotations from the Liberian press.

"All of the statements made at Williamstown were based on my report to the Harvard bureau of international research, entitled 'The Native Problem in Africa,' published in May, 1928. Before publication the Liberia manuscript was submitted to the State Department. While dissenting vigorously from the conclusion and interpretation, the department representative specifically challenged only one fact, which I therefore omitted. The manuscript was also checked by three other persons in first-hand touch with Liberia.

"The only reason that I enter into these details is that Mr. Castle and President King have challenged my accuracy and disinterestedness. Despite the length of their statements, neither Mr. Castle nor President King meet any of my fundamental contentions. In fact, their statements contradict each other. If the public is to form a judgment, the State Department should publish not only the text of the loan agreement but all correspondence and cables in regard to Liberia during the last five years."

SOUTHLAND DAIRIES WIN FIRST PLACE

Receive Most of High Marks In State Fair Cream and Milk Judging

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Southern California dairies were listed today as winners of most of the high score in the milk-and-cream judging at the State Fair. The scores were made on the basis of bacteria, flavor and color, visible dirt, fat, solids not fat, acidity and bottle and cap. Perfect scoring was made on the basis of 100 per cent.

The dairy inspectors who obtained the highest scores for their inspection were Dr. William Voit of Los Angeles, first with 98.5 per cent and R. J. Wheeler, Pasadena, second with 98 per cent.

The following were winning dairies and their scores in percentage, and in the order named:

Certified milk: Ideal Dairy, Los Angeles, 99.1; Arden Dairy Inc., El Monte, 98.9; Meadowlark Cert Dairy, Pleasanton, 97.5.

Guaranteed Milk: Santa Monica Dairy Company, Venice, 98.5; Sanitary Gold Seal, Los Angeles, 98.3; Brant Rancho, Owensmouth, 98.2.

Grade A milk, pasteurized: Model Creamery, Redlands, 98.7; Crown City Dairy, Pasadena, 98.5; Mountain View Dairies, Long Beach, 98.4.

Grade A cream, raw: Model Creamery, Redlands, 96.5; Sherman Dairy, El Monte, 95.75; Del Bridge Dairy, Pasadena, 93.35.

MOTORCYCLE PLUNGE PROVES FATAL TO TWO

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2. (AP)—John Neidech, 22 years of age, and John Buckwald, 23, both of San Francisco, were fatally injured early today, when a motorcycle on which they were riding dropped into a street excavation. Buckwald, the driver, died of a fractured skull and internal injuries en route to a hospital. Neidech died an hour later. Witnesses said the motorcycle ran past danger signals warning traffic away from the excavation.

PEDESTRIAN HAS DAY OF BUMPS

One Car Strikes Him and Goes On and Second Does Likewise

PORT JERVIS (N. Y.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Irving Shirpo of Loch Sheldrake is in grave doubt tonight as to whether he is a pedestrian or a basketball.

Walking along a highway near here he was knocked over by an automobile. The driver sped away. Picking himself up, he shook an irate fist at the retreating machine. As he did so a second machine, approaching from the rear, bounced him into a ditch.

Limping to a local hospital he received first-aid treatment and confessed he had been unable to remember the license-plate numbers on either car that hit him.

SPRY FROG HOPS INTO ETERNITY

Orange County's Entrant In State Fair Jumping Contest Croaks

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2. (AP) Louie Hop, one of Orange county's champion hopping frogs entered in the State Fair contest, died today and as a result charges and counter-charges are flying about official headquarters.

Orange county representatives declared someone strangled Louie with a dry tough Sacramento Valley fly. They sent a hurry call to Orange county for more palatable morsels for Otto Hop, Louie's mate.

Calaveras county frog breeders scoff at the murder theory and declare Louie died from mortification after watching a Calaveras entry make an eight-foot practice hop without effort.

CANAL ZONE WAR TO OPEN ON MALARIA

Gorgas Memorial Will be Housed in Medical School to Begin Research Work

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—Control of malaria will be the first objective in the program of preventive medicine research by the Gorgas Memorial Institute in Panama, Dr. Franklin Martin, president of the institute, said today on his return from that country after a year of preparation for the institute's work.

Arrangements have been made with the Republic of Panama, he said, for the use of its medical school building as a temporary laboratory for the next three years while the institute's permanent building is under construction. Congress has made an annual appropriation of $50,000 for five years to finance the research.

"President Chiari of Panama," Dr. Martin said, "formally presented the medical school building for our use last month. A scientist with unusual experience in tropical medicine and sanitation has been suggested as director of the institute and preliminary negotiations indicate he will accept."

Dr. Martin, who also is president-elect of the American College of Surgeons, left for his home in Chicago after a few hours here.

Reds All Het Up Fearing Powers May Swat Soviet

MOSCOW, Sept. 2. (AP) — The sixth International Communist Congress at its closing session today issued a manifesto to the "world proletariat" declaring the great powers are preparing for war against soviet Russia and picturing the United States as continually seeking to acquire new territory "including some of Breat Britain's colonies."

The congress decided to organize a "Red Day" in every country of the world as propaganda against the "military danger."

Applications for reinstatement to party councils from Leon Trotzky, Stefan Radek and others, were rejected unanimously. At the same time the congress admitted to membership Socialist parties in Cuba, Equador, Colombia, Ireland, Korea, Paraguay and New Zealand.

BAKERSFIELD FAIR NEARING

Secretary Cady Promises All Will be Ready

Main Tent Largest Ever Used for Local Show

Musical Comedy Company May Prove Innovation

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 2.—Final preparations are under way this week for what promises to be the largest and most successful county fair ever held in this city. Nearly 30,000 feet of board flooring were laid last week, preparatory to the raising of a canvas to 60x300 feet, forming the Varied Industries Building. This huge expanse of canvas shelters 160 feet frontage more than was ever before available for industrial display space at the county fair, according to Secretary R. E. Cady.

Booths for the twelve competitive community exhibits in agricultural hall were finished Saturday, ready for preliminary work Monday by the various centers. Kern Delta and Magunden were expected to be the first to occupy their booths. These and ten other farm centers will spend the week painting backgrounds and otherwise preparing to carry out their secret "central ideas."

OPENING ON THE 1ST INST.

By Tuesday morning, the 11th inst., at 10 o'clock, the opening day of the fair, all twelve centers must be ready for the verdict of the judges, one being selected from each center. No judge will be allowed to pass on the exhibit representing his own community, so that eleven impartial votes will be received for each booth. The centers entered this year are: Delano, McFarland, Wasco, Shafter, Arvin, Weed Patch, Magunden, Kern Delta, Rio Bravo, Tehachapi, Pond and Rosedale.

Booths for restaurant concessions have been built in two parallel rows under the grandstand, and all eating concessions will be confined to this region. The administrative office of the fair association has been moved from its former location on Chester avenue to the fairgrounds.

Besides the mammoth Varied Industries Building extending from the main entrance gate to the door of Agricultural Hall, a permanent building, two smaller tents at the east side of the fairgrounds are machinery hall and for the auto show.

ENTERTAINMENTS FREE

On stages in all these buildings the Eastworth and Carlyle Bureau will offer free entertainment at frequent intervals throughout fair week. As free attractions before the grandstand, replacing the traditional horse and auto races of fair week, this same company will present the comic opera "Pinafore," an extravaganza entitled "The Yank from Kern" and a Kern county edition of "The Follies of 1928." Local choruses will participate in these offerings.

In addition to the free entertainment, Foley and Burke will bring their midway attractions to the fair, coming directly from the State fair at Sacramento with twenty-two carloads of equipment. The entire space between Agricultural Hall and the stock pens at the west side of the grounds will be designated as the pleasure zone this year.

Significant features of this year's fair, said Secretary Cady, are the heavy live stock entries, a department which will be of outstanding interest. An egg-laying contest, in the poultry department, and butterfat production contest for dairy cows are scheduled events.

LAW WAITS FOR MAN TO COME OUT OF JAIL

TULARE, Sept. 2.—When W. E. Bibb, local restaurant proprietor, now serving a 500-day sentence in the Tulare County Jail for possession of liquor, obtains his long-awaited release, he will face another officer with a warrant for his arrest on charge of liquor ownership growing out of the recent trial of Mrs. Ollie Maddy of this city. Bibb, then an inmate of the County Jail, was brought into court during Mrs. Maddy's trial and declared that he owned the liquor found in the woman's residence, where he had been a boarder.

Mexican Bandits on Raid of American Owned Mine Near Humboldt Mine in State of Nayarit—This unusual photo was taken by a former mine official, an Angeleno, immediately after the band had levied tribute. He was later kidnaped and held for ransom as E. J. Bumsted of Los Angeles, manager of the Humboldt mine, is now being held. The name of the former official is withheld at his request.

The New Governor of North Dakota, former Lieut.-Gov. Walter Maddock, is presented above. He succeeds the late Gov. H. E. Sorlie, who died a few days ago. (A. P. photo.)

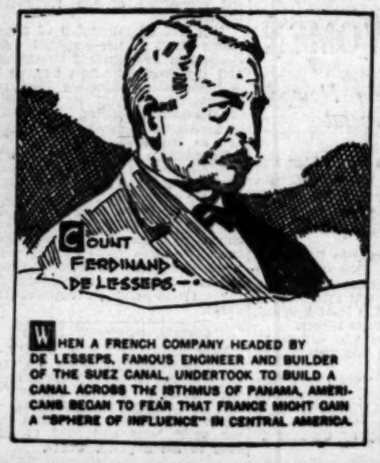
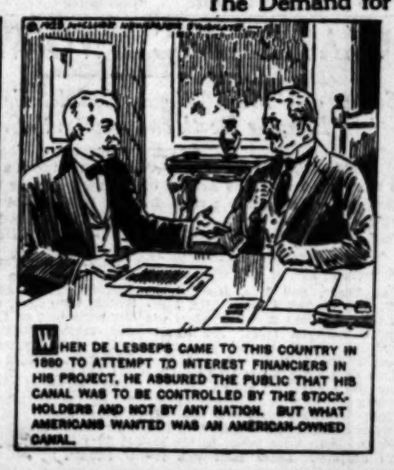
The Story of the Panama Canal—Part 7.
The Demand for An American Canal.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

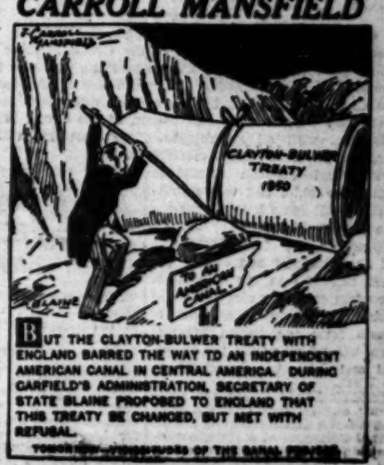


WHEN A FRENCH COMPANY HEADED BY DE LESSEPS, FAMOUS ENGINEER AND BUILDER OF THE SUEZ CANAL, UNDERTOOK TO BUILD A CANAL ACROSS THE ISTHMUS OF PANAMA, AMERICANS BEGAN TO FEAR THAT FRANCE MIGHT GAIN A "SPHERE OF INFLUENCE" IN CENTRAL AMERICA.



WHEN DE LESSEPS CAME TO THIS COUNTRY IN 1880 TO ATTEMPT TO INTEREST FINANCIERS IN HIS PROJECT, HE ASSURED THE PUBLIC THAT HIS CANAL WAS TO BE CONTROLLED BY THE STOCKHOLDERS AND NOT BY ANY NATION. BUT WHAT AMERICANS WANTED WAS AN AMERICAN-OWNED CANAL.

IN THE SAME YEAR, PRESIDENT HAYES IN A MESSAGE TO CONGRESS RECOMMENDED AN AMERICAN ISTHMIAN CANAL. "SUCH A WORK," HE SAID, "WOULD CHANGE OUR GEOGRAPHICAL CONDITIONS AND BECOME VIRTUALLY A PART OF OUR COAST LINE."



BUT THE CLAYTON-BULWER TREATY WITH ENGLAND BARRED THE WAY TO AN INDEPENDENT AMERICAN CANAL IN CENTRAL AMERICA. DURING GARFIELD'S ADMINISTRATION, SECRETARY OF STATE BLAINE PROPOSED TO ENGLAND THAT THIS TREATY BE CHANGED, BUT MET WITH REFUSAL.

SAN DIEGANS TO "DIG DEEP"

Property Owners Must Pay Huge Amount in Taxes

Bond Costs Due in October Mainly Responsible

Basic Tax of $3.06 Carries Numerous Additions

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 2.—Property owners whose lands are included in these districts will have to "dig deep" this fall to pay assessments. Both city and county have spent millions of dollars in the last two years on street paving and other public improvements, issuing bonds in payment of this work. Interest and sinking fund on the bonds are due and payable with the State and county taxes and a huge amount must be raised to meet the first payment due in October and delinquent after the first Monday in December.

San Diego county, outside the city, has fifty-one improvement districts in which assessments must be levied and collected. Many others have been formed, but not in time to be included in this year's levy. Thirty of the fifty-one districts were organized under road-improvement acts and twenty-one under the "Acquisition and Improvement" Act, known as the Mattoon law. The city of San Diego has passed a large number of improvement districts in addition to the county tax.

As required by law, the Board of Supervisors recently fixed the tax rate for the fiscal year. Pursuant to the budget adopted, the basic tax rate will be $3.06 on each $100 valuation, the same figure which prevailed last year. To this figure must be added the school tax, which in the city will bring the rate to approximately $4.88. Improvement district levies are in addition to the other taxes.

Because of the low valuation placed on much of the property included in the home-improvements districts, the rate this year will be very high. The County Additor reports a great deal of property will have to pay an amount two or three times as much as the value placed on it by the County Assessor. In some locations property has been included in more than one district and the burden will fall heavily on the owners of this realty.

Subdivisions in which streets have been paved, water mains, sewers, sidewalks, curbs and ornamental lights installed, but in which there has been but little home construction, will be required to meet their bond and interest payment the same as more settled districts. County Auditor Hammond and his chief assistant, A. B. Cunningham, are working day and night on the improvement district levies and will be able to make public early this week the assessments to be levied in the various zones and districts.

Mexican Faces Long Jail Term

SANTA PAULA, Sept. 2.—Having a quart of whisky in his possession may cause J. D. Medina, Mexican, to spend 250 days in the County Jail if he does not raise the alternate sentence of $250 fine, imposed on him in Justice Court here by Judge Dagnall, late yesterday afternoon. Medina was arrested here after Special Deputy Sheriff C. W. Gardner, followed him into Santa Paula, after seeing him stop along the roadside west of here and take a drink from a bottle. When appearing before the court, Medina showed a paper stating he had applied for a janitor position at the Los Angeles City Hall, as though it was a recommendation to his good character.

HUNTINGTON PARK VALUATIONS GROW

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 2.—Building valuations for the present year have eclipsed the first eight months of any year in the history of the city, the $2,000,000 mark in valuations having been passed. The record has been held by the year 1923, when the valuations for the first eight months reached $1,752,-35, but this record was eclipsed early this month. The year 1923 held the record for the twelve months with a total valuation of $2,700,000, but it is predicted that this year will witness the reaching of the $3,000,000 mark in building valuations.

AIR-RACE TROPHIES LISTED

Citizens Donate Beautiful Prizes

Two of the five valuable rewards, the upper being the Sid Grauman Cup to go to the first aviator to reach Los Angeles in the Class B transcontinental derby and the "Lilac Time" plaque, consisting of a gold propeller, presented by Colleen Moore for the winner of the nonstop New York-to-Los Angeles contest.

NAZARENE PROTESTS REFUSED

Pasadena City Directors Decline to Act Against Camp Meeting Permit

PASADENA, Sept. 2.—Because permission had already been given, the Board of City Directors declined to consider protests made by thirty property owners against the holding of the Annual Nazarene Camp Meeting, which opened last night in a large tent pitched on the campus of Pasadena College, local Nazarene institution.

In the petition submitted recently by property owners in the neighborhood of the campus, it was alleged that the "peace of the district had been disturbed during similar meetings in former years by objectionable shouting, screaming, yelling, howling, whistling and other disturbing noises."

Church officials declared today that similar protests have been made before and that in order to satisfy residents in the neighborhood who retire early, orders have been issued that all meetings this year shall close promptly at 10 p.m.

The permit for the 1928 meeting was issued August 3. No mention was made in the application for the permit of a "revival meeting," it was said at the City Hall.

ONE DAY DAHLIA SHOW FOR ONTARIO

ONTARIO, Sept. 2.—Launching another campaign to inspire residents of this community to raise "bigger and better" flowers, the Hot Point Floral Society announced plans for the annual dahlia show to be held in Ontario, the 8th inst.

The one-day show is to be forerunner of a greater early fall floral festival, according to plans of the society of which Tom Nagle is president.

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 2.—Donations of five handsome trophies by prominent Southern Californians, who are aviation enthusiasts, to be competed for in the National Air Races, opening here next Saturday at Mines Field, were announced today by R. J. Behan, chairman of the trophy committee of the contest board.

Sid Grauman has posted a handsome trophy cup, of the same type awarded to Col. Lindbergh at Washington, for the winner of the Class B transcontinental race through seventeen control cities from New York to Los Angeles.

W. A. Clark, III; H. J. Barneson, oil magnate, and H. Reeve Darling are the other donors announced by Behan. These trophies, according to Behan, swelled a prize list which already aggregated more than $300,000.

Swimmers Pass Examinations at Redlands Plunge

REDLANDS, Sept. 2.—Orville Sherrard, coach at Sylvan Plunge of this city, has announced those who have passed the beginners' tests and Red Cross swimmers' examinations.

The following beginners have passed the requirements which permit them to wear the coveted "beginners' button:" Charles Dibble, Harriet Hadley, Robert Cranmer, Walter Johnson, Rodney McClintock, Jimmie Hicks, Marguerite Warden, Richard Dibble, Jacoba Reiksma, Morris Arth, Mary Christine Lightfoot, Mary Larsen, Jerry Edwards, Vivian Kelsey, Peggy Nickerson, Dorothy Young, Dorothy Davis, Dorothy Sager, Bob Hager, Marian Rose, Katheryne Gaghan, Le Verna Rice, Banford Dollings, Helen Rice and May Jane Isham.

Those who passed the examinations are: Margaret Woodward, 7 years of age; Leo Woodward, Jean Marquiss, Chuck Feldman, Raymond Christensen, Bobby Jackson, Grace Hicks, Curtiss Hawkins, Newell Reynolds, Marian Rose and John Finley.

Candidates for the beginners' buttons had to jump into water over their heads, level off, swim twenty-five yards and make a sharp turn and swim back twenty-five yards.

Requirements in the swimmers' test were: Swim 100 yards using two or more strokes, swim 50 yards on the back using feet only and float; recover an object in six to eight feet of water from a surface dive; perform front or racing dive in good form and witness demonstration of artificial respiration.

Tax Rate Fixed in South Gate

SOUTH GATE, Sept. 2.—The tax rate in South Gate will be from $1.21 to $1.02 on each $100 in assessable property. This rate varies on account of the original city and of the annexations since the incorporation of the city. The rate has been under consideration for the past ten days, the matter under consideration being whether an extra tax of 9 cents should be added to finance a master city plan. It was decided to abandon the project.

POMONA NAMES SPECIAL DAYS

Management of Fair Lists Sectional Celebrations

Saturday, the 22nd Inst., Fixed For Los Angeles

POMONA, Sept. 2.—How thoroughly the entire Southland will join with the entire Pacific Coast in a record attendance at Los Angeles county fair is revealed in the arrangements just perfected by the program committee in which the various days of the fair from the opening on Tuesday, the 18th inst. through the following Sunday have been allotted to the various districts.

The opening day will be set aside for school children of the Southland. Schools in and about Pomona and the surrounding towns will be closed for the event and all children of 12 years or under will be admitted free. An invitation has been extended to Gov. C. C. Young to participate in the opening ceremonies and word comes that he will be there. It is also probable that on this day there will be the formal ground breaking for the new $160,000 permanent exposition building.

Wednesday, the 19th inst., will be Pomona and Long Beach days. Preparations are being made for handling an immense throng of visitors at that time. Long Beach has always contributed one of the largest delegations to the annual expositions and this year it is expected that the attendance from that section will be greater than ever before. The Long Beach band will accompany the visitors and special arrangements will be made by railroads and busses for getting the crowds to Pomona.

On Thursday, the 20th inst., members of the various service clubs throughout Southern California will visit the fair. They will be met by representatives of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and 20-30 clubs of Pomona and the day will be known as "club day."

Friday, the 21st inst., has been set aside for Santa Monica, the bay region, San Fernando Valley and Antelope Valley. The Santa Monica Band will head the delegations. In honor of the occasion, it is expected there will be a special matinee race program.

Saturday, the 22nd inst., promises to see a notable gathering at the fair grounds for, as in the past, Saturday is "Los Angeles Day" and a notable gathering of well-known men is expected. Among these will be Mayor Cryer and members of the City Council of Los Angeles, members of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, officers and directors of Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, heads of various civic organizations, heads of county governmental departments and many others. For this occasion the fair will be at its best. The honored guests will be personally escorted about the grounds and through the various departments.

In honor of the first Sunday opening of the fair, the day has been set aside as the day on which Los Angeles county will play host to all the outside counties. This day is expected to shatter all attendance records because of the added opportunity afforded by a Sunday to visit the great exposition. In preparation for the flood of people special transportation and parking facilities will be offered. Special traffic officers will see that there is no delay or confusion. Perhaps no similar entertainment in the country is better equipped with auto parking facilities right at the grounds. The facilities are almost unlimited and the parking spaces are clean and easy of access.

OFFICIALS OF UNIONS CONVENE IN HANFORD

HANFORD, Sept. 2.—Favorable report of union labor conditions was made at a meeting here today of the San Joaquin Valley labor conference with J. Southwick of Stockton presiding. Representatives attending were from cities and towns from Stockton to Bakersfield.

There is a high percentage of employment generally throughout the valley. Organization of seven new unions in the district in the last three months was reported. Plans were formulated for holding during the fall and winter of employers and employees get-together banquets in cities where union councils exist in the interest of good will and better mutual understanding. The next session of the conference is to be held Sunday, December 2, at Fresno.

DOVE LIMIT BROUGHT IN

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 2.—C. B. Wright, manager of one of the Guest drug stores, brought down the "limit" in dove hunting yesterday, returning to this city at 7:30 o'clock in the morning.

RESERVE OFFICERS END MEET

Col. Perry Weidner Named as California's Candidate for National Presidency

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 2. (AP)—Col. Perry W. Weidner of Los Angeles, was drafted as California's candidate for the national presidency of the Reserve Officers' Association at the closing session here today of the State convention.

Capt. Ernest W. Hansen and Lieut. Karl W. Marks, both of Los Angeles, respectively, were elected State president and secretary-treasurer. Maj. Alexander M. Barton of Sacramento was named vice-president-at-large.

Fresno was chosen as the site of the next convention, which will be held November 2 to 3, 1929.

Other officers chosen were:

Vice-presidents—Lieut. M. R. Junta, Eureka; Maj. Walter W. Wright, Sacramento; Maj. William C. West, San Francisco; Capt. G. C. Ringole, San Francisco; Maj. Z. S. Leynel, Fresno; Maj. F. A. Wright, Long Beach, and Col. W. A. McCord, Pasadena.

Councilmen—Lieut. Allan R. Watson, Eureka; Lieut. M. P. Morgan, Sacramento; Lieut. I. D. Silverstein, San Francisco; Lieut.-Col. P. C. Lasche, Palo Alto; Maj. C. K. Badger, Bakersfield; Lieut. M. B. Towman, Glendale, and Lieut. Rufus J. Pilcher, Los Angeles.

The convention unanimously went on record as opposed to any changes in the administration of reserve officers' affairs, particularly opposing the proposed creation of a special reserve bureau.

The retiring president, Maj. P. C. Means of Santa Barbara, in his report advocated a revision of the present promotion system among reserve officers.

He criticised the present promotion methods because of the stress on "time grade" instead of capacity and qualifications. "Age, military experience, and personal qualifications should enter into the promotion of officers instead of mere length of service," he said.

Lieut.-Col. Leroy Smith of Los Angeles characterized the Reserve Officers' Association as one of the bulwarks of national defense and urged a close co-operation between members. Pointing out that the association was composed of civilian soldiers, he declared its function was both political and military. "It is through this organization that we may influence the politicians to maintain the national defense," Lieut.-Col. Smith declared. "The regular soldiers and National Guard are silenced by law. They cannot petition for help or criticise inefficient administration," he added.

Brig.-Gen. Ralph H. Vandeman, commander of the Sixth Brigade of the Third Division, representing Maj.-Gen. John L. Hines, gave a report on the organization of the Ninth Area.

VENTURANS ORGANIZE IN HOOVER'S BEHALF

SANTA PAULA, Sept. 2.—Republican leaders from every section of Ventura county gathered here yesterday and formulated plans for the campaign to elect Herbert Hoover. The county was divided into districts and a chairman named from each district to carry on the campaign. Richard Bard of Hueneme was named chairman for the entire county and presided at the meeting. Ways and means of financing the campaign in this county and raising the quota for the county for the national campaign, were discussed at the meeting.

BUILDERS' CONVENTION ENDS FIRST MEETING

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 2.—Scoring the child labor laws of California, and advocating the repeal or an amendment to existing laws to permit boys 15 years of age to enter the building trades as apprentices with the consent of their parents, the first annual convention of the California State Builders' Exchange is at a close here.

A report of the industrial survey committee, adopted at the final session, declared that too many nontaxable bonds are issued, that public officials boost values of income property when they should allow for depreciation of the property, and that insurance underwriters were unfair to the building trades, especially in the matter of earthquake insurance.

CRASH KILLS TWO WOMEN

Sedan and Milk Wagon Collide Near Newport Bringing Death and Injuries to Several

NEWPORT BEACH, Sept. 2.—A collision between a large sedan and a milk wagon near "the Arches" on the road entering this city brought death to two women, serious injuries to two and lesser hurts to four other persons this morning.

The dead are Mrs. S. E. Simmons, 60 years of age, of 4103 Utah street, San Diego, and Mrs. Hazel Huff, 35, also of San Diego. Mrs. Simmons was killed instantly when the sedan emerged from the terrific collision, struck a near-by service station and then turned over. Mrs. Huff died after being taken to the hospital at Newport Beach.

The seriously injured are G. W. Huff, a sailor stationed in San Pedro, and Dorothy Head, 16, of San Diego. Both were taken to the local hospital. Later Huff was removed to the Naval Hospital in San Pedro and Miss Head was taken to her home.

Kenneth and Jeanette Schrampf, children, of San Diego; Wallace Magee and Carl Engleman of Long Beach, were hurt, and after receiving treatment at the local hospital, were removed to their homes.

The milk wagon was driven by Engleman. Magee was with him in the wagon.

The bodies of the dead were taken to the undertaking establishment of Smith and Tuthill in Santa Ana, where an inquest will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday by Coroner C. D. Brown.

FAIR OPENS IN ORANGE COUNTY

Gates Will Swing Wide at 10 o'Clock Today

Lieut.-Gov. Fitts Speaks During Early Evening

Seven Tents Necessary for Thousands of Exhibits

SANTA ANA, Sept. 2.—Orange county's twelfth annual fair, the major event of the season in this county, is all ready for its opening tomorrow. Because it is Labor Day and a holiday, the throngs of visitors are expected when the gates open at 10 a.m. And because it is American Legion Day, also, there is every expectation that all attendance records will be shattered.

The fair is ready, according to President H. A. Lake. It is the culmination of months of hard work in which upward of 1000 men, women and children of Boy Scout and school age have taken part. The fair is labelled as "The Garden Beautiful." There are fourteen feature displays, more than ever before. And every department reports all space taken with exhibits and displays of every kind.

FORMAL OPENING TONIGHT

The opening ceremonies will not occur until evening, when Lieut.-Gov. Fitts will deliver an address. President H. A. Lake will declare the fair open, there will be music and song and a number of short talks by department heads. Because the State Legislature will be in session Tuesday, Lieut.-Gov. Fitts will be taken from the fair by automobile to Bakersfield, where he will pilot an airplane to Sacramento during the night. Because of the effort he is making to open the fair, thousands of Legion members plan to be in attendance at the opening.

More than 200,000 square feet of space is necessary to house the fair. Seven tents are used, the largest one being 1000 feet long. In this tent is the feature display section, women's department and junior fair.

WIDE CO-OPERATION

The features, all of them creations of beauty, are offered by the following: San Bernardino county, Riverside county, Pomona, Escondido, Anaheim, Santa Ana, Orange, West Orange, Fullerton, Garden Grove, Tustin, Brea, Cypress and also several farm bureaus.

There are hundreds of entries in the live-stock, poultry, rabbit, pigeon, turkey and dog shows. Something like 3000 animals and birds in all, according to heads of the various departments. One of the features is a rare wild-fowl exhibit. There is something in the live-stock and animal line running all the way from horses, beef cattle, hogs on down to the bluebloods of the canine world.

There is a big automobile show with all the latest models of cars, an industrial section in which there are daily demonstrations. Boys and girls of school age have a great exhibit ready under the Junior Fair section. There is a special painting exhibit from the Orange county artists colony. A day nursery has been provided for the little tots while their parents view the fair. A cake-making contest is to be featured in the women's department.

RODEO AND RACING

When it comes to amusements and stunts, Orange county believes it will surpass all records. There is a rodeo program in which twenty-five men and women riders will take part. All the games of the plains, horse-back riding, steer wrestling, steer tying, cowboy and cowgirl races are on the program.

The Orange County Riding Club members have arranged a program of special Orange county events for men, women and children of the county only. Many of these events are novelty races.

James McCleave's celebrated show horses from Vancouver, together with a galaxy of riders, will present the day and night horse shows. There is a race program with purses and a number of fast horses are at the track ready for the opening. Seven bands, free vaudeville, community grandstand singing led by John Henry Lyons, rides, an amusement zone and a score of other features make up the big fair for its opening tomorrow.

INGLEWOOD CHAMBER TO SERVE AS HOST

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 2. — Inglewood Chamber of Commerce is to be host to some 1300 community leaders from the Pacific Southwest and the West Coast at a luncheon to be given on Mines Field on Saturday, the 15th inst., it was announced last night by Frank D. Parent, chairman of the aeronautical committee of the Inglewood Chamber.

This will be "Chamber of Commerce Day" at the National Air Races and Aeronautical Exposition, and Inglewood, the host city, as it is immediately adjoining the vast airport, is, through its Chamber of Commerce, sending out letters of invitation to every other chamber in the area mentioned.

In addition to this, it is announced at the meeting, the city of Inglewood has expended a large sum for decorating the streets during the air races, from the 8th to the 16th inst., while individual merchants and the chamber are adding to the decorative scheme with novel electrical and other decorative effects for every evening during the epoch-making aeronautical event.

CHECK SUSPECT HELD

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 2.—A. C. Hawthorne, charged with issuing checks on banks without having sufficient funds to his credit, was before Judge Edward H. Miller yesterday, where he was placed under $2500 bond and held to answer to the Superior Court.

FITTS TO SPEAK AT FAIR TONIGHT

Lieut.-Gov. Fitts

Who will formally open Orange County Fair this evening. To do this and open the special session of the State Legislature Tuesday, he will drive to Bakersfield after his speech and fly from there to Sacramento.

OFFICIAL COMMENDS STUDENTS

Pomona College Survey Praised by Los Angeles County Statistician

CLAREMONT, Sept. 2.—Additional economy in government will be possible if the suggestion of Victor W. Killick, chief statistician in the office of Sheriff in Los Angeles, is taken up. Commenting upon the efficient and businesslike Pomona Valley recently made by students, he said:

"I wish to commend the students in criminology and sociology classes of Pomona College who conducted the employment survey of the Pomona Valley, in connection with the Sheriff's office recently. I have received many direct reports from the men interviewed commenting upon the efficient and business-like canvasses made by the students.

"Pomona College is to be congratulated for having on its faculty instructors who appreciate the need of making practical application of academic training. In this survey the students met a problem of community interest, obtained an answer to a problem that would have cost the county government thousands of dollars to have found out otherwise, and secured material for their writings and class discussions. If more college students were encouraged to engage in this sort of mutually profitable work, the cost of government research could be minimized, and I think the students would leave school better equipped to cope with the practical duties of life."

Members of the class worked in pairs gathering data on permanent and transient labor conditions. These results were tabulated and presented to the County Sheriff's office, so they could better cope with the unemployment situation in Los Angeles at times when seasonal industries produce a demand for labor in the outlying portions of the county.

This is the second survey of this nature that the students have undertaken.

City Celebrates Inauguration of Dial Telephones

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 2.—The new dial telephone system was placed in operation here at 11 o'clock last night, when Mayor T. R. Finley, in the presence of telephone officials from all parts of the State, called the office of a local newspaper.

Approximately 8000 telephone subscribers were affected by the change, which has been under way for the past eighteen months. Approximately $1,000,000 has been spent on new equipment and buildings in making the change from the old manual system. Goleta and Montecito as yet have no dial phones, but these will be installed within the next year, according to President Robert E. Easton.

MARRIAGE LAW HITS ROMANCE

Santa Ana Bureau Closed Submits Strange Report

First Year of Three-day Rule Works Wonders

Four Hundred Applications Still Await Claimants

SANTA ANA, Sept. 2.—Four hundred sets of perfectly good marriage plans today lay abandoned at County Clerk J. M. Bacho's marriage-license bureau.

Perhaps they were not so good after all, but at least they are now never having been used. Bacho, however, is not considering a big gain sale.

These are the deserted wish of California's new marriage system. They represent 800 narrow escapes from folly. They are one year's commercial losses for the marriage persons and the divorce lawyers.

They are hot—and maybe mad—romances, cooled by sober reflection.

The new California marriage law, which was intended to prevent hasty marriages by requiring a wait of three days between the application for a marriage license and issuance of the license, has accomplished its purpose to the extent of blocking approximately a presumably hasty marriages in Orange county during its first year.

A check at the License Bureau disclosed that on August 3, just thirteen months after the new marriage law went into effect, 410 applications of intention to marry, since July 29, 1927, had never been followed by a second visit for a license itself.

Inasmuch as a wait of three days between giving notice of intention and procuring the license is permitted applicants, an exact check was not possible until a month after the anniversary of the new law.

The total of 410 included applications by the License Bureau of applications for license for various reasons, mostly because one or the other of the applicants was suspected of being under legal age or was without consent of parent or guardian. Deducting rejections, the number of notices of intention that were allowed to lapse was estimated to be about 400.

Redlands Plans Annual Flower Week Festival

REDLANDS, Sept. 2.—Preliminary steps are being taken by the local Chamber of Commerce to establish "the Week of Flowers." The plan suggested by W. C. Colleti was worked out in detail by the chamber directors who will enlist the aid of service clubs, churches and other civic organizations. The plan is a call for a week of flowers to be annually open the beautiful gardens for which this city is famous, with invitations would be broadcast for visitors to travel the "mile of roses" pathway. The local civic and service organizations would have charge of "days" in which to act as host and provide the entertainment.

The time would be in April, when Redlands' floral display is in its glory, when the schools would be ready for their principal participations, when everyone could participate in parades, bonfires and demonstrations and when nature would be putting forth its best effort in beauty and abundance.

It has been suggested, also, that the week be made one for home garden contests, a revival of the custom to stimulate attractiveness among homes of the city.

The plan is to be carried through at once, in hope that it will start with favor and co-operation. It is intended that the week of flowers would eventually become as important to this community as the Rose Festival to Pasadena or any of the pageants in various other communities.

Firemen's Wage Scale Adopted

SOUTH GATE, Sept. 2.—The City Council has adopted a wage scale for the city firemen which provides for a salary of $175 per month, with an allowance of $20 a month for a car for the Chief of the department. The captain is to receive $165 a month, and men over one year of service $155 a month, while those with less than one year of service are to receive $150 a month.

RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 2.—Postal receipts at the local office for the month of August show a total of $13,263, this being a gain of 13 41-100 per cent over August a year ago.

CORNER-STONE TO BE LAID

Grand Master of California Masons to Officiate Next Saturday at New Temple in Glendale

GLENDALE, Sept. 2.—Next Saturday, September 8, Will H. Fischer, Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Masonic Lodge of California, will come here to lay the corner-stone of a new $300,000 Masonic Temple, to be constructed at 232 South Brand Boulevard. A parade of 3000 Glendale Masons and Eastern Stars will escort the Grand Master to the new temple. A special session of the Grand Masonic Lodge of California, with all subordinate officers present, will be held just preceding the corner-stone ceremonies.

Bands and Masonic dignitaries from Los Angeles and various other cities will come here to participate in the ceremonies.

Glendale's new Masonic Temple will be the tallest and one of the finest buildings in the city. It is to contain one lodge room—the Cathedral Room—which, according to reports from the Grand Master's office, will be one of the most beautiful and elaborate anywhere in the West.

Recently Edwin F. Heisser, postmaster and member of the Republican County Committee, was elected general chairman of a finance campaign to raise the $300,000 necessary among Glendale Masons. The building was temporarily financed through Los Angeles agents.

Dwight W. Stephenson, grand lodge inspector for the Glendale district, has charge of the arrangements for the ceremonies, and the various details of the affair are in the hands of chairmen of other committees that have been named. W. W. Worley will lead the parade; Edwin F. Heisser will have charge of the street arrangements; Norman C. Davidson will supervise the building arrangements and the motion pictures, and L. H. Lawrence will look after the bands.

Immediately following the ceremonies here the grand lodge officers will leave with a special escort for Long Beach, where they will assist in the dedication of the new Masonic Temple there.

PASADENANS' IRE AROUSED

Parents of Pupils Attending Grover Cleveland School Incensed at Lack of Action on Complaints

PASADENA, Sept. 2.—The ire of parents of children who will attend the Grover Cleveland School this year has been aroused by failure of the Board of Education to investigate charges that the school is a fire trap and in a highly insanitary condition, it was learned today.

Statements of Andrew Fabrin, president of the Arroyo Seco Improvement Association, regarding "dangerous" conditions in the school, are challenged by Trustee N. P. Moerdyke, who criticised Fabrin for bringing the matter to the attention of the board publicly. Moerdyke believes that the school superintendent and the business manager should have been consulted first.

Moerdyke is reported to have said that he is in "no mood to listen to citizens who come before the board publicly, and endeavor to tell us what to do."

Arthur J. Wickland, principal of the Cleveland School, is said by Fabrin to "high pressure" the board, according to Moerdyke. The principal was also censured for allowing entertainments to be held in the building against the orders of the Chief Ernest F. Coop.

Henry Lehrbach, school business manager, charged that the statements from Fire Chief Coop charging the building as a fire-trap, were obtained under pressure.

Although the Board of Education has 'not found time" to investigate the conditions in the Cleveland School, the members have promised to submit a report on the matter at the Thursday board meeting.

The new California marriage w, which was intended to pre-ent hasty marriages by requiring wait of three days between the plication for a marriage license nd issuance of the license, has ac-omplished its purpose to the ex-ent of blocking approximately 40 ercentum of probably hasty marriages in range county during its first year.

A check at the License Bureau isclosed that on August 29, just hirteen months after the new mar-age law went into effect, 410 "no-ices of intention to marry" filed nce July 29, 1927, had never been ollowed by a second visit for the icense itself.

Inasmuch as a wait of thirty days etween giving notice of intention nd procuring the license is re-uired of applicants, an exact check as not possible until a month af-r the anniversary of the new w.

The total of 410 included rejec-ions by the License Bureau of ap-lications for license for various easons, mostly because one or the ther of the applicants was in-pected of being under legal age, and as without consent of parent or uardian. Deducting rejections the umber of notices of intention hat were allowed to lapse was es-imated to be about 400.

Redlands Plans Annual Flower Week Festival

REDLANDS, Sept. 2.—Preliminary teps are being taken by the local hamber of Commerce to establish "the Week of Flowers." The plan uggested by W. C. Collett will be orked out in detail by the cham-er directors who will enlist aid f service clubs, churches and oth-r civic organizations. The plans all for a week of flowers to ac-ually open the beautiful gardens for which this city is famous, and invitations would be broadcast to visitors to travel the "mile of roses" athway. The local civic and serv-ce organizations would have their days" in which to act as host and rovide the entertainment.

The time would be in April, when Redlands' floral display is in its lory, when the schools would be eady for their principal celebra-ions, when everyone could partici-ate in parades, bonfires and dem-nstrations and when nature would be putting forth its best effort of eauty and abundance.

It has been suggested, also, that the week be made one for home arden contests, a revival of the ustom to stimulate attractive yards among homes of the city.

The plan is to be carried forward at once, in hope that it will meet with favor and co-operation. It is intended that the week of flowers would eventually become as im-portant to this community as has the Rose Festival to Pasadena, or any of the pageants in various oth-r communities.

Firemen's Wage Scale Adopted

SOUTH GATE, Sept. 2.—The City Council has adopted a wage scale for the city firemen which provides for a salary of $175 per month plus an allowance of $20 a month for a car for the Chief of the depart-ment. The captain is to receive $165 a month, and men over one year of service $155 a month, while those with less than one year of service are to receive $150 a month.

RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 2.—Postal receipts at the local office for the month of August show a total of $13,263, this being a gain of 13 41-100 per cent over August a year ago.

Grover Cleveland School Action on Complaints

parents of children who will at-this year has been aroused by the investigate charges that the school ary condition, it was learned today. the Cleveland School, is using Fly-trin to "high pressure" the board, according to Moerdyke. The prin-cipal was also censured for allow-ng entertainments to be held in the building against the orders of Fire Chief Ernest F. Coop.

Henry Lehrbach, school business manager, charged that the letter from Fire Chief Coop characteriz-ing the building as a fire-trap, was obtained under pressure.

Although the Board of Education has "not found time" to investigate the conditions in the Cleveland School, the members have promised to submit a report on the matter at the Thursday board meeting.

Editorial

ALTHOUGH THIS HOUSE IS FORTY-SIX YEARS OLD, AND ADMITS TO SOME PRIDE OF ANCESTRY, IT CHOOSES TO CELEBRATE THE FOUNDING OF THE WEST SEVENTH STREET SHOPPING DISTRICT AS THE MOST IMPORTANT ACT OF ITS EXISTENCE.

By building in what was an outpost location, J. W. Robinson Co. opened the way to new opportunities and established the turning point for the progress of Los Angeles.

So this celebration takes on a broad public interest. It serves to recall the events of thirteen or fourteen years ago, and to point the passing of time to the many who now think of J. W. Robinson Co.'s removal to Seventh Street as a more recent occurrence.

Since good will and increased trade have been the continuing rewards of that pioneering, so also Good Will given and Good Will returning again are the incentives to this Sale of new goods. Autumn goods, fine, first quality, Robinson-standard goods at good will prices.

Embroidered Chinese Shawls, $37.50

HAND-MADE shawls of that rare texture and marvelous embroidery found only in the genuine Chinese product, are these which are so strikingly low priced in the 13-Years-on-7th-Street Sale.

"Mr. Willett, I'd like you to meet Miss Mason."

"How do you do, Miss Mason."

"How do you do, Mr. Willett, I'm so glad to meet you; I've heard so much about you! Tell me are you from a large educational institution in seven letters situated in an eastern State beginning with M?"

"Yes. You're at a women's college founded by a wealthy brewer of Poughkeepsie, are you not?"

"That's right. Shall we—as they used to say on the stage in the Turbulent Twenties—sit down? . . . . Now, what are you in, Mr. Willett? The bond business?"

"No-o. I'll act it out for you."

(He changes his costume and appears in an old shabby suit, turning his empty pockets inside out.)

"That's the first syllable."

"What is it? Broke?"

"Good! Now, my second syllable"

"I know. You're a broker."

"You're wonderful, Miss Mason!"

"Oh! Do you really think so?"

"I'd like to tell you what I really think."

"Well—not here please!"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—Marberry, Washington's right-hander, won his own ball game today against the New York Yankees. The Senators defeated the league leaders, 2 to 0, in the third and final game of the series. Philadelphia, although idle, gained half a game on New York. The Macks are now but a game and a half behind.

Vic Aldridge Released to Newark Club

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—Vic Aldridge, veteran right-handed pitcher, was sent to the Newark team of the International League by the Giants today on option for the rest of the season, John McGraw announced tonight. Aldridge, after being traded to the Giants by the Pirates even up for Burleigh Grimes last winter, held out for more money than McGraw was willing to pay him, and finally reported late in May. Since that time he has failed to pitch winning ball.

Aldridge has participated in only twenty-two games for the Giants this year, and has won four decisions while losing seven. He has pitched only three complete games.

CANADIAN SPEEDBOAT COPS RACE

Rainbow VII Averages 60 Miles an Hour to Win Championship

DETROIT, Sept. 2. (AP)—The Canadian speedboat, Rainbow VII, piloted by Commodore Harry B. Greening of Hamilton, Ont., won the North American championship trophy at the Detroit powerboat regatta today. The Rainbow VII negotiated the thirty nautical miles at an average speed of 60.01 statute miles per hour.

The Curtis Wilgold, a Buffalo boat, finished a poor second, Baby Gar III, third, and Baby Skylark, fourth.

Divers today raised the Estelle II, the Harmsworth trophy challenger boat of Miss Marian Barbara Carstairs, that nosed into a swell and dived to the bottom of the river during the first heat of the international race yesterday

Miss Carstairs, who was at first reported uninjured in the accident was found to have several fractured ribs on examination. Her mechanician, Joseph Harris of London, is in a serious condition at a local hospital.

It will be impossible to recondition Miss Carstairs's boat in time for the second heat of the Harmsworth race tomorrow.

Americans Hold Three-One Lead on Invaders

Van Ryn Battles Higgs in Feature Struggle

FOREST HILLS (N. Y.) Sept. 2. (AP)—The United States enters the second and final day of its team tennis competition against England tomorrow with a lead of three victories to one.

WILBUR COEN

England's sole triumph of the first day of play at the West Side Tennis Club yesterday was scored by her ranking No. 4 player, J. C. Gregory, who upset Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., No. 2 in the national ranking, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4.

Outside of that unexpected reversal, the chief feature of the day was the showing made by H. W. Austin of Cambridge, hailed as the most promising of England's younger players. Austin, who defeated George Lott, John Hennessey and Wilbur Coen in his own country earlier this summer, carried John Van Ryn, Princeton star, to three sets before accepting defeat. Van Ryn, one of the steadiest of the younger American players, romped through the first set at love but was overwhelmed in the second, 2-6. Austin continued his streak by taking the first two games of the deciding set but Van Ryn summoned all his speed and power to run out the set and match with the loss of only one more game.

In the other singles encounter, Wilmer Allison, of Fort Worth, Tex., crushed Edward Higgs, ranking No. 1 player of England, in straight sets and with the loss of only three games, the scores were 6-2, 6-1.

In the doubles, Coen paired with Johnny Doeg of Santa Monica to defeat the British team of Higgs and L. G. Collins, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. The American youngsters never had played together before and they needed one set to get their bearings. Once they perfected their teamwork the invaders had little chance.

STRAW HATS OFF TO SHELLY

The fans were simply forced to doff their alfalfa derbies yesterday at Wrigley Field when the Hollywood spitball pitcher played a ne plus ultra hero role to enable the Stars to take the first game of the double-header with Portland. Shellenback hit a home run, double and a single to help the Sheiks' cause, but he provided the big moment of the afternoon in the sixth inning when he struck out Bates and then Whitney and Fullerton with the bases full to quell a Beaver rally. When Shelly whiffed Fullerton, who had previously driven in two runs with a double, the fans put on their straw hat barrage.

HOLLYWOODERS TAKE PAIR OF EXCITING STRUGGLES

Sheiks Stage Late Rallies to Nab Both Games From Portland by 5-to-3 and 4-to-3 Scores

BY BOB RAY

With Frank Shellenback and Elmer Smith sharing the hero honors, Oscar Vitt's hustling Hollywood Stars took the Portland Beavers for a couple of rides in yesterday's bargain bill at Wrigley Field. Shellenback was the fair-haired boy in the opener, which the Sheiks captured, 5 to 3, while Smith's potent bludgeon accounted for the 4-to-3 triumph in the nightcap.

About everything in the baseball category was unfolded for the 14,000 fans present, with a straw hat barrage and a short but sweet fight between Ed Tomlin, the Portland right fielder, and an abusive fan thrown in for good measure.

ELMER SMITH

Hollywood won both games with late rallies and, to make things better, the Sheiks increased their lead over the second-place Senators, who split a pair with the Angels yesterday, to two full games. The double victory also put the Stars ahead in the series, 4 to 3, and one more win today will give them the decision for the week. "Raw Meat" Bill Rodgers will send his sensational young southpaws, Fred Orman and Larry French, against the Sheiks in today's Labor Day double-header, while Gordon Rhodes and Walter Kinney will take care of the flipping for the home guard.

In the first game Shellenback had to stage an exciting mound duel with his former teammate, Curt Fullerton, and the issue wasn't settled until the eighth when the Stars put across two runs to break a 3-to-3 tie. Shelly fanned seven Beavers, three of them in the sixth inning when the Beavers

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—Sacramento and Los Angeles divided the spoils in today's double-header and the Solons remained one game out in front in the week's series, four and three, with a double-header to be played tomorrow. The two battles presented a strange antithesis. The morning game at Stockton was a slugging affair, which the Angels took, 11 to 6, while the afternoon contest was a hurling debate between Peters and Rachac.

BIKE-RIDING FIENDS OPEN NEW PLANT HERE

BY FRANK ROCHE

What looks a good movement in one direction if it is nothing else came about yesterday when competitive bike racing was revived in Los Angeles and a place was found for these wild riding messenger boys who have given more than one motorist heart failure with their antics. The place is the Los Angeles Cycle Center Velodrome, where anyone who believes that he can peddle a bicycle faster than the next fellow can have his fling without the authorities interfering.

It seems strange in these days of airplanes, fast automobiles and mile-a-minute transcontinental trains that anyone should want to see a race between bicycle riders but evidently such is the case. Yesterday the old sport of "leaning against the wind" which went out of style here some time before the ladies shortened their skirts was revived on a new board track on Venice Boulevard and thirty-eight men and nine women pedaled around the oval in a series of races while several hundred fans looked on. Needless to say despite all of their riding and sweating, and there was considerable of each, the competitors all finished at the starting line.

The sport is being promoted by Long Bill Furman, an old bike race hero of some years ago. Furman presented a program of eight events

MIGHTY BAMBINO SO SORRY HE REFUSED TO BE SNAPPED WITH OUR NEXT PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Just how strong a supporter Al Smith has in Babe Ruth, the home-run king, was revealed here today, when the battering Babe issued an apology for refusing to be photographed with Herbert Hoover, Republican Presidential nominee.

BABE RUTH

A photographer asked Mr. Hoover to pose for a photograph shaking hands with Ruth, when he was at the game yesterday. Mr. Hoover assented, but when the photographer went to get Ruth he refused.

"Nothing doing," he said. "I'm for Al Smith."

So Mr. Hoover waited in vain for the appearance of the home-run king. Ruth never even gave him a glance of recognition.

However, when the story became public, Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, took the Babe to call on Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, and like a good little boy, who does what his manager tells him to do, the Babe issued the following apology for all the world to see:

"When the photographer asked me to go to Mr. Hoover's box yesterday I labored under a misunderstanding and deeply regret that I did not avail myself of the opportunity of meeting him. I hope Mr. Hoover will be gracious enough at

Cubs in 3-to-2 Victory Over Pirate Outfit

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2. (AP)—St. Louis continued on its winning ways and defeated Cincinnati, 5 to 3, today. The big bat of Sunny Jim Bottomley was responsible. He drove in three runs and scored himself after tripling to the right-field corner.

The Cards found Donohue easy and took advantage of the single base on balls that he gave. Frisch got the pass in the fourth after Holm popped to Kelly. The speedy second baseman scored all the way from first on an ordinary single, which Bottomley sent into right field.

Frankhouse suffered an injury to his pitching hand trying to stop Dressen's sharp rap in the eighth inning and gave way to Johnson. Score:

BRAVES BUMPED

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—Although hit hard by the Braves, Larry Benton turned in his twenty-second victory of the season here today as the Giants gained some small revenge for the mistreatment they received from the Bostonese in three straight games last week. The clan McGraw won this one by 5 to 2.

Errors in the first inning enabled the New Yorkers to score three runs, a lead which Boston never was able to match. The first Brave marker was scored when Benton made a wild pitch with Bell on third. Hornsby drove in the second in the eighth. Bill Terry batted home two Giant runs and scored a third. Score:

BRAVES BATTERED

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—The Cubs all but shattered Pittsburgh's pennant hopes today when they beat the Pirates, 3 to 2.

Kiki Cuyler revenged himself on his old mates by lacing out a homer and a single and scoring two runs. Pat Malone was hit quite freely but sensational support in the field saved him. Grimes held the Cubs to seven hits, but they came in bunches.

Although the game was played in a drizzling rain, 32,000 fans attended. Score:

ROBINS WIN

BROOKLYN (N. Y.) Sept. 2. (AP) The Phillies outhit the Robins here today by twelve safe blows to six, but Brooklyn won the ball game in the last half of the eleventh when Rube Dressler, pinch batsman for Overton Tremper, smashed a single to center to score Herman after two men had been retired. The Robins rallied for two runs in their eleventh to overcome a lead of one piled up by the visitors in the first half, the home team winning by 6 to 5.

George Milligan, former Cornell southpaw and a recent member of the Syracuse New York-Pennsylvania League staff, went the route for the Phillies, while the Brooklyn pitching was divided among Doug McWeeny, Jim Elliott and Watson Clark. Score:

filled the bases. This great bit of pitching on Shellenback's part steamed up the fans so much that they tossed a flock of straw hats out on the field to show their appreciation of the way the Star spitball hurler had halted the Beaver rally.

Shelly not only pitched great ball but pounded out a home run, a double and a single to further aid his cause.

CURT TRIES HARD

Fullerton tried mighty hard to beat his former team-mates for he apparently is peeved because he was traded. However, it was this peeve that ultimately cost Curt the game in the eighth when he started an argument with the umpire claiming that Shellenback was cutting up the balls. The Stars, led by Skipper Vitt, took up the argument pronto and Fullerton lost his head, issued three walks in the inning, which with two hits produced the winning runs.

Fullerton was decidedly wild throughout, issuing nine walks, but he fed the Stars slow balls so effectively that they weren't able to take advantage of his wildness until the eighth.

In the second game Smith was the big noise, his homer and two doubles knocking the props out from under Elmer Ponder, who pitched great ball except to the former Portland outfielder. Smith either drove in or scored all four Hollywood runs.

Dick McCabe, who replaced Bill Murphy when the latter wobbled in the third, blanked the Ducks in the last four innings to receive credit for the victory.

SMITH HITS HOMER

After two were out in the first inning, Lee singled and then Smith homed into the bleachers to give the Stars a two-run start in the nightcap. That homer was Smith's fourth of the series and his sixth since joining the Stars.

Brazill's double and Bates's single got one run back for Portland in the second. Rego also singled in this inning, but a double play, Ostenberg to Kerr to Heath, choked off the rally.

Murphy walked Sigafoos to open the third and, after Rose went out, Keesey singled to center to send Sigafoos to third. That was all for Murphy. Tomlin greeted McCabe with a single to left that scored Sigafoos. Keesey went to third when Smith fumbled the ball. Brazill's infield hit to Lee scored Keesey. Ostenberg then engineered another double play to end this rally. After that McCabe kept the Beavers well in check.

Johnny Kerr heeded the fans' plea in the sixth when he led off with a single. As Lee fanned Kerr stole second, from where he scored on Smith's scorching double to center. Shellenback, batting for Carlyle, fanned, and Heath was purposely passed. Leo Ostenberg upset the Portland strategy by hitting one to left center for two bases, sending Smith home with the winning run.

In the opener, the Stars took the lead in the first when Kerr doubled and came home on successive sacrifices by Lee and Smith. A walk to Heath was cashed in for a run in the fourth when Shellenback's high fly to right was lost in the sun by Tomlin and fell for a double.

PORTLAND TIES SCORE

Portland tied it up in the fifth when Bates singled, Whitney walked and Fullerton drove both runners home with a double to left center. Singafoos followed with another lost-in-the-sun double to right but Fullerton was held at third. Shellenback then got out of trouble by retiring Rose and Keesey.

In the sixth, when Tomlin and Brazill led off with a single and a double, it looked like a cinch for the Ducks to score. Shelly, however, fanned Bates and then walked Wuestling to fill the bases, although it looked as though Umps Kolls missed a third strike on the latter. Whitney and Fullerton were also strikeout victims and the straw-hat barrage followed.

Fullerton threw one slow ball too many in the sixth and Shellenback knocked it over the left-field fence for the circuit to put the Stars in front again, 3 to 2.

Portland knotted the count on Sigafoos's double and Rose's single in the seventh. After Keesey had fanned, Tomlin hit into a double play to end the inning.

The Ducks almost scored after two were out in the eighth when Wuestling singled infield and went to third when Kerr booted Whitney's grounder. On an attempted double steal, Wuestling got a big start for the plate and it looked as though he beat Shellenback's return throw to Bassler, but Umps Kolls said no.

Bassler walked to start the winning rally in the eighth and went to second on Shellenback's single to left. Holley then ran for Bassler. Twombly beat out a bunt to fill the bases. Kerr hit back to Fullerton but the latter tossed to first instead of heading off Holley at the plate. Lee went out without advancing the runners and then Fullerton walked Smith and Carlyle to force in a run. Heath lofted to Bates for the third out.

Third Championship Star Race Today

ODINE LEADS YACHTS IN INTERNATIONAL SERIES

Chesapeake Bay Boat Favored for Coveted Trophy; Local Skippers Still Have Chance to Win

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE
"Times" Staff Representative

NEWPORT HARBOR YACHT CLUB, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—The 1928 international star boat championship of the world is to be won, seventeen skippers will trim canvas this afternoon in the first race of the five-day series.

Ed Weymouth, holder of the trophy for the past year, has had over her nearest rivals, Johnson's Undine of the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club reigns a favorite to win. In second place is the 1925 international champion, Edward V. Willis's Ace of the Western Long Island fleet, and a dangerous contender under any conditions.

The championship trophy, however, will undoubtedly be won on the final three days which have been designated to win Roland Jr.'s Idle Hour II of Newport Harbor, Jon Jennings' Star II of San Diego, Ben Bishopton Jr.'s Miss Star II of New Orleans, F. Bulkley Dahl's Rudal II of Newport Harbor, and William C. Ball's Mimi of Grosse Pointe.

Other conditions will play a part in the drama of the series which is to come. The first two days were held in stiff winds with a choppy sea. It is unusual down here to have more than two or three days of that sort at a stretch and the race is not to end in a drifting match in which case, the Windward leg of the last light-weather sloop would be all but decisive. If the breeze is not light, stiff weather will favor the Tempo III, Ace, Undine II and one or two others in heavier sloops which will ride the rough going. All of which is to prove that it's anyone's race.

Much ado so far has been an unofficial manner. Spine tickling hops featured with the leading out the Undine on the first day by one second and all believe the Undine with the Rudsal II and the Tempo III by the same margin of four seconds will be the battle. Such finishes have been characteristic of the races in the bay.

The series will end on Wednesday night followed in the evening by a social banquet of the International Star Class Y.R.A. at the Balboa Bay Yacht Club. Commodore Albert of the Newport Harbor Y.C. is in charge of the banquet to visiting yachtsmen will be entertained. Presentation cups will also be held on Wednesday when the big, four-foot "loving cup" will be the prize.

Many of the famous of the series will be here due in no small measure to the Newport Harbor star Jon Beck, staff commodore of the Newport Harbor Y.C. and the captain of the Undine is indefatigable worker. He is ably assisted by two others, Jim Webster and W. K. Vanderbilt Jr. Worcester is the

STRIBLING AND SQUIRES MEET

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (Exclusive) The feature boxing engagement this week in New York will be that between Young Stribling of Georgia and Johnny Squires at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

Both men claim the vacated title spurned by the globe-trotting Tunney and their meeting will be in the nature of an elimination. Stribling, noted for his wrestling tactics and long string of sour fights, is figured an even-money choice against the South African, whose best claim is a disputed loss to Johnny Risko.

Joe Glick meets Frankie Fink Tuesday night at the Queensboro Stadium. Fink is replacing Mickey Chanin, who injured his hand. Mills (Kid) Whalen, New York Armory champion, will meet Tony Vascarilli in the semifinal.

Roberto Roberti, huge Italian heavyweight, will box King Solomon in the star bout of Humbert Fugazy's show at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Wednesday night. They fought a close fight at Boston three months ago. Roberti got the decision. Natale Tassi and George Lavigne will meet in the second semifinal. In a 6-round under Angelo Grillo will engage Johnny Urban of Pittsburgh.

UPLIFTERS WIN POLO SKIRMISH

sensational manner and the Rovers looked like certain winner until Pedley got steamed up.

Pedley rode like a phantom horseman in the last section of the contest. Young Erie's mallet accounted for eight goals during the rally. When the regular time for the game to end came about the teams stood tied, 13 to 13. Umpire Jim Colt gave them an extra session to decide the issue and Pedley came through for the Uplifters in whirlwind fashion to make the winning goal. The largest crowd of the season witnessed the battle.

The line-ups:

2 Daly	No. 2	Meyers 4
8 Pedley	No. 3	Baker 4
1 Little	Back	Brunson 4

Umpire—Jim Colt.

RAMOS AND HOPPE TO MIX SATURDAY

Felix Ramos, Mexican 140-pounder, will get his chance in fast company next Saturday night at the Main Street Athletic Club when he tackles Dick Hoppe, rugged Hollywood stadium favorite. Ramos has scored a long series of knockouts recently.

The undefeated Mexican lightweight, Joe Mancillas, scored a hard-earned win over Marcelino Ortega in last Saturday night's headline bout. Jack "Red" Stephens kayoed Robert Baray in the second round, Teddy Palacios shaded Tommy Cleary, Carl Edwards knocked out Eddie Darden in the third round, Jimmy Garcia stopped Albert Dozier in the third round, and Adrian Elton outpointed Wildcat Evasco.

Olympic Swim Star Returns

Miss Clarita Hunsberger, only Pacific Coast woman member of the Olympic team in both 1924 and 1928, arrived here on the Lark from San Francisco yesterday morning. Miss Hunsberger competed in Paris in 1924 for Stanford University, and this summer at Amsterdam for the Ambassador Swimming and Athletic Club. She placed fifth in the plain high-diving event four years ago, and reached the semifinals in the same event last month. Miss Hunsberger is a teacher of languages at the George Washington High School here.

Brooks Sinks Hole-in-One at Palos Verdes

R. L. Brooks of the Bel Air Country Club dropped his tee shot into the cup for a hole-in-one on the 149-yard fifteenth hole at the Palos Verdes Country Club yesterday.

Jimmy Fiske reported the following results in the blind bogey: S. E. Evans, Paul Lowry and E. W. McQuigg tied for first place; second place also resulted in a triple tie between Joe Sherman, W. R. Barrett and E. H. Morgan.

SUNSET FIELDS SCHEDULED TOURNAMENT TODAY

A record entry is expected today for the Labor Day blind-bogey tournament which will be played over the two Sunset Fields courses. Bogey will be drawn between 60 and 90.

SERAPHS SPLIT WITH SENATORS

gin of one run, "Pinches" Kuns blew up in the fifth and sixth innings of the breakfast game and Gould, Kallio and Flynn, who followed him in the order named, could not stem a tide of eight tallies in three innings. Schulmerich and Warren, with seven hits between them, figured prominently in the avalanche of tallies.

Weathersby hurled effective ball for the winning team. He was responsible for four runs, but has some rather loose support at times. His team-mates made four errors behind him.

In the afternoon game, the two clubs were even until the last half of the seventh frame, when the Senators scored two runs on three infield hits, a walk and a sacrifice. Two more were scored off Peters in the eighth on some real hitting by the home players.

Sacramento had scored one run in the first inning when Johnny Monroe bounced a single over Peters's head, stole second and scored on Sheely's double off the left-field fence. The Angels evened this in the sixth when Schulmerich followed up Hood's single with a line drive that bounced off the score board. That ball was driven plenty hard, and gave Schulmerich two bases. Peters's grief in the seventh started when Ray French bounced a single off Jones with one out. Rachac sacrificed him to second, and after Kopp walked, the shortstop raced home while Monroe was beating out a bounder over second base, Kopp taking second. Kopp scored when Burke hit a hard drive which Dittmar failed to handle cleanly.

In the eighth, Severeid, Backer and French all hit the first ball pitched to them for clean blows, Severeid's being a double and two more runs were thus manufactured. The score:

in the tournament. W. L. (Bill) Jelliffe of Girard, Harold Thompson of Oakmont, Charles Seaver of Los Angeles, Lester Coleman of California, Russell Thompson of Oakmont, Jack Gaines of Girard, Weller Noble of San Gabriel and Danny Sangster of Potrero are expected to lead the way in the qualifying round.

Jack Neville, five times State amateur champion, will tee off with Everett H. Seaver, president of the Southern California Golf Association. Neville is due for a comeback and many are picking him to win his sixth championship.

Bon Stein and Chuck Hunter of Seattle are also rated highly and are expected to make good showings. Hunter was a finalist last year, taking a royal trimming from McHugh.

Miss Helen Lawson of Wilshire, Del Monte women's champion, will begin the defense of her championship on Wednesday. Both tournaments will wind up on Sunday, the 9th inst.

LOCAL YOUNGSTERS SHINE AT DEL MONTE

DEL MONTE, Sept. 2.—Undismayed by today's crushing defeat in the north-south team matches at Pebble Beach, a score of fine golfers, members of the leading country clubs of Los Angeles, tomorrow will qualify in the seventeenth annual California amateur championship, confident that the crown now worn by Johnny McHugh will be retained by this State and that this same crown is due for a journey to Los Angeles for a change.

The youngsters are "hot." Pebble Beach is a stiff test of golf, but the score or more kid golfers who have come to the front in the past year in Los Angeles have accepted the challenge and are not in the least dismayed over the difficulties the course presents.

Harry Eichelberger, Jr., of Los Angeles; Charley Seaver of Los Angeles, Ernie Combs of Virginia, Jim Milholland of Los Angeles, Lester Coleman of California and Harold and Russell Thompson of Oakmont, are among the young players of whom much is expected. Jack Gaines of Girard was in excellent form this morning and shot a creditable 75, at a time when scores in the 70's are rare. Jack Mackey of Los Angeles hasn't been able to get under the 82 mark as yet. Lester Coleman had a 77 today. Charley Seaver has been hitting around the 75 mark with more or less regularity. In this tournament it would seem that par is quite safe as the greens are so bumpy as to make accurate punting next to impossible.

Dr. Paul Hunter, president of the California association, today announced that a ball in the Pacific Ocean would carry stroke and distance penalty. Some had thought the ocean was to be played as a parallel water hazard. The other rule makes the penalty for a ball in the sea extremely heavy.

Howard Hughes of Los Angeles flew up to the tournament. He is a three-handicap man and an excellent golfer. Today he had a 97 over the Pebble Beach course and was far from happy.

Harold Thompson of Oakmont is playing well. He always shows to good advantage at Pebble Beach and he has been under the 75 mark twice in practice play. His friends are expecting much of him in the qualifying round, which starts tomorrow.

Youth is much in evidence here and yet many of the wiseacres are picking one of the veteran Californ ia golfers to come through winner. Dr. Paul Hunter is playing well. Chandler Egan is shooting splendid golf. Johnny McHugh seems to be at the very top of his game. Picking a probable winner is the last thing the sports writers are attempting to do this year.

Today's results were:

J. J. McHugh and Claire Griswold (North,) defeated Dr. Paul Hunter and Jack Gaines, 1 up.

W. C. O. Smith and Weller N. Noble (South,) defeated Ed Lester and Dick Richmond on the 19th.

AND ACTIVITIES AT LOS ANGELES HARBOR

FOUR LINERS TO DEPART TODAY

Seven Hundred Passengers Scheduled to Embark

Eighteen Thousand Tons of Cargo Leaving Port

Three New Norwegian Craft to Join Tanker Fleet

Four offshore passenger liners will depart Los Angeles Harbor today, carrying out 700 cabin passengers and approximately 18,000 tons of California cargo. They include the Panama-Pacific liner Mongolia, sailing at daylight for New York via the Canal and Havana; the Panama Mail liner Colombia, for New York; the Holland-America liner Noorderdyk, for Hamburg, Rotterdam and Antwerp, and the Dollar liner President Hayes, sailing at 3 o'clock for around the world.

The Mongolia will take out 450 passengers, her largest eastbound load of the season, while 130 travelers will depart aboard the Colombia. For her twenty-two ports of call the President Hayes will take out 105 passengers. She arrived yesterday in completion of her sixteenth successive circuit of the globe, among her passengers being James Keeley, former editor of the Chicago Tribune.

Sailing on the Colombia tonight will be Senora Maria O. de Vides, wife of the former President of Salvador, returning home with her two daughters, Carmen and Teresa; Victor Holguin, Havana manager of the Panama-Mail Line; Robert Alvarez, Salvador coffee king, with his wife and daughter, and E. J. Brown, Central American representative of the Panama-Mail Steamship Company.

Last night the new Furness-Pacific liner Pacific Enterprise arrived from United Kingdom ports with passengers and cargo after a nine-day run from the Canal.

NEW TANKERS NEARING COMPLETION

Three new Norwegian motor tankers are nearing completion in Europe for trade out of this port, it was announced yesterday by Capt. O. M. Bryde.

The largest is the Westfal-Larsen tanker Finnanger, of 13,580 deadweight tons, now completing at Amsterdam. The others are the Hidlefjord, of 11,000 tons deadweight, being completed at the Copenhagen yard of Burmeister and Wain for Kornelius Olsen of Stavanger, and the Turicum, launched at Amsterdam on July 5, last, by Van Der Giessem & Zoonen for the Avanti Line of Oslo. The Turicum is of 10,900 tons deadweight and will be driven by twin Werkspoor double-acting Diesels, giving her a speed of eleven and one-half knots. She will be chartered for ten years to the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company for Los Angeles-European operation.

The fact that six surviving seamen and the master, Capt. J. F. Rose, and one officer handled the disabled freighter William A. McKenney for the final 2000 miles of her voyage from San Pedro to Balboa after she had lost fourteen men in the Mexican hurricane, was revealed yesterday by Capt. Harry Lewald, master of the Luckenbach liner Dorothy Luckenbach, in port from New York.

"I went aboard the William A. McKenney when she limped into the Panama Canal two weeks ago and never before have I seen such evidence of the force of a Tehuantepec hurricane," said Capt. Lewald. "All of her superstructure—steel masts, awning supports, davits and rails—had been twisted and torn by wind and sea. The seas were so immense that the one which carried away her steel foremast was shipped down her funnel and put out her fires. Only the fact that she was an oil-burner saved her, for they could not have again ignited drowned-out coal-burning boilers during the storm.

"I feel that Capt. Rose performed a miracle in saving his ship. In addition to deck and rigging damage, the steamer lost her deck load of lumber, while both the pilot house and chart room were stove in."

T. A. Lee, newly appointed general Pacific Coast agent for the new European-Pacific service of the Reardon Smith Line, is expected in Los Angeles this week to appoint a local manager for the service and to confer with shippers and stevedoring concerns. The Reardon Smith Line will inaugurate the service early next month, when the pathfinder, East Lynn, loads out for Liverpool.

OIL and MINING

MUSSEL ROCK STATUS HAZY

Lack of Showings in Wells Drilling Puzzles

Production Center May Lie Under Adjoining Bay

Companies which are operating at Mussel Rock, west of the Seacliff field, are somewhat puzzled by the lack of definite showings in their wells. Several projects are now down beyond 3300 feet, and have cored nothing but streaks of tar sand and gray sands which afford a cut of oil. These wells are now approximately 500 feet deeper than the first oil zone at Seacliff.

The dip of the formation beneath the Mussel Rock wells is said to be forty-five degrees, indicating that they are on the north flank of the supposed extension of the Seacliff field, and that the axis of the structure for which they are drilling is presumably at least 600 feet out in the little bay which curves into the shore line between Seacliff and Mussel Rock.

The Petroleum Exploration Company, which is drilling its Hickey No. 1 a location or two southeast of the point at Mussel Rock, has been getting cuts from streaks of sand down to 3380 feet, but is understood to be of the opinion that it isn't likely to pick up the first sand of Seacliff short of 3500 feet.

Development at Mussel Rock is not going to be rapid, owing to the rush at Santa Fe Springs, which has focused attention there for a time. The Wilshire organization, which was drilling at Mussel Rock, left the well standing three weeks ago and took the crew to Santa Fe Springs, and the other companies—Bankline, General Petroleum, Italo and Petroleum Exploration, are in no haste to get the oil, but are naturally curious to know if any is there.

Texas Company Purchases Site for Refinery

EL PASO (Tex.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Definite announcement of plans of the Texas Company for the construction of a 10,000-barrel refinery at El Paso, will be made soon, it is expected. The company's purchase of a site for the proposed plant and arrangements which its subsidiary, the Texas Pipe Line Company, is making for laying a ten-inch pipe line from the Winkler county pool to El Paso, are regarded as preliminary to starting construction of its proposed refinery here.

DRILLING CONTEST SPEEDY

Santa Fe Springs Race for Deep Zone Involves Investment Running Into Many Millions

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The Santa Fe Springs field is off to a fast start in the scramble for the Buckbee zone, with 155 known operations either in full swing or getting under way in stages all the way from grading foundation to putting up derricks and rigging up to drill. The deep zone may not enjoy a long life, but it will be a gay one. It is not unlikely that the number of new operations started in the field within the next two weeks will increase the total to at least 200 wells.

The General Petroleum Corporation tops them all with thirty-five projects under way. Standard and Union are a tie each with twenty projects on the slate, while Texas Company runs them close with eighteen drilling jobs. George F. Getty, Inc., is next with ten, although if the four outfits of the Wilshire interests—Ambassador Oil Company, Wilshire Annex Oil Company and Wilshire, Bandini Petroleum Company, were grouped, it would give the Wilshire people fourteen projects, one of which is now on production.

MANY OPERATING

The field now has twenty-six known operators. According to conservative estimates by many operators, these wells, which will go to depths from 5700 to 6500 feet, and in some cases perhaps much deeper, are expected to cost $100,000 apiece, as a minimum, making a grand total of something like $15,500,000 for the bunch.

It would seem at the present time that the Shell company perhaps has the jump on its competitors for the next shot at the Buckbee sand. Its Fletcher No. 12 is down 5175 feet and ought to be getting within striking distance of the 5700-foot zone that Wilshire discovered, in another ten days if it has no bad luck.

Aside from this week it looks like a draw between Texas Company's Mattern Lease Two No. 7 well, now down 4940 feet and the Bandini Petroleum Company's Off No. 7, fishing at 5000 feet. If the Off well cleans up its fishing job without serious delay, it may regain momentum before Texas catches up. At any rate it will make an interesting race for a while.

NEW ENTRIES RUMORED

It was reported Saturday that several other companies are planning to get into the race this week with one or two wells each, and it may be that a number of those already in the field will elaborate their programs as offsets are required by encroaching neighborhood operations.

Texas Company (18.) twelve drilling and eight rigging up.
Union Oil Company (20.) seven drilling, and thirteen building rig or grading foundations.
George F. Getty, Inc. (10.) one redrilling, seven drilling and two rigging up.
Richfield Oil Company (6.) two drilling and four building rigs or rigging up.
Associated Oil Company (7.) five drilling, one rigging up and one building foundation.
C. C. Julian (4.) one drilling and three rigging up.
Superior Oil Company (2.) both drilling.
Bandini Petroleum Company (2.) one drilling and one location.
York & Lockhart (2.) one drilling and one rigging up.
Wilshire Oil Company (5.) one producing, two drilling and one rigging up.
Twin Bell Oil Syndicate (1.) drilling.
Star Petroleum Company (1.) deepening.
St. Helena Petroleum Corporation (1.) drilling.
Ring Petroleum Corporation (1.) drilling.
Macmillan Petroleum Company (1.) rigging up.
Cypress Petroleum Company (1.) rigging up.
Buckeye Union Oil Company (1.) rigging to deepen.
Bellevue Oil Syndicate (1.) drilling.
Walter J. Barnhart (1.) drilling.

Find in Nevada Mine Declared Unusually Rich

TONOPAH (Nev.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—The richest gold development in Nevada since the Mohawk strike at Goldfield over twenty years ago, is reported in the Nevada Coalition mine at Manhattan, controlled by Thomas F. Cole.

On the 700-foot level of the Earl claim, about 700 feet from the Amalgamated shaft, the vein is said to show a width of eight feet of $100 gold ore, with the ore body exposed for sixty feet. The management states that shoots and seams of specimen ore are showing. The strike is apparently the most important ever made in the Manhattan field, long noted for its rich quartz.

The new find is almost directly below the point where leasers extracted over $100,000 in the early days of the camp. The Nevada Coalition Company is said to have expended $350,000 in developing and equipping the property, which adjoins the White Caps, Manhattan Consolidated and other noted producers.

Daily Output at Signal Hill Fails to Slump

The Signal Hill field surprised everyone last week by failing to register an expected decline. The daily production stood up to an average of 206,600 barrels from approximately 750 active wells.

The deep zone alone registered a gain during the week over the output of the pervious week, the comparison being 143,600, against 138,000 barrels a day.

This increase was accounted for by the completion of two enormous producers, these being the Shell Company's Babb No. 4, yielding 3200 barrels a day, and the Rio Grande Oil Company's Municipal B No. 10, doing something like 5400 barrels a day.

SEVEN KERN WELLS GET UNDER WAY

Pacific Eastern Leads List of New Projects Started in County

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Seven new oil wells were spudded in last week in the oil fields of Kern county, the Pacific Eastern Production Company being the leader, with two wells. One of these wells is in the Union-avenue field, on Sec. 6, 30-28, and the other is in the Fruitvale area, on Sec. 22, 29-27.

Two new wells were begun in the Midway field, one being the No. 62 of the Standard Oil Company on Sec. 7, 32-24, and the other being the No. 14 well of the Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company on Sec. 8, 32-24.

The Ohio Oil Company has begun drilling its No. 2 well in the McKittrick field on Sec. 8, 30-22. The derrick for this well was skidded from the abandoned Morris No. 1. The new location is 1120 feet south and 1120 feet west of the northeast corner of the section.

The Petroleum Securities Company has a crew at work on its No. 2 well in the Poso Creek field, on Sec. 21, 27-28.

The Elkhorn Oil Company is beginning to make progress in its No. 1 well on Sec. 20, 28-20, in the northwestern part of the county.

Tests for water shutoff last week numbered five, as follows: Palmer Union Oil Company No. 20, Sec. 30, 9-32; Standard Oil Company No. 82, Sec. 29, 31-24, and North American Oil Consolidated No. 7-A, Sec. 16, 32-23, Midway; Petroleum Securities Company No. 2, Sec. 22, 27-28, and the Texas Company No. 2, Sec. 15, 27-28, Mount Poso field.

Old Gold Canyon Mining District Holds Interest

RENO (Nev.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive) The old Gold Canyon section of the Douglas district, near Mina, continues to hold much interest, The Kernick Mining Company asserts that a strong ledge of rich ore has been opened to a depth of twenty feet from surface, and is pushing vigorous work. Promising strikes have been made on adjacent claims, and indications are said by conservative engineers to be promising for the making of good producers. The district ranks among the oldest in Nevada, but the new developments are centered on comparatively virgin territory.

Supt. Eric J. Schrader of the Gold Circle, Consolidated Mines Company, operating at Midas, reports that the mill is treating 2200 tons of ore monthly, with good profits being earned. The plant is running largely on ores from the Jackson and Missing Ling mines, but heavy production will start in September from the noted Elko Prince property. Two tunnels are being driven to develop the lower areas of the Elko Prince Rex and adjacent claims, and to explore the promising Colorado Grande group.

Airplanes Will Service Mines in Mexico Area

Airplane service between mine and railroad shipping point was inaugurated last week when Charles McKinnis of Los Angeles, president and general manager of the Pacific Mining Company, left here in the company's new two-passenger airplane for its Los Lugos gold mine at Mezquitel del Oro, Zacatecas, Mex.

The plane, with Wilfred Deming as pilot, will make its headquarters at the mine, and will be used in taking in provisions and supplies, and company pay roll, from Guadalajara, sixty-two miles distant, and bringing out gold bullion. After spending a few days at the mine President McKinnis will go on to Mexico City, later returning to Mezquitel del Oro, where he will remain until the new stamp mill is in operation. Aviator Deming, it is stated, contemplates establishing a passenger air transportation service between Guadalajara and Mexico City, Tampico and other points.

NEW LUBRICANT PLANT STARTED

Gilmore By-Product Refinery Put in Operation

Venture in Line With Policy of Wider Activity

Company to Market Output at Own Stations

The Gilmore Oil Company, which has made considerable history here in the oil-marketing business, blazed a new trail Saturday by placing in operation its new lubricating oil refinery at its Vernon plant.

EARL D. GILMORE

This factory will be operated in conjunction with Gilmore's big asphalt refinery. Gilmore's crude-oil refinery takes off the gasoline to supply its wholesale trade, and extracts several other important petroleum products, after which the residue goes to the asphalt refinery where large quantities of road oil are manufactured.

When the asphalt has been removed the remainder of the oil is processed for the manufacture of lubricating oil which is to be marketed in connection with Gilmore gasoline, in many parts of the State according to Earl B. Gilmore, president of the company.

This lubricating oil is said to be a bluish green product, which the company is placing on the market under the trade name of Westoil, which it is having registered.

A few days ago the Gilmore organization completed a deal whereby it adds seventy service stations at Stockton, Sacramento, Lodi and adjacent towns, to its string of 600 other service stations in the Los Angeles district and elsewhere, and will hereafter supply the entire group of independently owned stations, as a wholesaler.

Beginning this week, Gilmore gasolines and oil are being shipped to Oakland by tank steamer. There it will be placed in tanks at a storage depot, and will, from time to time, be shipped in tank cars to Stockton and Sacramento.

This arrangement carries Gilmore products into northern California to compete with Richfield, Pan-American and General Petroleum products, which have invaded the bay district and adjacent territory within the last two to three years.

MERCURY ESTATES IN MERGER

Arizona Cinnabar and Tonto Mines Company Reported Combined

MIAMI (Ariz.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Consolidation is reported as having been effected by the Arizona Cinnabar, Tonto and Mines Mercury companies, owners of quicksilver properties in the northwestern Mazatzal range, about eighty miles northwest of here.

The first now has in operation a fifty-ton reduction plant and is employing about 100 men. There now is to be erection, at a point central to all the mines, of a plant of 200 tons daily capacity. Parts of the new equipment already are arriving in Globe. The new corporation has headquarters in New York, to which point all the product will be shipped in flasks.

The ores are of notable richness, with tales of pockets of pure mercury found in the red cinnabar veins. For many years the locality was considered almost inaccessible, with approach from the west, but a good road later was opened from Rye Creek, from the main road that leads through Tonto Basin to Payson.

SHOWINGS MEAGER

Pacific Eastern Drills Ahead in Fruitvale Project

FRUITVALE, Sept. 2. (Exclusive) The Pacific Eastern Production Company continues to drill ahead in hard gray sand with little oil indications in its deep-test No. 1 on Sec. 21, 29-27, in the Fruitvale area. The hole is now more than 5400 feet deep.

The company has passed the 1000-foot mark in its No. 4 well on the same section, which was spudded ten days ago. No. 5 is down approximately 200 feet and the foundations have been put in for Labore No. 1, located 1650 feet south and 340 feet west of the northeast corner of the same section.

OIL MOVEMENT STAYS UNIFORM

Bulk Exports From Harbor Keep Steady Level

Fuel in Second Position and Crude Comes Third

Bulk petroleum exports from Los Angeles Harbor the last three weeks have been running singularly uniform, there being less than 100,000 barrels' variation. Three weeks ago the movement totaled 2,453,050 barrels, two weeks ago the exports ran to 2,497,050 barrels, while last week they totaled 2,388,055 barrels.

Last week's movement hinged upon Los Angeles gasoline. The demand for that product for summer vacation consumption amounted to 1,003,803 barrels, the Atlantic seaboard taking 537,658 barrels of it. Fuel oil was in second place with 937,254 barrels, while crude was a poor third with 245,243 barrels.

The Pacific domestic trade called for 609,681 barrels, embracing 245,243 barrels of crude, 356,043 barrels of fuel and 62,795 barrels of gasoline. The Pacific foreign trade took 502,197 barrels, including 432,332 barrels of fuel, 53,000 barrels of gas and 16,865 barrels of Diesel.

The Atlantic domestic trade called for 740,548 barrels, including 557,658 barrels of gasoline, 88,344 barrels of tops, and 94,546 barrels of kerosene. The Atlantic foreign demand was for 477,229 barrels—146,879 barrels of fuel and 330,350 barrels of gasoline. The shipments for the week were as follows:

PACIFIC DOMESTIC

El Cedro to Seattle with 12,175 barrels of fuel for James Griffith & Son.

DEEP TEST HALTED

Standard Sets Pipe in Tupman Hole for Gas Pressure

TUPMAN, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—To determine the quantity of gas pressure in its KC No. 1 well on Sec. 31, 30-25, in the Elk Hills, the Standard Oil Company stopped drilling its deep test and ran a string of six-and-one-quarter-inch pipe, including 200 feet of slotted casing, into the hole.

Gas was noted from 3597 feet to the bottom of the hole, which is 3605 feet. When the test is completed the drilling crew will continue to drill on down.

ORGAN RECITAL AT PARK

An organ recital will be given next Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Roosevelt Memorial Park, One Hundred and Eighty-second street and Vermont avenue, by C. Harold Dick, organist-director of the First Presbyterian Church of San Pedro, it is announced.

WILDCAT HOLE PROMISING

Langstaff Project Southwest of Los Cerritos Field Attracting Attention

The Langstaff wildcat well, which is being drilled at a point southwest of the Los Cerritos field and just west of the Pacific Electric Railway right of way, is stealing the interest away from the Signal Hill field.

This well is officially reported to be down 5332 feet, and to have cored considerable oil sand in streaks. It is said to correlate quite well with the formations in Signal Hill, and to have a fairly good chance to pick up a real body of oil sand within the next 100 feet. Saturday the management decided to core ahead for fifty feet.

The Langstaff interests hold ten acres where the well is located. A group of associates known as the D.V.L.P. Oil Company has just assigned five acres adjoining Langstaff on the south to the Gilmore Oil Company, but holds seven and one-half acres adjoining that tract, while the Standard Oil Company holds forty acres due west of the Langstaff lease.

The Los Cerritos field, which was developed more than two years ago, proved to be somewhat of a disappointment to the majority of operators, because of the sharp decline in production, but afforded two or three operators who have made unfortunate plays elsewhere a vehicle with which to recoup their ebbing fortunes through their good luck in getting off to a quick start and bringing in big flush production ahead of their competitors.

While the industry as a whole is not looking for anything spectacular to develop from the Langstaff venture, neither was it looking for a big field at Seal Beach two years ago. The majority of operators are willing to admit that most anything in the way of petroleum development can happen within a few miles of the peak of Signal Hill.

BOND TAKEN ON ORIOLE MINE GROUP

Operator Consolidated May Buy Properties in Trinity County

J. H. Hassell of this city, president of the Operator Consolidated Mines Company, has returned from Trinity county, where he took a bond and option on the Oriole group of gold-bearing claims seven miles from Douglas, which may be taken over by the Operator company.

The Oriole ore, Mr. Hassell says, is a free-milling product and there is an ore tonnage available for mill requirements for a period of at least twelve months, he thinks, the mine output averaging about $40 in gold to the ton, with occurrences of shoots in the ore bodies running up into three figures. The property is developed by tunnels and is equipped with a milling plant. It is said to be located in one of the richest mineralized sections of Trinity county.

The Operator company, which has been prospecting the old Mohawk-Red Top gold mines at Goldfield, Nev., by "long-drill" methods, has resumed operations there after a temporary closedown while making repairs to drill equipment, and with most satisfactory results.

A new drill hole, Mr. Hassell says, has been sent out 100 feet in virgin and unworked territory, previously supposed to be barren. Already this exploratory work has cross-cut fifty-two feet of a quartz ledge that is similar in appearance and characteristics to Mohawk ore.

Revival of Old Divide Mining Area Reported

TONOPAH (Nev.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—After being discredited among mining men for many years following the collapse of the boom ten years ago, the Divide district is again coming to the front. The Gold Zone Company is shipping a carload of ore weekly to the Millers plant of the Tonopah Mining Company, with the product said to average around $20 per ton.

This ore is coming from the 500-foot level, and drifting has started on the 600 to pick up the vein. Leasers on the Tonopah Divide are shipping steadily, and shipments are going out from the Brougher and other properties.

The Nevada Quicksilver Company, controlled by L. D. Friedman, Lovelock banker, and a group of Los Angeles capitalists, has completed building of a large plant, and plans to start production this week. The plant is equipped with crushers, concentrators and a large rotary furnace, and will handle 130 tons of cinnabar daily.

Standard Still Drilling Ahead at Oildale Hole

OILDALE, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—The Standard Oil Company's venture a mile east of Oildale and near the banks of Kern River on Sec. 18, 29-28, known as Oildale No. 5, has given little encouragement so far. Showings from 2450 to 2526 feet gave some promise, with considerable water to combat. The officials decided that the outlook did not justify a test at that depth.

The Betts Petroleum Company has recovered lost tools in its No. 5 well on Sec. 25, 28-27, of the Kern Front, and the hole has been cleaned out to the bottom, which is 1170 feet. The six and one-quarter inch pipe has been run in.

The Italo Petroleum Corporation's No. 32 well on Sec. 16, 28-27 in the same field is standing with the eight and five-eighths inch casting set at 2618 feet.

TOM REED SITUATION IMPROVED

Completion of Project Aimed to Connect With Aztec Zone Reported

OATMAN (Ariz.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—On the 800-foot level of Tom Reed's 800-level drift, Supt. Jack Shank has made connection with the Aztec area winze aimed at, thus assuring better air and making available a large tonnage of developed ore of high grade. A station and pumps are being placed at the winze intersection.

When this work is complete, the drift will be continued onward toward the American end line, with assurance of 325 feet of ore. Stopes are to be opened on the way, to feed the mill and return the property to profitable production.

What is reported as being a notable discovery has been made in the Gold Road, where, in running around caved ground, a drift has passed through twenty feet of milling ore, a body unsuspected before, lying beyond the hanging-wall line of the ledge previously worked in that section of the mine. The bins are being filled with good ore from a two-foot vein at the 3880-foot station, while milling ore is said to show a full face in a winze being sunk from the tunnel level, 300 feet from the portal.

A big electric hoist on the United American shaft has been connected and is to be in operation the 10th inst. The company then will start sinking to 1100 feet of depth, where there is to be lateral development.

Bond Taken on Group of Mine Claims at Ajo

AJO (Ariz.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive) Announcement has been made of the bonding, for $1,525,000, by Hoval A. Smith of Warren, of eighty mining claims, adjoining New Cornelia on the south. Diamond drilling is to be started at once on croppings of low-grade copper ore, with the expectation of developing large bodies that may be mined by the cheap steam-shovel method that here has proved so successful.

The claims bonded are owned by the Ajo Extension Copper Company and a number of local residents. Mr. Smith has had good success in the past in mine promotion in the Bisbee section and at Miami, in the latter camp developing and selling the Live Oak property, now the main source of ore supply for the great Inspiration mill.

TEXAS PROJECT AT ARVIN PROGRESSES

ARVIN, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—The Texas Company has reached a depth of nearly 6000 feet in its Pauley No. 1 well on Sec. 22, 31-29, near Arvin and for the last fifty feet has been going through gray sand.

Tomorrow Is the Day

A Cordial Invitation Is Extended to Everyone to Our New Offices on Pershing Square

Opening Announcement Advertisement
By ELWOOD LLOYD

Right across from Pershing Square on Sixth street is the Detwiler Building. The entrance is No. 412 West Sixth street. On the ground floor are located the fine new offices we open to the public tomorrow. These offices are the Los Angeles headquarters of the Bay Cities Guaranty Building-Loan Association.

The opening of the Los Angeles offices commemorates the seventh anniversary of the association, which has been operating exclusively in Santa Monica.

Under the guidance of John D. Richell, president of the association, the Bay Cities has made an excellent record during the past seven years. The assets have grown to a point exceeding two and one-half million dollars, and the guarantee capital and surplus amounts to three hundred twenty-five thousand dollars. This is a most remarkable growth for a building and loan association operating in a small community. A list of more than five thousand satisfied investors and customers testifies to the merit of the management of the association.

The business of the Bay Cities Guaranty Building-Loan Association is nicely set forth in the opening of the articles of incorporation, which says:

"The purposes for which said corporation is formed are to encourage industry, frugality, home-building, and savings among its shareholders and others."

To assist in industry and savings, the association provides several forms of investment certificates, to meet the needs and savings of all classes of persons. Loans secured from investment certificates is based upon the principle of good character for refinancing homes. Such a loan investment association looked upon as being one of the safest forms of investment possible to devise.

To assist in home-building, the association makes loans on an amortized basis. These amortized basis monthly loans are repaid in monthly installments. This form of loan permits a home-loving person to live in his own home and pay for it in easy payments similar to rent. For each thousand dollars borrowed the monthly payments amount to only $7.00, which covers all of both principal and interest charges.

All this week a special extra one per cent bonus will be given on all investment certificates, regardless of term, in commemoration of the seventh anniversary and the opening of the Los Angeles office.

A cordial invitation is extended to investors, home-builders and friends generally to call tomorrow for our "Opening Day" in the new Los Angeles quarters.

JULY GASOLINE SALES HEAVIER

Sales Over June Reported as 2,963,000 Barrels

Production Total for Month 2,201,000 Higher

Domestic Crude Oil Output Also Increases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Domestic consumption of gasoline in July totaled 31,985,000 barrels, or 1,032,000 daily, against 29,022,000, or 962,000 daily in June, and 31,948,000, or 967,000 daily July, 1927.

Refining experts were 5,167,000 barrels, against 4,806,000 in June, 5,172,000 in May and 3,223,000 in July, 1927.

Domestic production in July totaled 31,094,000 barrels, or 1,061,000 barrels daily against 30,675,000, or 1,023,000 barrels in June, 29,625,000, or 994,000 barrels in May and 28,010,000, or 904,000 barrels daily in July, 1927.

Imports of crude oil output in July totaled 5,166,000 barrels, or 172,000 barrels daily against 72,526,000, or 2,417,000 barrels, against 75,681,000 barrels, or 2,441,000 barrels in June, 73,218,000, or 2,362,000 barrels in May and 78,222,000, or 2,523,000 barrels daily in July, 1927.

Stocks of crude oil and refined products in July aggregated 371,349,000 barrels, against 368,242,000 barrels, or 11,879,000 barrels, in June, 371,349,000 barrels, or 11,979,000 barrels in May and 324,930,000 in July, 1927.

PATAGONIA MINE AGAIN OPERATING

Production Reported as Resumed at Properties of Full Fair-Trench

PATAGONIA (Ariz.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—The World's Fair and Lucky Boy mines, now managed by Walter Johnson, are starting production, with the former properties mentioned and with the Mexican mill. A good road has been built to the mill.

The Lucky Boy, Superior, apparently has abandoned its plans to sink, or there is report that it will sink the well-known Three R shaft, owned by Harry Brown and associates of Nogales. The mine has been under sampling. The Richmond, former owner of the Connecticut, is opening the Connecticut, in Josephine Canyon.

The Junction Boy tunnel now is 1,000 feet long, with 600 feet still to go to cut an ore body. Although it is said, have been cut in veins, one of them running 30 feet in gold across its breadth and 6 feet wide. The main lode is twenty feet wide, carrying copper sulphides, chalcopyrite and bornite, with lead in the workings. The property is being developed by Albert F. Gross of Duluth, Minn.

The Valley of Patagonia is dominated by the Ruth-Hostetake mine, fifteen miles south of this point. The mine is said to carry about $50 gold, silver, lead, copper and zinc.

NEW VENTURA LEASE LOOM

Subdivision Near School Girls May be Tested

Efforts Under Way to Form Community Group

Progress which has been made in the formation of a community project in what is known as Ramal No. 2, a subdivision lying just north of the State School for Girls, would appear probable that oil development in the Ventura-avenue district may soon reach right up to the city limits of Ventura.

The tract in question lies on the east side of Ventura avenue and extends back to the hills. It is south of the M.K.T. Oil Co. holdings. During the past week agents have been signing up property owners on Franklin Lane. The community lease which now embraces sixty-three owners.

It is asserted that the complete lease can be formed even if the remainder of the lot-owners do not sign up, and eventually operations will be opened with an operating company to get the wells drilled.

When the land was sold as a subdivision by Walter Johnson, he retained half of the oil and gas rights, so that these rights are now owned by him and the buyers of the lots, who were allowed in their purchase contracts the right to lease such leases.

Should oil development continue on this property, it would extend the field farther south than the Shell Co.'s No. 1 well of the M.K.T. formation, now the most southerly of the producing wells in the Ventura field.

Electric Power to Drill Wells in Texas Field

McCAMEY (Tex.) Sept. 1. (Exclusive)—More than 200 oil wells are to be drilled with electric power in the Yates field of Pecos county, the Mid-Kansas Oil Company announced. The power is to be supplied by the West Texas Utilities Company, which has just completed an extension to its power transmission system to the heart of the lease area where the Mid-Kansas Oil Company is operating.

Power transmission lines of the West Texas Utilities Company are also supplying power for drilling other field operations of oil producing companies in the fields of Pecos and Winkler counties.

The Texas Electric Service Company is extending its power transmission system from the Chesney station to Forsan, near Big Spring, where it will serve in drilling oil wells and supply Forsan with power and lights.

INDIAN-SPANISH FIESTA PLANNED FOR FRIDAY

An Indian pow-wow and fiesta, including war dances and tribal rites of 1000 Indians of twenty tribes, combined with an old California Spanish festival, will be held on the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th inst. at Washington Boulevard and Thurman street, directors of the Ramona Village, Inc., announced yesterday.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what lines are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with sample.

Alabaster

SALOME (Ariz.) Aug. 14.—Question: I am sending you today by parcels post piece of rock that I would like to have classified. I am greatly interested to know whether it contains any lime. F.

Answer: Alabaster is compact fine-grained gypsum, white or delicately shaded. (United States Geological Survey.) Your sample is tinted blue. It occurs at several localities in California-Riverside county, in Palen Mountains, San Luis Obispo county, at Arroyo Grande, Santa Barbara county, has been mined at Point Sal, occurs in eastern part of county. Chemically, the specimen is known as sulphate of lime, composed of sulphuric acid 46.51; lime, 32.56; water, 20.93—percentages respectively.

Arsenical

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Q.: Herewith I am handing you a sample of mineral which to date no one has attempted to name. It is from Sierra county, California. Will you please state through column "In the Earth" what it is and if of market value? X.

A.: This variety of mineral is often reported to be "radium ore" and carries no uranium. It is not radio active. It is a mixture of auroral-red arsenic monosulphide known as Raelgar; lemon yellow orpiment (also arsenic sulphide,) with more or less mimetite (lead chlorarsenate.) The value of mineral represented by the sample depends on the results of fire assays for gold and silver.

Three Samples

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—Q.: Samples are from claims located about 140 miles from Los Angeles; ten miles from Borax field, and one mile from Goldfield, near Randsburg. Any information will be appreciated. D.

A.: One of the samples narked with your name is Selenite mixed with other gypsum of very low grade. One other specimen is marked "radio active." It is a pulverized mixture and was not tested. The third sample marked No. 2 is siliceous lime carbonate, and not analyzed for magnesia.

Mari

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) Aug. 15.—Q.: I am mailing you sample of mineral which I think might be of value for making paints. Please test it and let me know. M.

A.: One can make paint from most anything nowadays. The sample is a variety of lime carbonate mixed with aluminum silicate. Try out similar mineral by placing it in a bucket of water, stir it rapidly, let it precipitate for some three minutes, then pour off the milky supernatant solution into another bucket; allow the mixture to precipitate at the bottom of the second bucket used, dry it and mix for paint. The sample is rather low grade, however.

A Mixture

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—Q.: Will you please report on the inclosed ores as you do in your column on minerals? These samples were taken about sixty miles from Phoenix toward Wickenburg. C.

A.: The sample carries reddish hematite; red manganese carbonate; iron carbonate, traces of cuprite and melaconite. In the mixture chips of quartz were found carrying traces of azurite, traces of micaceous iron and ilmenite. Flake platinum absent, and not tested for gold and silver. Properly treated the mixture might do for paint and pigment purposes.

Three Specimens

HUNTINGTON PARK, Aug. 17—Q.: The samples were found in San Diego county. Please classify same and give me information, uses and commercial values. The basis of source is around 400 to 600 acres. G.

A.: The basis problem and tonnages are somewhat indefinite. Sample No. 1 is milk-white massive quartz and it is a variety that sells for approximately $1 per ton f.o.b. cars. No. 2 is a mixture of low-grade orthoclase (feldspar) and graphic granite (pegmatite.) No. 3 is pegmatite carrying microscopical, blackish hornblende with biotite, known as black mica by the mining boys in the hills. This sample also carries traces of silvery lustered mica and yellow mica, of microscopical sizes known as cat silver and cat gold, respectively. Free gold found in traces only.

Two Samples

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Q.: Samples are from Gila county, Arizona. Please classify them and give me qualitative analyses thereon. Any commercial values? M.

A.: One of the samples is bluish limestone with some dolomite. Zinc and lead present in traces only. The other specimen is chiefly magnetite. Try a magnet on similar mineral. Lead vanadate traces found with a little cerussite (lead carbonate.) Values problematical.

Four Samples

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—Q.: Am sending box of samples from Holcomb Valley. I and my partner would be pleased to know what character of ores the samples represent. What are they and what do they contain? M.

A.: Sample No. 1 is magnetite, partly altered to hematite. No. 2 is a botryoidal, low-grade blackish limonite (hydrous iron peroxide.) No. 3 is cellular quartz mixed with a little gypsite (low-grade gypsum.) No. 4 is mostly garnet rock carrying some crystallized garnet and massive epidote.

Two Specimens

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—Q.: Please analyze the two rocks I am sending you. Sample No. 1 for cinnabar. I am at a loss regarding properties of No. 2 but believe it carries some nickel. The samples are from Salome, Ariz., off the Harquahala range. W.

A.: No. 1 seems to be a lava-like rock containing iron peroxide (hematite.) No reaction could be obtained for cinnabar. No. 2 is jasper, stained with limonite and hematite.

Two Samples

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—Q.: The samples were found on Daggett road near Victorville fifty feet below the surface. Please analyze for gold and platinum. H.

A.: The gravel specimen carries quartz, feldspar, and black mica. The sandstone sample contains microscopic mica and mica schist. Native gold and flake platinum absent.

Twenty-one Samples

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 21.—Q.: Please assay the samples and oblige. R.

A.: No fire assays made for gold and silver. The samples carry a very low percentage of copper, with zinc and galenite traces. Lime carbonate, baryte, quartz and iron oxides more or less present. The lemon-yellow stains shown in bare traces on some of the specimens would probably react for uranium, if enough of the matter could be obtained for tests.

Hornblendic Rock

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—Q.: I think the sample I am sending you contains uranium and vanadium (?) Locality in Los Angeles county seventy-five miles from Los Angeles. Please make analysis of the sample and state if it contains values and to what extent. T.

MULTIPLE SALES CLERK

The multiple sales clerk flourishes in New York. To watch him as he darts from one customer to another is to be reminded of the humming bird flitting about among the flowers. With such an extensive territory for its labors it cannot tarry to concentrate, but visits now this source of nectar, now that, then flies back to the first again, somehow managing to do justice to all. Likewise, the often harassed, but generally skillful multiple clerk pursues his work.

In the secluded salons of the avenue the shopper finds herself surrounded by attendants. Around the corner conditions are otherwise. For each person who sells there are three, four or perhaps half a dozen shoppers. They flatly refuse to wait in line, growing restive as they think of other shopping to be done. At the same time they have a way of taking their time once they have a clerk in hand. It has been discovered that the constant presence of the attendant is not an indispensable requisite, and so he has learned to handle hesitating customers by the group. Thus the multiple salesman appears, displaying all the adroitness of a juggler.

Except in the exclusive salons shoppers seldom have a sales person entirely to themselves any more. Even in the department stores, where they must wait their turn to get their cloth measured and cut, they often lay claim to a bit of their predecessor's time to inquire the price of pique or as to the possibility of matching samples. At the neighborhood grocer's, too, the person at the front of the counter is subject to interruptions; and the butcher may cut a steak for a newcomer while a prior customer is thoughtfully feeling the breast bones of a chicken. But to witness the methods of the multiple clerk at his best one should visit on a Friday afternoon one of those "chain" shops where dresses or shoes are sold.

No sooner does one enter than a major-domo at the door finds a seat or a dressing cubbyhole for "madam." The attendant assigned arrives. From the interest he displays one might imagine this was his one prospect of the day instead of the fifth in hand at the time. The slipper or the dress is produced, put on and admired, then the customer is left to think it over while the clerk tries someone else. If she but so much as wavers, however, he is back again with more goods and more flattering remarks.

Endless must be the energy and resourcefulness of the multiple clerk, keeping whole groups in buying line throughout the day.

When night comes he has the satisfaction of knowing that far more goods have been sold than would have been in the old way. Not a customer has suffered the loss of a moment or taken herself off without at least getting "waited on." The multiple clerk may be only the poor relation in trade of the sales person of the avenue; yet he is not wanting in service.—[New York Times.

USING A LIBRARY

It is one thing to own a library, it is quite another to use it wisely. I have often been astonished how little care people devote to selection of what they read. Books, we know, are almost innumerable; our hours for reading are, alas! very few. And yet many people read almost by hazard. They will take any book they chance to find in a room at a friend's house; they will buy a novel at a railway stall if it has an attractive title. Indeed, I believe in some cases even the binding affects their choice. The selection is, no doubt, far from easy.—[Sir John Lubbock.

OPENING OF NEW FIELD LOOMS

Wildcat Between Poso Creek and Round Mountain Gets Showings

EDISON, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—There appears to be a new oil field in the making about midway between Round Mountain and the Poso Creek field. The Lindsay Oil Company, drilling there, has picked up a silty oil sand, well shows symptoms of being a 1250 feet which continues to a depth of 1560 feet. The well shows simptoms of being a good producer when a production test is made.

Other wells in the Round Mountain and Poso Creek districts are either standing cemented, coring, fishing or drilling in shale with little of an exciting nature.

NEWS OF MINES AREA REPORTED

North Star Opening Estate at Deeper Level

Georgetown Installing New Hoist on Estate

Angelenos Pushing Work at Surcease Property

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Highly pleased with the results of deep developments, the North Star Mines Company has started sinking two winzes from the bottom level of the shaft, at an inclined depth of 3600 feet. This corresponds to a vertical depth of 3400 feet.

These winzes are going down on the dip of the massive ledge, and will open the property to an approximate depth of 3700 vertical feet. Production is reported to be averaging nearly $90,000 a month. The North Star is at Grass Valley.

The Georgetown Mines, Inc., is installing a powerful electric hoist and compressor on its Eureka-Woodside group, at Georgetown, and started building of an eighty-foot headframe over the Eureka shaft. One of the old shafts on the Woodside mine has been reopened, and drifting on a promising ledge begun. As soon as equipment is in place the main shaft will be dewatered and repaired, and deep mining commenced.

Opening of the main vein on the 700-foot level of the Pyramid gold mine, near Placerville, has been confirmed by the management, and plans are proceeding for installation of a mill and mine machinery.

Old workings are said to contain perhaps 67,000 tons of profitable ore, and a large area of virgin territory invites development. The property is controlled by the New Pyramid Mines Company.

Vigorous development of the Surcease gold property in the Yankee Hill field tributary to Oroville has been launched by Fred H. Elder and associates of Los Angeles. New equipment has been installed, and excellent ore is said to be showing in new workings. The Surcease is held under lease and option by the Los Angeles operators, and is owned by the Goldfield Consolidated Company of Goldfield, Nev.

NEW CINNABAR FIND MADE IN HUMBOLDT

A new cinnabar find has been made in Humboldt county fifteen miles from Orleans, on the Mill Creek divide. Tests show a large deposit of cinnabar ore in paying quantities and a company has been formed by Eureka people, known as the Mill Creek Mining Company, to develop the prospect.

THE MERCY BULLET

A big game hunting expedition that is trying for the unusual record of returning from the chase without having killed a single animal with the special bullets it will use sailed recently for Africa, says the New York Times.

Headed by Capt. Barnett Harris, naturalist, the party will spend six months in Swaziland, Zululand and the Transvaal, following jungle trails, carrying out a program of scientific work, but with the primary object of demonstrating Capt. Harris's invention, the "mercy bullet," a projectile that stuns animals in such a way that they may be captured in a more humane manner than was possible by the old methods. Animal specimens will be submitted to the Chicago Zoological Society and the Field Museum of Natural History.

A day or two before he sailed Capt. Harris, who will write descriptive reports from the field for the New York Times, discussed his plans for the expedition and explained the design of the mercy bullet.

This invention is a small projectile made of aluminum about three inches long. It may be fired with a light charge of powder from a gun or pistol, or it may be used with a bow and arrow. The nose of the bullet is equipped with a hypodermic needle and the base is filled with chemicals. When an animal is struck with a mercy bullet only the fine sharp needle pierces the hide, the chemical is then automatically injected into the animal's tissue just as if a hypodermic needle were being used. The mercy bullet is a hypodermic needle applied at long range.

"The chemical used in the bullets is a compound," Capt. Harris explained. "It acts almost instantly, first on the nervous system, causing temporary loss of power of locomotion. The animal falls and is unable to rise. In the course of a few minutes it is gradually stupefied. It passes into a narcotic sleep and is then under control.

"While in this condition it may be easily shackled without danger to the personnel or injury to the animal. In this condition it is transferred to the corral and all shackles removed. It soon recovers from the influence of the drug, and, being unhampered, will resume normality without the infense fright it would suffer if it had been caught in a trap."

Although Capt. Harris does not express his own views regarding the keeping of animals in zoos, he is proceeding on the theory that so long as zoos exist it is man's duty to capture animals in the most humane manner possible.

"Where this bullet is in the hands of scientific men who are obtaining animals for museums and scientific purposes," Capt. Harris continued, "it gives them this advantage: If the animal is undesirable for any reason, it may be turned loose again uninjured. Very young animals—among them the gorilla—may be captured without the necessity of killing the parents."

MINES PARLEY PLANS TOLD

Secretary of Organization in City Planning for Western Congress Meeting

J. F. Callbreath of Washington, D. C., secretary of the American Mining Congress, is in the city to make preliminary arrangements for the annual convention of the western division of the American Mining Congress which will be held here September 10 to 13, inclusive. From the interest already manifested in this gathering Mr. Callbreath expects it to be a meeting of outstanding importance to the western mining States.

The last meeting of this character held on the Pacific Coast was the twenty-seventh annual convention of the American Mining Congress, which took place at Sacramento September 29 to October 4, 1924, and was marked by a colorful celebration of early days in California when gold miners were making national history.

"The American Mining Congress is the child of the western mining industry," said Mr. Callbreath, "and has not forgotten its parents in the many years which have intervened since it was organized in Denver back in the nineties. The organization has constantly before it peculiar problems of the metal mining industry of the West, and keeps in close contact with the changing economic situation and its bearing on the industry."

Two officers of the American Mining Congress are western men. They are Robert E. Tally, general manager of the United Verde Copper Company of Clarkdale, Ariz., who is first vice-president, and Jesse F. McDonald of Leadville, Colo., president of the Town Town Mines Company and formerly Governor of Colorado. He is third vice-president.

Western men who are directors of the American Mining Congress are L. S. Cates of Salt Lake City, Stanley Easton of Kellogg, Idaho, J. F. Robinson of Miami, Okla., and Mr. McDonald. The officers and directors of the western division of the American Mining Congress are Phillip Wiseman of California, chairman; F. W. Maclennan of Arizona, vice-chairman, and G. Chester Brown of California, secretary.

The program for the Los Angeles meeting is yet in tentative stage, but Mr. Callbreath states that mining men whom he has recently seen are responding to the invitation to attend and participate in the discussion to such an extent as to assure the complete success of the convention. In addition to the western division meeting other organizations will co-operate by holding their annual meetings at Los Angeles at the same time. These will include the Arizona chapter of the American Mining Congress, the California section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the California Development Association.

The group of meetings will get under way the morning of the 10th inst with a session by the western division of the American Mining Congress, which will consider progress in mineral production. Mr. Wiseman will be the presiding officer. Reports on the progress of the industry will be made by States as follows:

A. G. Mackenzie, secretary of the Utah chapter of the American Mining Congress of Salt Lake City; J. D. Conover, secretary of the Tri-State Zinc and Lead Ore Producers' Association of Miami, Okla., representing Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma; C. Chester Brown of the California Mineral Producers' Association; W. B. Gohring, secretary of the Arizona chapter of the American Mining Congress; Frank M. Smith of the Idaho Mining Association; Henry M. Rives of the Nevada Mine Operators' Association; Mr. Woodbury, secretary of the New Mexico chapter of the American Mining Congress, and J. F. Richards of Cleveland, O., representing the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association.

The afternoon session on the 10th inst. will be under the auspices of the California section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

Practical operating problems of the western mining industry will be considered at the morning session the 11th inst., when the western division will continue its program by considering questions affecting the gold and copper mining industries, an dthe hydraulic mining situation. The California Development Association will conduct its meeting the afternoon of the 11th inst.

Continuing its program, the western division will conduct the morning session the 12th inst., when further practical operating problems, including those affecting lead, zinc, silver and nonmetallics will be considered. The American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers will have charge of the afternoon session, under the direction of Dr. H. Foster Bain of New York, secretary of the institute. Dr. Bain is well and popularly known as the former director of the United States Bureau of Mines.

Mr. Tally will preside over the final session of the western division the morning of the 13th inst., when tariff and western mineral production will be considered and resolutions adopted expressing the views of western mining men on the problems concerning their industry. The business sessions of the conventions will be interspersed with luncheons and entertainment features by local committees, who will co-operate.

LEAD-ZINC MINE SALE DUE

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Sept. 2 (Exclusive)—From Chloride has come word of the expected transfer, the 15th inst., of the noted and highly developed Tennessee - Schuylkill lead-zinc mines, to the Whittlesey interests of Detroit. A sixty-day option was given July 15.

In the same camp, Arizona Magma is hoisting good ore from the 300-foot level. Its George Washington Extension has over two feet of ore of shipping grade. A new camp has been completed at the Diana shaft.

Drifting has been started in the Katherine section on the 600-foot level of Katherine Treasure Vault Extension, with exploration in two directions. It is stated that the shaft soon will be started downward, to permit new exploratory work at 900 or 1000 feet of depth.

In the Wallapai Mountains, the Century mine of the United Republic Company is in high-grade in two drifts at 100 feet of depth. The management reports that ore already developed is ample for operation of the new mill, which is to be started within sixty days. It will have a 300-horsepower power plant. Plenty of water has been obtained.

North of Grand Canyon, near Fredonia, the Ryan property is employing seventy-five men, headed by J. Van Damm, a recent local visitor. The mine, a copper producer, is connected by an eight-mile railroad with the reduction plant.

WOMEN WHO SELL CARS

Some of Them Work Up Sales Quite Quickly and Effectively

If you ask the average automobile dealer what he thinks of women as sellers of automobiles he will probably say "Not much," says the New York Sun. That's one thing a woman can't do. It's a man's job. Women haven't a mechanical slant; they don't like fussing with engines and grease.

"Besides, when a person buys a car today he likes to have it demonstrated by a salesman who knows what's under the hood. Usually, too, he demands some service from that salesman after he buys the car, and that's where women don't qualify. Not one woman in a hundred can locate motor trouble in an automobile by driving it around a few blocks."

Perhaps that is true of the majority of women, or possibly it's a masculine conception of average feminine shortcoming; nevertheless, to make things interesting and contrary, here are instances of women who are making exceptional successes, not only selling cars, but as automobile mechanics.

Take, for instance, the motor car company at Marshalltown, Iowa, of which Miss Margaret Neil and Miss Ruth H. Stockwell are president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, sales manager, sales women and mechanics. These two young women started with $216 in cash, a demonstrator car purchased on the deferred payment plan and a rented one-car space in a garage. In the fall of 1925 they sold at retail ten carloads of automobiles over a period of eight weeks.

One of the selling secrets of the Misses Neil and Stockwell is their plan of obtaining prospects by house-to-house canvass. Their motto is, "Sell the Woman First." In their bell-pushing rounds they plan their arrival so as to find the housewife at home and her husband away.

"It's easy to learn from a woman what kind of a car the family has, how old it is and if they are thinking of buying a new one," the partners state. "We talk beauty, comfort and safety to the wife. We tell her about the appearance of the car, how it rides, how safe it is. In general, we do not discuss mechanical details with the wife, because she is seldom interested. She takes engine efficiency for granted.

"After we have given the woman of the household a talk about our cars we arrange at another time to see the man. To him we explain the mechanical construction, our service facilities, payment plans. We know that if we have his wife convinced a large part of our selling is done for us in the home."

Both Miss Neil and Miss Stockwell are expert automobile mechanics, they keep abreast as part of their selling job, with all mechanical changes in automobile engineering, and can talk engine construction with a man customer as freely as they talk color and line of cars with women. They operate their business upon a strictly cash basis, which eliminates much detail. Miss Stockwell takes charge of the office and Miss Neil supervises the parts department. They are particular about keeping their garage neat and clean without resorting to fussiness. New and used cars are never permitted to stand around dirty, and all used cars are reconditioned and repainted before they are sold.

Proving again that the basis of successful selling of automobiles by women is "knowing your stuff," the skill of Miss Hildegard Krickow can be vouched for by any Northern Ohio dealer for the firm for whom she sells automobiles in wholesale lots. She is assistant to the zone manager at the Cleveland factory branch and is responsible for the wholesale division. For her mechanical experience she went right out in the service department, donned jumpers and was not afraid to get her hands covered with grease.

"Anyone selling cars, man or woman, must have more than a sales knowledge of motors," Miss Krickow finds. "You have to win a customer's confidence by showing him that you know what you are talking about. Besides knowing mechanical details, however, you have to be able to size up your prospect's interests. Many men are not so interested in technical information other than the number of cylinders, possible speed and similar generalities. What they want to be shown is the car's performance. With women the most important point is the upholstery, although today they are especially keen about body lines—style. The average woman does not trouble much about durability of finish of a car and less about mechanical construction."

Contrary to the opinion expressed by many women in business, Miss Krickow insists. "I enjoy doing business with women, although I think that the big field for automobile saleswomen is in selling to men."

DESERT MINING DISTRICT BUSY

Camps West of Wickenburg Reported Active

Golden Eagle Lessee Strikes Paying Ore Vein

Wenden Copper Working from New Deep Shaft

WICKENBURG (Ariz.) Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—Much activity is reported, despite summer heat, in the desert areas west of here, from the California and Arizona Railroad. The Golden Eagle claims of the bonanza Harqua Hala mines has been leased by John Jones. Under a lime contact he has found eight feet of ore that will pay to ship, as well as an excellent two-inch paystreak.

Harqua Hala Extension is sinking an incline shaft at a point 1000 feet west of the old Harqua Hala shaft. One vein of good ore, at 300 feet, is furnishing shipping ore, and another is to be cut 200 feet farther down.

Eight miles south of Harqua Hala, the Consolidated Arizona Mines Company is down 250 feet, in a shaft that is to be 1000 feet deep, with opening already of ores carrying values in copper and silver.

The Wenden Copper Company, near the station of the same name, has completed a shaft 1000 feet deep and is working in a body of twelve feet of ore reported of satisfactory value in copper and gold.

North of Wickenburg, under direction of James Coupal, the old Octave mine is being revived by a Pennsylvania company, incorporated as the Arizona Eastern Gold Mining Company. The twenty-stamp mill is being scrapped, replaced by a fifty-ton flotation plant, and new hoisting and compressor equipment have been set at the deep shaft. The ores are similar to those of the Congress, a close iron pyrite, running well in gold.

MINE CHIEF REPORTS ON COMANCHE

C. A. Palmer Tells of Progress in Developing Mono County Estate

The Comanche Mining Company will soon consign a carload lot of mill ore to Midvale, Utah, where experimental tests will be made to work out a flow sheet to be used in the construction of the first 100-ton unit of a large reduction plant to be constructed about the first of the year at company mines in Mono county, according to President Charles A. Palmer, just returned from the mines on Blind Springs Hill.

Weir measurements are also being made of the water flow of Montgomery Creek, owned by the company, preparatory to the construction of a large hydroelectric plant planned to generate power for mine and mill operation.

In mine development the upraise from the Ross tunnel level is progressing satisfactorily, while the sinking of the Kerrick shaft has been resumed, the expectation being that a connection between the upraise and the bottom of the shaft will be made by October 1, when more miners will be employed in breaking high-grade ore for regular carload shipments to the metal market.

This, it is believed, will inaugurate an era of regular and profitable ore production by the Comanche company, of both mill feed and shipping ore of which, Palmer states, large tonnages are immediately available.

BETTER THAN A DEED

An old negro had just paid the last installment on a small farm when the realtor who sold it said: "Well, Uncle Joe, I will make you a deed to the farm now since it has been paid for."

"Boss," the old Negro replied, "if it am all de same to you I had much rather you would give me a morigage to the place."

The realtor, somewhat surprised, said: "Uncle Joe, you don't seem to know the difference between a morigage and a deed."

"Well, maybe not," said Uncle Joe reminiscently, "but I owned a small farm once to which I had a deed and de bank had a mortgage, and de bank got de farm."—[Banking Review.

ON STAYING YOUNG

Celebrating his retirement from the Italian consular service in China, Commendatore Eugene Volpicelli, at 72 years of age, gives a recipe for staying young that seems to have worked well in his case.

Physical culture enthusiasts and persons opposed to the eating of meat, drinking of alcohol and smoking of tobacco will be pleased to know that the Commendatore's program includes a vegetarian diet, abstinence from alcohol and tobacco and plenty of exercise.

But he includes one more item, which he considers most important of all. He makes it a point never to interfere with the opinions of people whose tastes differ from his. —[San Francisco Chronicle.

CALIFORNIA MILK QUALITY IMPROVES

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—"Surprise tests and scoring of the milk supplied by the dairymen in the various cities of the State show a constant tendency toward improvement of quality," states Dr. C. U. Duckworth, chief of the bureau of dairy control, State Department of Agriculture. These periodical examinations and tests are made by inspectors of the State Department, always without notice. Samples are taken from the milk and cream actually being delivered, subjected to laboratory analysis and scored according to the findings.

MEDAL TO BE GIVEN MILLIKAN

Chemists Will Honor Him Tomorrow for Progress In Study of Atoms

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—British and American chemists, members of the Society of Chemical Industry, will gather here this week for the first New York meeting of the international organization since the World War. The sessions have been arranged by the New York section.

Heading the list of British visitors is Francis H. Carr, president of the Society, who, with nearly 150 other chemists, arrived today. With him were Sir Alexander Gibb, president of the British Institution of Chemical Engineers; Prof. J. Thorpe, president of the Chemical Society; Dr. J. A. Cranston of Glasgow University, and J. A. Reavell, vice-president of the Institution of Chemical Engineers.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, physicist of California Institute of Technology, is to receive the society's medal Tuesday evening in recognition of his work on the structure and relation of atoms.

The meetings will hear reports on the application of glass to the chemical industries, American production of potash, refinement of petroleum and the characteristics of antiknock fuels and chemical methods of shortening the rest periods of plants.

More than 500,000 new members have joined the co-operative movement in England in the past year.

YOUTH WORKING TO STOP WARS

Boys From Most of World at Holland Conference

Peace Discussed From Five Angles by Commissions

Caltech Delegate Describes Sessions for "Times"

BY KENNETH ROBINSON,
Caltech Delegate to the World Youth Peace Conference

CAMP EERDE, (Ommen, Holland) Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—With delegates representing a majority of the governments of the world in attendance, the World Youth Peace Conference got under way yesterday and the various commissions began consideration of the aspects of peace assigned to them. Under these commissions peace will be discussed from five angles, the economic, the political, the educational, the religious and moral, and the racial.

Feeling ran pretty high at the organization session held on the 18th inst., when it was explained to the delegates that the representatives from soviet Russia had been refused passport visas from both the German and Dutch governments.

"The Congress protests strongly," said a resolution adopted on the passport question, "against the nongranting of visas to the delegates from soviet Russia by the Dutch and German governments and against all governmental systems which divide young people who desire to work against war."

HALF THOUSAND THERE

Late arrivals at the Congress have swelled the number to 450 and the countries represented to thirty-one. There are many capable champions of those not able for financial or governmental reasons to be here, and the days have passed in helpful discussion, even earnest and often fervid, as one of the representatives of the "oppressed" peoples of the world has voiced his opinion.

There are sixty representatives of European newspapers living on the Congress grounds, and while they are not allowed to voice their opinions in the meetings, there is much said in the press office, which is the busiest place in the camp from 9 p.m. until almost any hour at night.

The youth of the world gathered here have seriously been striving in a new spirit to effect a more peaceful world. In breaking down race prejudices here they have already taken a long step forward. In earnestly seeking an intelligent attitude toward the viewpoint of youth of other lands they have helped to make the first few meetings very much worth while. Notwithstanding the really appalling differences which have threatened at times to make a smooth-running Congress impossible, the quiet attitude of work which now prevails is an inspiration to every one.

EVERY RACE AND CREED

Every race and every creed is here represented, and the utter frankness of all delegates, Indian, Chinese, Mexican and African, may mean the birth of new international spirit. Given the impetus, the Eerde Congress may prove the means of scattering the seed that will reach eventually to the far corners of the world and bring about ultimate peace.

The political and economic commissions after some discussion yesterday decided that their work should be carried on together but that the economic phase of peace and the political phase of peace nevertheless should be considered by them separately. The work of these commissions is generally viewed as being of paramount importance. Three principal problems will be considered by them under the headings: the nature of imperialism, the war danger and the struggle against it, and the reformatory and the revolutionary methods of social and political development.

IMPERIALISTIC MENACE

The word imperialism has crept into the first day's discussion of each of the commissions and it is quite apparent that the many delegates at the Congress consider imperialist aspirations on the part of any government or group of men as most menacing to the cause of peace everywhere.

There seemed considerable likelihood, after the commission on religion had concluded its first session, that debate on this subject and its relation to peace would be started from the Russian thesis, "Religion as the Opium of the Peoples."

Deep earnestness is inspiring all of the delegates, and everywhere it is evident that they are much impressed with the potentialities toward peace of the discussions in which they are taking part.

OLD SLAVIC TEMPLE OF SIXTH CENTURY IN NORTHERN EUROPE

BERLIN, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—An old Slavic temple, dating from the time of the Slavic occupation of Northern Europe, is being excavated in the swamps on the island of Ruegen, near the present town of Garz, according to reports from Prof. Schuchardt, former superintendent of the pre-historic department of the Folklor Museum who is conducting the present excavation.

In addition to this important finding, dating from about the sixth century, when this spot was the site of the most important Baltic harbor for the silk and perfume trade between Constantinople and Northern Europe, the diggers are inspired by a story of large sums of gold and jewels hidden near the spot by wealthy merchants to prevent their possessions from falling into the hands of roving robber bands.

At the end of the twelfth century a Danish writer named Saxo-Gramaticus described two Slavic centers of worship, Akrosa and Carcentia, situated on Ruegen. The former was excavated and recovered for the museum by Schuchardt some time ago. Now the second temple is found at Garz and corresponds to Saxo's descriptions, even to the Friezes. Though the walls of the former seaport of Charenz are being unearthed from the swamp into which they sunk, the main interest is in the temple containing statues of old Slavic gods. So far excavations show walls protecting the city fifty feet high.

EX-SULTAN ON EASY STREET

Former Ruler of Morocco Gets His Fortune Back After Siege of Poverty in France

ENGHIEN LES BAINS (France) Sept. 2. (AP)—Moulay Abd-El-Hafid, deposed Sultan of Morocco, is back on easy street again. His vast estates, palaces, farms, flocks of sheep and household treasures in Northern Africa, once confiscated by the French government, have been restored and a guardian appointed to see that he does not become profligate and squander his money.

Although the Sultan lived in grandeur, he was always in difficulties, having an income of only $14,000 a year from the government.

He was one of the war impoverished, for he was granted a lump sum of $80,000 and a pension of $70,000 yearly, but the decline of the franc cut his income to one-fifth.

RIDES IN SHAY

Moulay Hafid could not afford to purchase an automobile, so when occasions demanded he was forced to hire a one-horse shay and travel with his harem in that manner. His household expenses were so heavy that a year ago he ventured into business for himself to relieve his straitened circumstances. He bought a refrigerator factory and with fine stationery personally began to solicit orders.

But his establishment did not prosper and later he curbed his pride and "made his submission" to both the French and Moroccan governments so as to get back his property. His request was granted and by a decree signed at Casablanca August 15 his fortune was released from sequestration and placed under an administrator to protect it from its owner.

STILL WEARS FEZ

Moulay Hafid lost his job as ruler of millions when a French protectorate was established in Morocco in 1912. He incurred the wrath of France by endeavoring to bar foreigners from the country and when he was defeated by French troops he abdicated and came to France.

He chose Enghien les Bains as his residence because of the close proximity of the race-track and gambling casino. But after the war the casino was closed. He has abandoned his native robes in favor of European coats and trousers, but he always wears a fez.

MOOSE IN CONCLAVE

Two Thousand Members In Three-Day Meet at Watsonville

WATSONVILLE, Sept. 2. (AP)—More than 2000 California members of the Loyal Order of Moose and their families assembled here today for a three-day conclave. There was to be a general meeting tonight at which a State organization will be formed. There were first-degree initiations in the morning and second degrees were given in the afternoon. In addition eight picked drill teams competed.

Monday the Moose will join the unions in the Labor Day parade. In the afternoon a beauty contest will be held and the conclave will be brought to a close with a grand ball Monday night.

AUSTRALIA CATHEDRAL DEDICATED

Opening Marked by First Ceremony on Program of Eucharistic Congress

SYDNEY (Australia) Sept. 2. (AP) The opening ceremony of the tridium—three-day prayer—in connection with the eucharistic congress which begins Wednesday, was held today in St. Mary's Cathedral. Pontifical high mass was celebrated in the morning and formal opening of the main floor of the cathedral by Cardinal Cerretti, the papal delegate, occurred in the afternoon.

The great cathedral with its long nave, lofty pillars and high arches with simple white and gold decorations was packed and a crowd estimated at 10,000 gathered outside and vainly sought admittance. As Cardinal Cerretti entered the cathedral the first strains of "Tu es Petrus," composed for the occasion by Dr. Pettorelli, was given with choir accompaniment and revealed the finest choral singing ever heard in Australia.

An eloquent sermon dedicating the cathedral was preached by Mgr. Hanna, archbishop of San Francisco.

Brokerage Firm to Pay in Full

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Charles W. Haswell, attorney for George A. Horal of the brokerage firm of H. G. Lane & Co., today issued a statement saying the firm's assets would pay 90 cents on the dollar to "legitimate investors" after liquidation by the receiver appointed yesterday.

Financial stability of the partners in the firm will guarantee payment in full, Haswell said, denying rumors that the reported $300,000 shortage would cause heavy losses to customers. The firm's offices in Portland, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City and Chicago were closed with the local office yesterday.

AUTO CRASHES FATAL TO TWO

Injuries Also May Result in Two Women's Deaths

Many Other Persons Hurt by Traffic Accidents

Two Machines Figure in One of Smash-ups

Two persons dead and two possibly fatally injured and a half a dozen others hurt, is the traffic toll for the week-end.

In a collision between two automobiles which caused a second crash in front of 10561 San Fernando road, T. E. Graham of Mission Hills and San Fernando road, was killed instantly.

Graham, according to Captain of Police Brestettire, was driving alone with him was J. B. [illegible] of 443 Hagar street, San Fernando. Cooke was bruised and cut.

CUT AND BRUISED

Others cut, according to Newspaper, moved to the wrong side of the road and crashed into the left wheel of a car driven by Roland of Saugus. Injured were Miss Lucille and [illegible] Ellis. All were cut and bruised.

As a result of this crash the machine of Cox was forced into a third car driven by R. H. Buck of 1138 Orange street, and in turn struck that of Mrs. Ida Sherry of 1402 Seventh street, San Fernando, according to police. No one in the latter cars was injured.

Miss Lucille was killed when he was thrown out of his car, his head striking on the pavement. The body was removed to Noble's undertaking establishment in San Fernando. The injured were given medical treatment in Van Nuys.

MOTHER DEATH

Mrs. Marion Reyna, 29 years of age, 1353 German street, Watts, died at the General Hospital late today from injuries received in a collision between two automobiles at Avalon and Central avenues. Mrs. Reyna, 28, also of Watts, died in the same accident, is in General Hospital in a critical condition suffering from internal injuries and fractured pelvis. Raymond Reyna, husband of the crash victim and driver of the automobile, was not injured. The other driver in the collision was identified by Paul H. Jones of 144 Bixby street, Huntington Park, who was uninjured.

Mrs. Reyna was riding in the Reyna car, according to Mrs. Carmel Olivan, 1217 South Soto street, suffering a right shoulder fracture.

Mrs. Ruth Conway, 30 years of age, 3128 Santee street, her daughter, Ruth, 12, her husband, Ralph, 33, and Narciso Larra, 3129 Fresno street, all were taken to General Hospital last night as the result of a traffic accident at Avalon avenue and Lorena street. Mrs. Conway is the most seriously injured of the four, suffering injuries, while the others received a fractured leg and painful cuts and bruises. Larra had his shoulder dislocated. He was driving one of the cars involved in the accident and Conway is the owner of the other car. They were given medical treatment at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

As a result of a collision at Vermont and Hoye streets on Saturday between cars driven by Mrs. Ethel West Third street, Bellflower, 2880 Chester place, Long Beach, three women passengers in the Georgia-street car suffered scalp wounds and bruises. They were Mrs. Ethel Smith, 2880 Chester place, Long Beach; Mrs. Katherine Patterson, 1214-6 Temple street; Mrs. Hattie Burton, 23, of 712 1-4 Bellevue avenue. All were passengers in the car.

Vineyard Carnival to be Revived

GRAPE FESTIVAL PLANNED

San Gabriel Will Revive Historic 'Vendemia' During Last Week of This Month

Recalling one of the forgotten festivals of early California under Spanish rule, the celebration of "National Grape Week," the 23rd to 29th inst. will be ushered in here with the observance of the "Vendemia" to be presented in the colorful surroundings and atmosphere of San Gabriel, according to an announcement made Saturday by the Chamber of Commerce.

Co-operating with the California Vineyardists' Association, the chamber is formulating plans for the celebration of the week here in a manner that will exploit the State's second largest agricultural industry to the world. Planned for Sunday, the 23rd inst., the "Vendemia" is the term given in Spain to the celebration of the grape harvest and, according to California historians, frequently was applied to small festivals of a like nature held here 100 years ago.

FOUNTAIN OF GRAPES

"National Grape Week" is being observed at the instigation of the Vineyardists' Association in an effort to market the peak load of grapes to save the growers from threatened losses this year. It is hoped to increase the consumption of the fruit to a point where the growers will be able to market their entire crop.

The celebration at San Gabriel will be on the grounds of the Mission Playhouse and the historic grapevine adjoining will be thrown open to visitors. Players of the Mission Play cast will appear in the festival ceremonies, and it is planned to build a huge fountain of grapes, which will be distributed to visitors at the conclusion of the festival. A committee of the San Gabriel Chamber of Commerce is being formed by Secretary Grace Roest to provide a number of colorful features for the event.

SALES PROMOTION

During the week speakers representing the vineyardists will appear before various business men's luncheon clubs to explain the conditions confronting the industry and the need to increase the consumption of the fruit. A number of organizations are co-operating to increase the use of grapes, among them the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads, and several local hotels, who have announced that they will feature grape menus during that week.

LONG BEACH BOAT RACER DIES IN SEA

By a "Times" Staff Representative

LONG BEACH, Sept. 2. (Exclusive)—James E. Sadlier, 31 years of age, known in yachting circles here, was drowned before his mother's eyes this afternoon while he and his racing partner, Robert Graff of 5506 Ocean avenue, were sailing their Patricia class boat Bee in a race on Alamitos Bay.

Graff was at the tiller and Sadlier was up forward in preparation for coming about at the buoy that marked the turn on the course. After the turn was made Graff noticed that Sadlier was no longer on board.

The young man's mother, in the meantime, had seen the accident from the shore. Lifeguards, under Capt. Miller, dragged the bay for hours to locate the body. At 7 p.m. it was recovered and taken to the Martel mortuary.

According to Long Beach police Sadlier was subject to epileptic seizures and one of these is supposed to have overcome him during the excitement of the race. The mainsail being between him and his companion, his fall overboard was not noticed. He resided at 6911 Seaside Walk, Alamitos Bay. He was unmarried.

FUND DRIVE COSTS PLEDGED

Friends of Loyola University Underwrite Expense of Compaign for $4,000,000

General costs of the $4,000,000 civic campaign to provide a construction fund toward the $5,000,000 Loyola University were underwritten yesterday by a group of friends of youth and education interested in the advancement of Los Angeles to a foremost position among the educational centers of the West. Such was the announcement by the campaign committee headed by Louis W. Myers, general chairman, and James Woods, chairman of the central committee.

It was the purpose of the underwriters, the committee announced, to make it possible for every dollar subscribed to the building fund to go into actual construction of the new university, which with seventeen collegiate buildings, will crown a 100-acre campus on the hills of Playa Del Rey.

Plans were perfected yesterday by the civic committee for an intensive campaign to be conducted from October 7 to 17, next. Prior to those dates, the central committee will extend the appeal for large subscriptions and memorials of buildings and individual colleges.

The central committee of 100 is to be completed before the end of the week. Present members of the committee are James Woods, John G. Bullock, Harry Chandler, James R. Martin, Ben R. Meyer, Leo V. Youngworth, Russell H. Ballard, William W. Bearman, David Blankenhorn, Benjamin F. Bledsoe, George M. Breslin, Benn M. Brink, George L. Browning, Fritz B. Burns, E. P. Clark, George I. Cochran, Rev. Aide Also Gets Collection Despite Protests

Policeman's Frown Invoked to Quell Indignation

Dr. Stanley Morrison of New Zealand, a friend of Dr. Frank Dyer, who has been an ecclesiastical storm center in the difficulties of the Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church for several months, yesterday delivered a sermon in the Wilshire church and collected offerings to defray his personal expenses.

A tense situation arose at the meeting. Dr. Dyer had advertised he would introduce Dr. Morrison for the morning services. Rev. Thomas H. Harper, former assistant pastor and one of the leaders of the anti-Dyer faction, also stated he would fill the pulpit.

Dr. Dyer and Dr. Morrison, however, arrived at the church first and occupied the pulpit as the congregation was arriving. Mr. Harper, on his arrival, was forced to occupy a near-by pew.

THEN HE LEAVES

Dr. Dyer began the services by introducing Dr. Morrison. Then he stepped down from the pulpit and left for the Ambassador Theater to begin organization of his new "American Church."

Shortly after the pastor's departure, Maj. Whittingham, another of the anti-Dyer leaders, walked to the pulpit and presented Dr. Morrison with a copy of an injunction recently granted by the Superior Court, delivering the temporal affairs of the church to the anti-Dyers, but leaving the ecclesiastical affairs with Dr. Dyer.

Dr. Morrison continued his sermon. Maj. Whittingham interrupted to call attention to the injunction.

"I am preaching the gospel," Dr. Morrison retorted.

A police officer in the congregation arose. Maj. Whittingham took his seat for a moment but later arose to leave the church. Several of the congregation followed and the officer also went outside. Maj. Whittingham returned presently but did not speak again.

COLLECTION TAKEN

Following his sermon, Dr. Morrison ordered ushers to take up a collection. Immediately after this was done several members of the anti-Dyer faction made a formal demand for the proceeds but were denied their request by the minister who stated that it was for the purpose of defraying his expenses. The demand was made on the strength of the injunction which specifies that Dr. Dyer has no right to take up a collection and reserves that right for the anti-Dyerites.

Steps to have Dr. Dyer, Dr. Morrison and trustees cited for contempt because the New Zealander preached at services yesterday and caused a collection to be taken in the morning were to be taken tomorrow by Mr. Whittingham, he said last night.

SAYS ORDER VIOLATED

The anti-Dyer leader asserted that the injunction protects the pastor while he occupies the pulpit, but that he had no authority to invite another minister in to fill his place. Due to that interpretation of the restraining order, Mr. Whittingham maintained that Dr. Morrison violated the court order by continuing to preach after he had been served with a copy of the injunction; that Dr. Dyer went contrary to the injunction by allowing the New Zealander to occupy the pulpit, and that both the ministers and the trustees are in contempt by their action in taking up a collection and refusing to turn it over to the Whittingham group.

The next step in the legal fight to oust Dr. Dyer from the pastorate will be taken within a few days, it is believed. Dr. Dyer's attorneys who are said to be preparing a petition to take the controversy out of the courts.

Friends Greet Screen Actress

Miss Gordon has been in Atlantic City making a picture. She is scheduled to start work tomorrow on the filming of "Nice Baby," Milt Gross's book. In her screen career she has played mother for many stars. In the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production she will be mother to a year-old baby.

Among those who met Miss Gordon at the train were Gross, Hobart Henley, director; Sally Eilers, Ten Holtz, Alexander Carr and Harold Waldridge.

LONDON BANKER ON VISIT HERE

Party Leaves Tomorrow on Way East

Baron and Baroness de Rothschild

FOLLOWING a visit today to Santa Catalina Island, Baron Anthony de Rothschild, senior member of the international banking concern of England, and his party will prepare to leave tomorrow for his home in London. The party includes Baroness de Rothschild, her sister, Mrs. de Becker, and the latter's husband. A private car will take the visitors to Washington, with stops at the Grand Canyon and Chicago.

Baron de Rothschild expressed a great interest in Los Angeles, and regretted that the short three-day stay here did not permit him to see more of Southern California.

"You have a fine, big city here," he remarked, "but the absence of skyscrapers seems peculiar. But they tell me that everything in the West is given to expansion."

Dahlia Show Expected to Break Record

The ninth annual dahlia show in the ballroom and foyer of the Biltmore this year will have a greater fore, according to Frank Miller, manager. The show will be held the 21st and 22nd inst.

To date entries have been posted by twenty-five amateurs and thirty-five commercial exhibitors. The Dahlia Society of Southern California is sponsoring the event.

X-RAY IN INDUSTRY WILL BE EXHIBITED

The important use of the X-ray in industry, particularly those branches which deal with and in metals, will be demonstrated when the Western Metal Congress assembles here for the first Western States Metal and Machinery Exposition in the Shrine Auditorium, January 14 to 18. Scores of appliances now essential in mining, oil-field work and manufacturing will be demonstrated.

PRODUCER MUST PAY SONG STAR

Labor Official Orders Thomashefsky to Remit Joseph Diskay $500

Max Thomashefsky, producer of "Joseph and His Brethren," a biblical pageant in Yiddish, at the Hollywood Bowl, August 26, last, must pay Joseph Diskay, operatic singer, $500 by 4 p.m. tomorrow for his performance in the leading role, according to a decision of Deputy State Labor Commissioner Lowy.

According to Lowy, the evidence at a hearing clearly showed that the producer guaranteed he would pay the $500 to the singer on the evening of the performance, but did not fulfill his agreement even after Diskay made a demand upon him at a later date.

After the pageant closed Thomashefsky promised more than 100 members of the chorus that he would pay them Monday at the Capitol Theater, 338 South Spring street. After more than 100 had waited several hours, the producer announced that he would be unable to pay until the next day. This statement caused so much excitement that a near-riot started and the police were called. Tuesday evening Thomashefsky fulfilled his promise.

IT TAKES HORSE SENSE TO GET TO DRIVE HORSELESS CARRIAGE

The business of acquiring an automobile driver's license for one's self recently has entered into the realm of one of life's more or less major complexities. It is by no means the simple process that it used to be in the good old days, and if one has an old one hang on to it, patch it up and cherish it, for one never may get another one so easily.

Under the Motor Vehicle Act passed by the State Legislature in 1927 oral examinations for new applicants were in vogue until it was rumored about that this seemed to be a form of discrimination against the novices, and anyway, the oral method did not appear to be very effective. So about three weeks ago a system of written tests was inaugurated for old and new drivers alike, and ever since the rooms of the Los Angeles Division of Motor Vehicles at 2419 South Grand avenue, have taken on a scholastic atmosphere.

Examinations are conducted on the second floor. At the head of the stairway a man passes to each applicant a questionnaire containing fifty-seven questions with the correct answers taken from the California Vehicle Act. This should be studied thoroughly in preparation for the test.

The cramming for the examination over, the next move is to fill out the answers to a list of questions delving into the high points of one's life's history. Age, weight, previous condition of servitude and matters of that sort, and there are even a few lines wherein one may explain whether or not one has at any time been afflicted with insanity, epilepsy or paralysis and

NAVAL CHIEFS TO MEET HERE

Port Will Be Official Center During Part of Month

Wilbur, Moffett and Warner on List of Visitors

Surveys of Battle Fleet and Coast Planned

Los Angeles Harbor will be a veritable naval capital during September, with Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Rear-Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, and Edward P. Warner, assistant Secretary of the Navy for aeronautics, all here for official surveys of the battle fleet and the Pacific Coast naval establishment.

Mr. Warner, accompanied by his aide, Lieutenant Commander William K. Harrill, will arrive from Washington tomorrow afternoon by air-mail plane, and will go immediately to San Diego, where, on Wednesday and Thursday he will be in conference with Rear-Admiral Reeves, commanding the battle fleet aircraft squadrons. Admiral Reeves and Mr. Warner will discuss plans for operations of the fleet air forces and also plans for development of the fleet and Marine Corps reserve air squadrons.

Next Friday and Saturday Mr. Warner will be aboard the fleet flagship California at San Pedro for conferences with Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, and on Sunday and Monday he will inspect the North Island naval air station, at San Diego.

GUEST AT AIR RACES

He will be present here at the National Air Races on the 11th, 12th and 13th, inst., and on the 14th and 15th he will be at sea aboard the new aircraft carrier Saratoga during the fleet tactical exercises. Subsequent to the 16th inst. he will make additional surveys of naval air activities on the Coast.

Admiral Moffett, accompanied by his aide, Lieut. Allan P. Flagg, will arrive here by train on Wednesday morning and will go immediately aboard the fleet flagship California. After a conference with Admiral Pratt he will inspect the reserve air field at Long Beach, go aboard the carrier Saratoga and on Thursday take off from her deck and fly to San Diego for inspections. He will fly back to Los Angeles on Saturday for opening of the National Air Races and remain here until the 14th, when he again will go aboard the Saratoga to witness the fleet tactical exercises. On the 16th, Admiral Moffett and Lieut. Flagg will proceed to San Francisco for continuance of their Pacific Coast naval survey. They will proceed to Washington from Seattle arriving on the 25th inst.

WILBUR AT BEACH CITY

Secretary Wilbur, who is living aboard the U.S.S. California, yesterday attended services with his wife and son at the First Congregational Church at Long Beach. Today at noon he will be guest of honor at a luncheon at the Pacific Coast Club in Long Beach, tendered by directors of the Pacific Southwest Exposition, at which Admiral Pratt and ranking officers of the fleet will be present. Tonight he also will be tendered a dinner at the Pacific Coast Club, as the final gesture of the exposition.

Tomorrow, Mr. Wilbur will be the guest of the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon at the Biltmore and tomorrow night a dinner will be given in his honor at the California Club. Wednesday morning, he will be the guest of the Breakfast Club and on Wednesday night he and Mrs. Wilbur will be the dinner guests of the Los Angeles Psychopathic Society, of which the Secretary long has been a member. He will leave for Washington on Thursday, stopping at Topeka on Saturday and arriving at the capital on the 11th.

CHANGE IN COMMANDERS

Another event of importance will take place in the fleet on Wednesday, when Rear-Admiral Sumner E. W. Kittelle relieves Rear-Admiral Woodward W. Phelps as commander of the fleet base force, hoisting his flag at the mainmast of the U.S.S. Procyon.

Today the battleship divisions and destroyer squadrons will remain at anchor off Long Beach for the celebration of Navy Day at the exposition, all ships being open to visitors throughout the day. To-

MISSION PLAY SALE STARTS

Special Advance Offering Made to Provide Tickets at Half Price for Historic Presentation

Planning to give every resident of California an opportunity to see the Mission Play at San Gabriel during the coming season at half the regular admission fee, the management of the Mission Playhouse Corporation announced yesterday that a special advance seat sale will start this week. Coupon books containing the special half-rate tickets, good for any performance have been issued in $10, $20 and $50 denominations. They will be available at chambers of commerce and at other convenient locations in each city.

The corporation is a nonprofit, nonsectarian organization sponsored by a group of business men of Southern California and formed to establish the Mission Play as a permanent public institution. The Mission Play and the magnificent new Mission Playhouse have been presented to the people of California by John Steven McGroarty and the directors of the corporation. Any profits from the production of the play are devoted to the restoration and preservation of historic landmarks of California.

McGroarty personally directs the production each season. The cast numbers nearly 100 talented artists, some of whom have been trained especially for the play from childhood, and others who have won international recognition for their dramatic ability.

The new playhouse is a magnificent structure with seats for 1500. The walls are nearly eight feet thick, of solid brick and concrete, built around a massive steel framework. The appointments are complete and luxurious. The stage is one of the largest in Southern California and equipped with every modern device to make the presentation of this historic drama a realistic triumph.

The theater adjoins the famous old grapevine of San Gabriel, which covers more than an acre of arbor and lends quaint atmosphere to the historic mission setting. A number of atmospheric innovations are being planned for the coming season to augment the beauty of the playhouse and its surroundings and afford patrons greater opportunity to enjoy their visits to San Gabriel.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

I DON'T like snakes; I don't like the way they walk.

Therefore, I am glad to add this fact to their discredit: Cable messages state that more than 30,000 persons have died in India this year from the bites of serpents.

It seems almost incredible, after all these centuries of remorseless and horrified warfare that 20,000 snakes could have survived to bite 20,000 people.

UNDESERVED FAME

My experience on our place is that a gopher snake doesn't live up to his reputation. I don't believe he knows a gopher when he sees one and wouldn't eat one if it were fried with pineapple and garnished with orchid blossoms.

Cats and traps and the fumes from the exhaust pipe of an auto take all further interest in life from the gopher but I think he is on terms of affectionate palship with snakes.

CAN'T BE BOTH

A few chaste remarks about the candidacy of Al Smith seem to have brought the roof down upon the head of this mild and timorous column writer.

But there are two letter writers whom I must ask to get together and somehow compromise. One says I write like a college freshman; another says I ought to be in an old ladies' home. Now obviously it would result in scandal for a college freshman to be in an old ladies' home.

POLITICAL SCANDAL

There is danger that this may become one of the bitterest campaigns of our nation's history. Happily the voice of scandal has starvation material with which to deal. Both candidates have lived blameless private lives; both are men of unquestioned integrity and personal ability. It becomes a question of fitness for the job; and the character of their platforms. Their stand on public questions.

MEXICAN LABOR

It would be interesting to find out the source of all this propaganda against Mexican labor that is flooding the East.

Alarm is expressed lest the Mexicans come flooding into the Southwest and mix us all up sociologically. It seems that, through intermarriage, they are likely to turn us into a nation living on tortillas and revolutions.

DANGEROUS "FOREIGNER"

This touching anxiety for our future does not impress the people of the Southwest. Were it not for Mexican labor, half the ranches of Southern California would be ruined, and the railroads would find it impossible to maintain their trackage.

The Mexican peon is mostly Indian. To say the least, it is a weird idea that we should erect immigration barriers against the American Indian on the ground that he is a dangerous foreigner.

THE CHAMP

Coming just at election time, the politicians must view the lionizing of Gene Tunney with a wistful eye. All this popularity wasted on a man who isn't running for anything.

FILIPINOS WILL SAIL

Forming a special delegation to establish the Filipino Federation of America in the Hawaiian Islands, twenty-four Filipinos of California will sail from Los Angeles Harbor for Honolulu in the latter part of September, according to Hilario C. Moncado, president of the organization.

Plan to Use Kelley's Statements in Clinching Murder Charge

STATE NEARING CLOSE OF CASE

Police Will Tell of Plea to be Shot Down

Offer to Admit Guilt Also Will Be Asserted

Mellus Murder Hearing Resumes Tomorrow

Statements of Leo P. Kelley, which police investigators assert the butcher boy made shortly after he was found in a closet at the Mellus home and following the discovery of the murdered and mutilated body of Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, will be related to the jury as the closing testimony of the prosecution in the trial of Kelley, charged with the slaying.

Discovery of the name of a business man with his telephone number on a scrap of paper in the secret drawer of a dresser in the death bedroom, along with three letters and a photograph of Kelley, was revealed yesterday by the prosecution, but little importance is attached to the finding, according to prosecutors.

The name was not revealed, and a check may be made today merely as a matter of clearing up tthe scribbled data along with the Kelley letters.

Hearing of the case will be resumed tomorrow at 10 a.m., before Judge Bowron, following a three-day recess. The State's attorneys expect to complete the introduction of evidence by Wednesday night. The defense then will call its witnesses. Both sides expect the case to go to the jury about the 11th inst.

PHONE CLIMAX

In outlining the closing testimony of the prosecution, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello said that the statements of Kelley made after he was arrested will prove a climax to the entire case and will be placed in the records by the testimony of Detective Lieutenants Stoll and Steed, the arresting officers, and by Captain of Detectives Cato and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Eagan, who were present when Kelley was questioned.

The investigating officers are expected to testify, according to Costello, that Kelley offered to plead guilty to the murder if the case could be ascribed to attempted robbery and the story of his five-year romance with Mrs. Mellus remain a secret. Also that Kelley at the time he was pulled from the closet asked that he be given a chance to escape and that the officers shoot him down, and that Kelley admitted giving the dead woman a "good beating," but if he killed her it was an accident.

MADE AFTER ARREST

Kelley's asserted statements were made at the Mellus home the night of the murder and at the Wilshire police station, according to the police, and in the presence of a stenographer.

In addition to the officers, the prosecution will call four sisters of Frank Mellus, husband of the slain woman, to the stand, who will give testimony concerning blood spots found by Police Chemist Welch in the Mellus home, and which the State's attorneys contend indicate the crime was committed in the lower bedroom and the body dragged or carried to the second floor. Another witness, who will testify that she saw Mellus drive into his garage about 5:30 p.m. on the day of the tragedy, and who voluntarily offered her information Saturday, will probably be called to the stand, Costello said.

Two alienists, Dr. Victor Parkin and Dr. Paul Bowers, who have made mental and physical examinations of Kelley will give the jury their scientific diagnosis of the defendant.

The six-woman and six-man jury and alternate was taken for an auto ride yesterday, and will also be given an airing by the bailiffs today in order to break the three-day confinement at the hotel, where they have been locked up since court adjournment Friday afternoon.

NEW GAME WINS HOLLYWOOD

All Result of Dream of Writer's Wife

Inventor Shows Hand

Josephine O. Miranda demonstrates playing of "Kamra."

BY ALMA WHITAKER

KAMRA is the new game that is sweeping Hollywood. It is a card game with 5 suits in which all the "court" cards are producers, authors, directors, stars and heroes, and in which the $ suit always is trumps.

It is the invention of Josephine O. Miranda (Mrs. Tom Miranda) and the result of a restless dream in which she was trying to play bridge all night with a fifth suit, the Star. So compelling was her dream that she pondered over it for weeks, trying to inject this fifth suit, when suddenly the Kamra idea began to take shape.

She obtained plain cards and designed several packs herself, until she finally evolved this fascinating film game, Kamra. It caught on among her friends—Rupert Hughes, Jean Hersholt, Edgar Rice Burroughs, Claire Windsor, Frank Crane, Dr. C. Benson Wood, Rob Wagner et al.

There are sixty cards in the pack, five suits of twelve. It can be played by three, four, five or six persons. The suits are (1) the $ sign, representing the producer; (2) the triangle, representing the author on his favorite eternal subject; (3) the circle, for the director, around whom all things circle during production; (4) the star, and (5) the square, representing the hero, who always is "on the square."

The dollar suit is black. The triangle suit red, the circle suit green, the star suit gold and the hero suit blue.

In the bidding one undertakes to make so many reels, not tricks. The face cards in every suit are the producer, the author, the director, the star and the hero—in that order of value. Capturing stars and heroes—usually with $ trumps—is a significant part of the game. The remaining seven cards in each suit are 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7. They are mere extras. That which in bridge is known as a grand slam becomes a super-feature in Kamra, and it counts double.

There are no partners—everyone plays a lone hand. The player who undertakes to make the most reels gets the lead. All stars captured in reels count twenty, all heroes, ten. One of the subtleties of the game is that it often is strategy to discard the director. The $ suit and producers in every suit are one's best assets. There are all the intrigue and strategy of bridge, the necessity for remembering every card played, without any of the bidding revelation of one's hand or the dummy. Mrs. Miranda seems to have considered every possible contingency and made her game subtle as well as intellect-whetting.

City Club Will Hear Paddock on Wednesday

Charlie Paddock, world-famous runner, who has just returned from Amsterdam, will give an address on "The Olympic Games" at noon next Wednesday at the City Club. The programs at the club for the rest of the week will include a meeting of the county and municipal government section at noon tomorrow, a session of the traffic and transportation section at noon Thursday and a community sing at Friday's luncheon.

STREET'S NAME CHANGE FOUGHT

Friends of Sunset Boulevard Voice Protests

Move Called Mere Scheme to Aid Realty Men

Prominent Civic Leaders in Opposing Group

Proposal to change the name of Sunset Boulevard, east of Hillhurst avenue, to Hollywood Boulevard is meeting with a storm of protest from influential sources. The proposed change is branded by many as a scheme of real estate dealers who believe that the change in some manner may enhance the supposititous value of Sunset Boulevard holdings in the area to be affected.

J. Don Mahaffey, president of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, unreservedly disapproves of the proposed change and brands it as an injustice to both Sunset and Hollywood boulevards as they are now.

OTHERS OPPOSE IT

Sunset Boulevard is approximately nine miles long, he asserts, and the petitions requesting the change in name of the east of Hillhurst section represent only 53 per cent of the four miles affected without regard to the wishes of the remaining 47 per cent in that district alone plus the five remaining miles of the boulevard. He points out that such a change, on this meager representation, would leave unrepresented nearly 75 per cent of those whose interests are affected directly.

Others prominent in the areas affected have expressed equally firm opposition to the change.

PASTOR'S VIEWS

Rev. John A. McHugh, pastor of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, is opposed to the change of the name of any part of Sunset Boulevard.

Fred L. Porter, property owner on Sunset Boulevard and vice-president of the Christie Film Company, says to cut off four miles from Sunset Boulevard would work a hardship on the owners of the western portion of that street.

E. F. Bogardus, Hollywood pioneer and owner of a large tract of land on Sunset Boulevard, says the owners of Sunset Boulevard property west of Hillhurst avenue have not been consulted regarding the proposed change, and that they are 100 per cent opposed to it.

Ted W. Haas, realty dealer, located on West Sunset Boulevard, thinks it a selfish scheme and not fair to the balance of Sunset Boulevard.

A. Blake Gibson, Hollywood realty dealer and property owner, is strongly opposed to the change.

Three Appear Today in Bail Jumping Case

Because the wife of Ray W. Taylor, former Los Angeles business man, and a friend, Clyde Marshall, are said to have hidden Taylor while he was wanted by Federal agents for "jumping" bail at Phoenix, Ariz., all three are scheduled to appear in the court of United States District Judge Henning tomorrow. The three are accused of concealing evidence in a government case.

Taylor is also accused of concealing several thousand dollars of assets of a cleaning and dyeing place, of which he was head and which was placed in bankruptcy in Federal court.

It is charged that Mrs. Taylor and Marshall helped Taylor to hide at Nogales, Ariz., while Federal agents were seeking the man. The three are to appear to have their cases set for trial before Judge James in the absence of Judge Henning.

Then the class knit its brows over the question and struggles to put down the right answers.

This finished, each member of the class steps up to another line of tables where the correctors take the humble effort and check over the results. NOT YET ENGAGED BUT MAYBE LATER

Marceline Day

Actress and Dix "Just Friends"

Reports going the rounds in Hollywood that the engagement of Marceline Day, actress, to Richard Dix, star of the screen, had been announced several weeks ago at a beach party were denied by both yesterday.

RICHARD DIX

In a wire from Gallup, N. M., where he is on location, Dix said:

"If anything like that was announced I knew nothing of it."

Miss Day in Hollywood also said there is no truth to the report and that she and Dix are not engaged. She admitted her fondness for Dix and said they are "great friends," but added they had never discussed matrimony. She said maybe the engagement will be announced some day and maybe not, but right now it isn't true.

As soon as she completes her present picture, Miss Day said, she and her mother plan an airplane trip to Gallup to visit Dix for a few days. She insisted there is no chance, whatever, of a marriage there.

SMITH PLAN FOR LIQUOR LAW SCORED

Pastor from Canada Says Control There Failure; Pleads for Dry Nation

Dr. George Laughton, pastor of St. James Church in Montreal, who has acted in the capacity of guest pastor in the pulpit of the All Souls Church for two months during the vacation of Dr. C. F. Aked, yesterday delivered his final sermon on "The Secret of America's Greatness," and closed with a warning against nullification of the national prohibition law.

Dr. Laughton called attention to Gov. Smith's seeming favor of government control, as it is exemplified in Canada, but quoted a Canadian journalist to show government control of liquor is a failure in Canada, and stated he had seen more drunkenness in ten minutes in Montreal than in California in six weeks.

"Therefore," continued Dr. Laughton, "when Gov. Smith proposes the substitution of government control for prohibition, he is off on the wrong foot. And every citizen in this country has the right to oppose him with every legitimate weapon at his command. As an American citizen who has resided in Canada for eight years, I give it to you as an intelligent and patriotic opinion that, for this country to go back to government manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor as a beverage, would be an irreparable blunder, an unredeemable calamity."

Dr. Aked will return to the Westlake Theater, on Alvarado street, where services are conducted, on September 16. Dr. John Gardner of Riverside will occupy the pulpit next Sunday.

QUEER BANDITS HAVE BAD LUCK

One in White Flannels Fails to Get Anything

Another Pair Obtain $1 and Man's Pistol

Women Lose Their Purses to Bold Robbers

A lone bandit wearing white flannel trousers and a pair of bandits dressed in gabardine breeches and shiny puttees are listed among the half-score of gun-toting robbers who late Saturday night and early yesterday morning perpetrated a series of hold-ups.

Pat Harmon told police he was putting his car away in the garage at the rear of his home at 1330 Stanley avenue when the bandit in the white flannels walked up to him, thrust a revolver against his side and said, in a tenor voice, "Your valuables, please."

BANDIT DISGUSTED

"No go," said Harmon, who told police that he might have "taken a crack at the bandit if there hadn't been a chance of the latter's nervous finger pulling the trigger of his revolver." At any rate, said Harmon, he convinced the bandit that he had no valuables outside of his car, and the bandit turned away disgustedly refusing to take the car, "as he has never learned to drive."

The gaberdine bandits held up A. V. McDonald in his sofe-drink stand at 11301 Overland avenue with his own gun, he reported. McDonald said the pair came into his establishment and asked for a bottle of grape juice. His safe was open, he said, and his revolver reposing inside. As he stooped over one of the bandits snatched the revolver and leveled it at him, McDonald said. He lost the gun and a dollar bill.

WOMEN VICTIMS

Three women were victims of purse snatchers. They are Mrs. A. Monk, who lost $10 near her home at 943 West Thirty-sixth Place; Mrs. A. Eberhardt, who gave up $4 near her home at 1789 West Thirty-sixth Place, and Miss Morrow was held up in front of her home at 5155 Cimmaron street. Miss Morrow lost nothing as her screams for help frightened away the pair. The same two men are believed to have operated in each case as they answered the same descriptions and used the same kind of automobile.

C. H. Weiks reported he was held up in his Silver Plate Grill at 2923 Whittier Boulevard by a lone bandit and robbed of $35. J. F. Graff of 2421 South Flower street, who also was in the cafe was menaced by the bandit's revolver, but was not robbed.

Dr. Claire E. Owens of Nebraska, blind since he was eight years of age, plans to run for United States Senator from her State in the next Senatorial election two years hence.

Jewell Russell is Oklahoma's best woman lawyer, having made the highest marks in the recent bar examinations held at Tulsa, in which 110 law graduates took part.

Grand Jury

CITY HALL GRAFT QUIZ DEMANDED

District Attorney's Office Studies Accusation

Deputy Eagan Holds Affair Requires Investigation

Foreman of Trial Panel to Ask Inquisition

A grand jury investigation of the bribery charges made by R. E. Sweeney, former land and tax agent of the Southern California Gas Company and asserted lobbyist, during his trial may be ordered tomorrow, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Eagan, in charge of the grand jury investigation for the District Attorney's office, admitted yesterday.

He said he had not had an opportunity personally to go over the testimony submitted in Sweeney's trial but believed that because of the nature of the charges made that a further investigation will be demanded.

Sweeney was found guilty on ten counts of forgery and three counts of grand theft by a jury that brought in its verdict Saturday after being out nearly twenty-four hours. Seven counts of embezzlement, contained in the original charges and information were thrown out by the jury.

INSTRUCTIONS PLEADED

On the witness stand Sweeney admitted obtaining $200,000 on fictitious vouchers from the gas company but declared he did so with the approval of A. B. Macbeth, president, and that the money was used to corrupt city officials.

William J. Beeson, foreman of the jury, declared that the jury was forced to find Sweeney guilty by Judge Yankwich's instructions that Sweeney's plea that he took the money by direction of his superior officer and used it in a campaign of bribery did not constitute a defense to the charge of forgery and grand theft unless it was found that the acts were approved by the board of directors.

Beeson further asserted that the jury had been impressed by Sweeney's story and that he personally expected to go before the grand jury and demand a thorough investigation of the charges of graft in the City Hall.

SENTENCE TOMORROW

Sweeney will be taken before Judge Yankwich tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. for sentencing. At that time his attorney, Joseph W. Ryan, is expected to ask for a new trial and, failing, is expected to appeal the case.

Dept. Dist.-Atty. Dennison, who prosecuted Sweeney, declared yesterday the case was closed as far as he was concerned and that he felt Sweeney's story had been discredited so frequently during the trial that there was no need of going into the matter further. He accused the former gas company man of committed perjury during his trial but that in view of the sentence faced by him he did not believe the charges should be pressed. He explained that the charge of embezzlement should have not been included in the information, in view of the nature of the case, and that those counts should have been removed by charges of grand theft.

"The judge's instructions to the jury made it necessary for them to bring out the embezzlement counts," said Dennison.

CROWDS AT BOWL REACH NEW RECORD

Season Attendance Mark Broken by 20,000, With Figures Yet to be Added

All attendance records for the four-year history of the Hollywood Bowl were smashed this season with the previous count of persons who have listened to "Symphonies Under the Stars" having exceeded this summer by 20,000 persons up to last Friday night's concert, with the figures for the two remaining concerts not yet available. It was announced yesterday by Merle Brite, general manager of the association.

The three largest audiences to have been accommodated in the bowl this year attended on the occasion of Mme. Schumann-Heink's appearance on the night of Percy Grainger's wedding and for the ballet of dance given by the Pavlowa-Ostrainsky Russian ballet company.

The concert of last Friday night, when Eugene Goossens introduced his own composition, "Sacre du Printemps" by Stravinsky, ran a close second to the three leading numbers.

Eugene Goossens and Bernardino Molinari drew the most consistently large audiences of all the conductors of the season.

MEMBERS TO GO TO BOWL

Responding to a request from Merle Tandler, leader of the Little Symphony Orchestra, Secretary Arthur of the Chamber of Commerce has urged all members to attend the "California Night" concert in the Hollywood Bowl tomorrow.

A special program has been arranged for the evening and it is expected that the presentation will be extended. Members of the chamber are granted a reduced rate for the concert.

Attendance records for the entire history of the Hollywood Bowl were smashed this season, with the previous count of persons who have listened to "Symphonies Under the Stars" having been passed this summer by 20,000, bringing up to last Friday night's count, with the figures for the two remaining concerts not yet available, it was announced yesterday by Lee Paul, general manager of the bowl.

The largest audiences to be accommodated in the bowl were attended on the occasions of Schumann-Heink's appearance the night of Percy Grainger's reading and for the performance given by the Pavlowa-Novikoff Russian ballet company.

The concert of last Friday night, when Eugene Goossens introduced his own composition, "Sacre du Printemps" by Stravinsky, ran a close second to the three leading attractions.

Pasadena and Bernardino have been the most consistently patronized of all the conducted concerts.

MEMBERS TO GO TO BOWL

Responding to a request from Meredith Wilson, leader of the Little Symphony Orchestra, Secretary Arthur Letts of the Chamber of Commerce has urged all members to attend the "California Night" concert at the Hollywood Bowl tomorrow night.

The program has been arranged for the evening and it is expected that the presentation will be a brilliant one. Members of the Chamber are granted a reduced rate for admission.

THAW PLANE TO GET LAST TEST TODAY

Air Derby Entrant Plans Final Speed Trial Before Departure for East

Lieut.-Col. William Thaw today will put his Lockheed-Vega plane through its final speed test before departing tomorrow or Wednesday for New York, where he is entered in the transcontinental nonstop in the transcontinental nonstop derby of the National Air Races, which ends at Mines Field in Los Angeles.

The plane yesterday was put through numerous tests, including speed, safety, flying stability and gas consumption, in a trip from the Lockheed-Vega Field in Glendale to Mines Field that lasted two hours and five minutes. Thaw declared the plane is in excellent condition and he believes the final speed test today will find everything in readiness for the trip to New York, which will be made in three or four jumps. Capt. Jack Morris of Pittsburgh will be the pilot accompanying Thaw on the trip. The plane carries a Pratt and Whitney motor of 525 horsepower, has an estimated speed of 175 miles an hour and carries 600 gallons of gas.

During the World War Thaw served in the American Aviation Corps, where he transferred after having served as the original commander of the Lafayette Escadrille.

SLAIN GIRL'S PARENTS TO BE AT TRIAL

Russell S. Beitzel Faces Jury Thursday in Death

When Russell S. Beitzel, accused slayer of Barbara Mauger, Los Angeles waitress, goes on trial next Thursday, he will be confronted by Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Mauger, parents of the dead girl, and the girl's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Mauger arrived Saturday from Philadelphia, where Mr. Mauger sold his business in order to be able to make the trip west. They are stopping at the New Broadway Hotel. The brother is coming by automobile and is expected to arrive in the next day or two.

Thurmond Clarke and Thomas P. Menzies, deputy District Attorneys, yesterday were assigned to prosecute Russell S. Beitzel, accused prosecute Beitzel. This announcement was made by Wayne Jordan, head of the trial department of the District Attorney's office.

Beitzel, the prosecution charges, upon finding that Miss Mauger was about to become a mother took her for a ride along Mulholland High Way, shot her and left her to die in a secluded canyon.

When taken before Superior Judge Edmonds recently Beitzel pleaded not guilty, and not guilty by reason of insanity. He was represented by Vernon Hamilton, attorney.

This act places him virtually in the same category with William Edward Hickman, who entered the same plea when charged with the murder of Marion Parker. Burden will rest on the prosecution to prove that Beitzel was sane at the time of the crime.

When Beitzel is taken before Judge Edmonds his case will be assigned to the first vacant court for trial.

Drain-Pipe Test Being Conducted

The kind of concrete pipe best for use in Los Angeles storm drains and sanitary sewers is a matter that City Engineer Shaw expects to settle through a series of tests that he now is making. Hundreds of miles of concrete pipe are used in Los Angeles every year. The sanitary sewer division, metropolitan sewer, outfall sewer, storm drain and metropolitan storm drain all specify concrete pipe of some kind.

The City Engineer believes that a fixed standard will result in a large saving to assessment payers and is conducting the tests to arrive at this standard.

PROGRAMS LURE CROWD ON HOLIDAY

Substituted in place of the customary union parade today, a ball has been arranged in the Labor Temple tonight.

A continuous music program is scheduled from 2 to 10 p.m. today in Westlake Park. The Westlake Park orchestra will furnish the music in the afternoon and Ernie Owen and his band in the evening.

A two-day sport and speaking program was started yesterday at Rose Hill Park by some of the unions.

Sycamore Grove also will be the scene of picnics for former residents of Oskaloosa, Iowa, and the Fourteenth District Federated Association. Former residents of Carthage, Mo., are scheduled to gather at Bixby Park.

Former residents of Emporia, Kan., will meet in Orange County Park today at a picnic and afternoon program.

SECOND OF BANDIT PAIR SUCCUMBS

Wallace Bonnell Victim of Wound Inflicted After Gem-Store Robbery

Wallace Bonnell, 28 years of age, bandit, who with a younger partner, Max Baltazar, held up a jewelry store at 546 South Hill street last Thursday forenoon and a few minutes afterward was shot down with his partner by Detective Lieutenants Wilde and Thomason, paid the full price for his act yesterday when he died at the General Hospital.

The bullet which tore through his body was fired from the revolver of Detective Lieutenant Wilde during the spectacular chase through crowds of office workers and shoppers on the east side of Hill between Fifth and Sixth streets.

Baltazar, dropped by a bullet from the gun of Detective Lieutenant Thomason, died shortly after he was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

A handful of diamond rings for the theft of which the youths paid with their lives, was recovered by the detectives in the possession of Bonnell and yesterday were given back to the jewelry-store proprietor, death of both bandits having made it unnecessary to hold the rings longer for evidence.

An inquest into Bonnell's death will be conducted tomorrow, to locate Bonnell's relatives were unavailing. He lived here at 334 South Hill street and for some time operated a boot-black stand. Baltazar was but 18 and is supposed to have worked for Bonnell. Neither youth had a police record.

Baltazar lived with his father and sister at 721 Phoenix street.

CAFE SHOOTING SUSPECT FREED

Bond Granted Prisoner Due to Habeas Corpus

Edwin Tennyson Accused of "Wild West" Deeds

Guests Flee to Cover When Bullets Whistle

Edwin F. Tennyson of 9548 Main street, Watts, who, according to police report, created a "wild west" performance by "shooting up" a cafe at 676 South Alvarado street late Friday night and was jailed as a result on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, was released by police on a bail of $1500.

The bail was deposited with Judge Bowron by a bonding company, according to police, after a writ of habeas corpus had been filed. The writ is expected to be served on police today and is returnable Wednesday at 2 p.m.

SHOTS HEARD

Tennyson's asserted actions in the cafe are said to have been reminiscent of gold-rushing days. Attention of the police first was gained when Officer Simmons reported he heard shots in the cafe as he walked by. He rushed in, he said, and found Tennyson standing in the middle of the cafe with a smoking revolver in his right hand. Guests were hiding under tables and behind corners of counters. So persistent was Tennyson in his shooting activities, said Officer Simmons, that he was compelled to hit the asserted gun-toter over the head several times in order to subdue him. He then was escorted to the City Jail.

Along with the police party went R. B. Considine of 1809 West Eleventh street displaying a bullet hole in his coat, according to the police report. A woman, said to have been Tennyson's wife, and over whom the asserted shooting is supposed to have occurred, had disappeared.

WOMAN MISSING

Considine said, according to police, that he has known Tennyson in Arizona, that the woman in the case had called him up to tell him that she was "tired of it all and wanted to meet him at the cafe." The meeting took place as he stated, and as a result of his conversation with Mrs. Tennyson he telephoned to Tennyson to "come and get his wife."

Later Tennyson appeared, Considine said, in answer to the telephone call and took a seat at the table with the woman and himself. An argument ensued, he continued, and Tennyson leaped to his feet, reaching for his revolver. Considine jumped to his feet at the same time, he said, and turned the table over against Tennyson. There was a struggle and guests scurried to cover as Tennyson is said to have stepped back several paces and emptied his revolver promiscuously or, as Considine reported, in his general direction.

Considine, after making his statement was not held by the police. The woman was not found yesterday.

CITY AT TOP OF LIST IN RECREATION

Australian Writer Cites Los Angeles' Leadership in Report on Survey

Los Angeles is more highly developed in playground and recreation facilities than any other city in the world, in the opinion of A. E. Aughtie of South Melbourne, Australia.

Aughtie has just completed a survey of the principal cities of the world as to the playground and recreation movement and his views are expressed in the Australian Municipal Journal. A copy has come to the attention of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department.

In it Aughtie says:

"I would regard Los Angeles city as probably the most highly developed in the playground and recreation movement."

After giving a brief history of its progress in this city during the last twenty years, he writes:

"Music, drawing, handicraft and art activities also are finding an important part in the city's playground program.

"The development has provided increased service for adults, and most of the playgrounds now include gymnasium classes for business women in the morning, evening gymnasium classes for both men and women, large community halls for adults where billiards, dramatic activities, community singing, etc., are enjoyed; also a municipal men's club and many swimming pools."

He concludes by stating that Los Angeles has pioneered the municipal camp movement and the operation of them on a cost basis.

Tract Leased for Airdrome

Clara Baldwin Stocker has leased to the Harry Sperl Aero Corporation a strip of land 3500 feet long by 500 feet wide on Mesa Drive in the heart of aero row for the proposed Sperl airdrome, the corporation announced yesterday.

Grading work will begin tomorrow. During the National Air Races a delegation of flyers, headed by Col. Arthur C. Goebel, will dedicate the field with appropriate ceremonies.

Construction of the office building, hangars and grand stand, of French architectural design, will start as soon as the plans are approved by Mr. Sperl, probably this week.

Three chorus girls operate a gas-filling station in New York City and they have found the business so profitable that they will continue to stay in the business rather than go back on the stage.

M'PHERSON CASE MAY BE SETTLED

Realty Suits Expected to be Adjusted Out of Court

Lawyers Scheduled to Have Conference Today

Postal Inspector Declares No Inquiry Planned

Settlement out of court of the suits against Aimee Semple McPherson and other defendants growing out of the asserted fraudulent sale of a Lake Tahoe "Christian Community subdivision" appeared certain yesterday after two days of conferences between attorneys for plaintiffs against the evangelist and those representing Mrs. McPherson and her co-defendants.

Attorney S. S. Hahn, representing two suing Angelus Temple followers and five others whose suits against the evangelist are in the state of preparation, announced yesterday that a conference this morning will definitely decide whether the cases are to be settled amicably between the litigants or whether they are to be carried to court.

CONFER TODAY

Arthur L. Veitch, attorney for the defendant, is scheduled to have a conference this morning with Hahn and Attorney Benjamin Lewis, also a member of the plaintiffs' counsel.

While Attorney Veitch declared Saturday that the evangelist is not being mentioned in the negotiations now under way, Attorney Hahn declared that his clients will continue to hold Mrs. McPherson partly responsible for their investment in the northern subdivision, in which, in the two suits filed to date, they have asserted they were induced through fraud and misrepresentation to invest.

Yesterday afternoon Postal Inspector Sharon stated:

"We have not the slightest piece of information or any indication that there were any postal-law violations in connection with this sales-proposition, and therefore are not interested in it. There is no investigation under way by our office, and until we find some indication that there has been a violation of Federal law we are not interested at all."

OTHERS NAMED

Ralph B. Jordan, H. L. Henry and C. E. Kenyon are named as co-defendants with Mrs. McPherson in the two actions filed by Mrs. Malissa W. Puryear and Mrs. Ada E. Wharton and five other suits which now are under preparation by the plaintiffs' attorney.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. McIsaac declared that his office will continue this investigation into the affair.

STUDIO FOR TALK FILMS PROJECTED

Gotham Productions Will Build Bristolphone Plant Here, Says President

Hollywood is to have another sound-film studio within the next three months, according to announcement made by Sam Sax, president of Gotham Productions. He said his independent producing company has acquired control of the Bristolphone, a device from the laboratories of the William H. Bristol Company of Waterbury, Ct.

Sax said his plans include the immediate construction in New York of two sound stages and two are to be built in Hollywood as soon as the Manhattan facilities are completed. In the meantime Gotham will have its films synchronized at Waterbury, he said.

Sax is said to have a large share in the installation of this newest device, which he said can be used for Vitaphone records as well as the Bristol records in the theaters of the nation.

"More than 800 theaters will be so equipped by January 1, 1929, and 2000 more by March 1," Sax said. "The device will be the least expensive in point of installation, as its sponsors assert a complete equipment can be placed in any theater for around $3500.

"Gotham's first dialogue and sound picture will be 'Times Square,' recently completed at the Tec-Art studios. Harold Shumate, the supervisor, and Alice Day, star have left for New York to achieve the effects.

MRS. KNOLL DENIES SHE'S "MISSING"

Pasadena Woman Reports Safety From Hospital; Surprised at Rumor

Upon learning yesterday that she was reported by the Sheriff's office to have disappeared mysteriously and was feared to have met with foul play, Mrs. Frances G. Knoll, Pasadena society woman, last night let her whereabouts be known.

Three weeks ago she appeared at the office of Capt. Stenaland, head of the Sheriff burglary investigation detail, to report that she had been defrauded of more than $75,000 worth of property by a Pasadena real-estate man. She asked that an investigation be made and Deputy Sheriffs Barner and Fitzgerald were assigned to the case. Later she was asked to appear before the District Attorney, and when she failed to appear a search was started, and yesterday, when all efforts to locate her had failed the Sheriff's office became alarmed.

At the home of a friend, 480 South Allen avenue, Pasadena, Mrs. Knoll last night said that while she had been in the hospital for two weeks and recently had gone to the home of her friend, her whereabouts was known by all of her acquaintances.

Telephone service, a public trust

THE widespread ownership of the Bell Telephone System places an obligation on its management to guard the savings of its hundreds of thousands of stockholders.

Its responsibility for so large a part of the country's telephone service imposes an obligation that the service shall always be adequate, dependable and satisfactory to the user.

The only sound policy that will meet these obligations is to continue to furnish the best possible service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety.

There is then in the Bell System no incentive to earn speculative or large profits. Earnings must be sufficient to assure the best possible service and the financial integrity of the business. Anything in excess of these requirements goes toward extending the service or keeping down the rates. This is fundamental in the policy of the company.

The Bell System's ideal is the same as that of the public it serves—the most telephone service and the best, at the least cost to the user. It accepts its responsibility for a nation-wide telephone service as a public trust.

Bad laws, if they exist, should be repealed as soon as possible; still, while they continue in force, for the sake of example they should be religiously observed.
—Abraham Lincoln.

Today's Bible Text
The eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding the evil and the good. Prov. xv:3.

THERE THEY ARE
It may be difficult for the citizen to indicate love for all laws but he should at least make up his mind to obey them.

NOT SO BRASH
A Chicago man told a girl he would die for her, but when she said, "I wish you would test this booze for me," he balked. He knew some things are worse than just dying.

NOTHING NEW
New York is going to vote by machines in November. Nothing exciting about that idea. New Yorkers have become quite accustomed to machine politics of the Tammany sort.

JACKIE GROWS UP
Jackie Coogan is regarded by some of the movie proprietors as too big to take boy parts any longer. But nobody need pity Jackie. He manages to struggle along quite comfortably on $6000 a week in vaudeville.

MODEST MAUD
Maud Muller while she raked the hay,
Unlike some maidens of our day,
Wore full-length hose and dress full size,
And so she charmed the judge's eyes.
But had she been a hoseless jane
He might have turned away in pain.

FEAR NO WEEVIL
Planters in the cotton belt are being urged to use mental methods in dealing with their insect pests. If they fear no weevil, think no weevil, and see no weevil there will be no weevil there. As King George rightly says: "Weevil be to him who weevil thinks." It's a long road that has no roadhouse.

NO FAVOR
It was very nice of the French authorities to be so polite to those American ladies who tried to crash the gate in front of President Doumergue's office, but there wouldn't have been any hard feelings on this side of the water if the obstreperous dames had been given a little mild chastisement of some sort.

HAD THE DOUGH
According to court files a New York dentist charged a patient $24,000 for a set of false teeth. So far as noted the chief reason why this stiff charge was made was that the man was supposed to have the money. But "all the traffic will bear" is not a sound business principle.

STORM WARNINGS
People who refer disrespectfully to the "Weather Bureau," and smile at its predictions should bear in mind that conspicuous example of the usefulness of Old Probabilities in advising those southern people to look out for the coming hurricane. The warning could not, of course, be of much avail in the prevention of the destruction of crops, but there was a far greater service in the preservation of human life.

A DOUBLE STAR
A respectable gentleman formerly of Portland, Ind., and now of Kalamazoo, is named Smith Hoover, but he has a hard time making people believe it. Bank tellers won't cash his checks unless he is identified. If he hits it up too high in his old 'bus a motorcycle policeman, demanding and hearing his name, boils over and yells, "Don't get funny with me or I'll take you in." There's only one thing for poor Smith Hoover to do and that is to lie low until after election.

A STATE POLICE
Direct and definite measures are being undertaken for the creation of what might be called a State police. It would be patterned after the famous Pennsylvania constabulary, but, of course, would find most of its service in patrolling the great highways and preserving the righteous flow of traffic. But the idea would be to have a pliant and capable body of men who could be mobilized at any point in a minimum of time. They could make it harder for criminals to get into and out of the State and there are times when this would assist justice wonderfully. How to pay for this service is another matter.

THE SPECIAL SESSION
Realization of the great importance of the proposed tax changes incorporated in the constitutional amendment to be submitted to the Legislature in special session tomorrow, has spread swiftly, if belatedly, through California, with the possibility that an extended and bitter conflict may develop.

The amendment affects banks, corporations and all holders of intangible property, as stocks, bonds and the like are called for taxation purposes. If adopted by the Legislature it will go upon the ballot November 6 for action by the voters as a means by which it is hoped to straighten out the present chaotic condition in State taxes before the next tax levy.

On its face, the amendment which the Tax Commission hopes to pass provides for a redistribution of the tax load, so far as it concerns the business interests of the State, by reducing that now paid by the banks and increasing that levied on corporations. This move admittedly is prompted by the hope that the banks, which have long protested against their high taxes, will withdraw the suits which they have filed or have in preparation against the State to recover what they have already paid in excess of what they regard as equitable. It is doubtful if it will have this effect: in fact, one large chain bank is said to have refused to waive its right to sue and others are likely to follow its example.

As a matter of fact, immensely greater considerations are at stake than merely the $3,000,000 of annual tax of which the banks would be relieved or the $7,000,000 or so which they might recover of taxes paid under protest during the past three years. The bug under the chip is in the proposal to increase the levy on corporations, which means every incorporated business in California operating under a State franchise, to a point where they would pay to the State 4 per cent of their net income, with a more or less indefinite provision for an offset in consideration of other taxes paid.

Large and small, there are roughly 30,000 business houses in the State subject to this levy. In themselves they constitute the bulk of the vast commercial structure of California and upon their well-being depends the well-being of every individual citizen therein. What 4 per cent of their net income would amount to is, in the absence of recent figures, merely something to guess at; but that it would exceed by an immense amount the sum cut from the bank tax is certain, notwithstanding that the Tax Commission says it does not expect to increase the State's total tax revenue.

The proposed franchise tax would increase by several hundred per cent the levies paid the State by average groups of those corporations whose officials have had time to make even hasty estimates of its effect on them. The immediate result of this added burden on the already overtaxed business interests would, almost certainly, be to drive out of existence many of the smaller corporations, to the great economic damage of the State and, incidentally, increasing in proportion the load which those left would have to bear.

Granting that the banks have a good case and that they suffer from gross inequities in the present tax system, it does not appear that it would be any real remedy to transfer these inequities from the banks to the business corporations whose financial welfare is even more important to the State's prosperity.

The whole muddle has its origin in the hasty and ill-considered tax structure set up by the Young administration in an effort to make State revenues stretch to cover the unprecedented $193,000,000 biennial budget promulgated by the Sacramento spenders as the minimum by which the Young campaign promises could be carried out. Immediately after the adoption of this tax system the administration found itself hopelessly involved in the inequities of its own creation. The abolition of the 7 per cent assessment law proved a political boomerang. The levies against the banks brought a flood of litigation, threatening the enforced return of money already collected and spent. In their dilemma, the Heron financiers have taken refuge in the ancient recipe of the financially embarrassed politician: "Soak the corporations!"

There is some comfort in the plan for the holders of intangible securities, who have been the involuntary pieces in a political chess game since the Young administration, in 1927, destroyed the carefully erected structure of the 7 per cent assessment law.

The first draft of the proposed amendment suggested a tax at the rate of 4 mills per $100 in valuation. This was somewhat higher than the tax under the assessment plan, and appeals for a reduction were forwarded to Gov. Young. The administration realizes that the popularity of the low intangible tax is invaluable to them in pulling through the less acceptable corporation tax. Therefore, a great concession was made to the "intangible property" owners and the proposed tax lowered to between 1 and 3 mills per $100 valuation.

It is difficult to predict the action the Legislature may take. The votes of fourteen Senators can block action in the upper house, as the amendment requires a majority of two-thirds for adoption. While the administration, in April, 1927, mustered more than two-thirds in each house for the repeal of the 7 per cent law, the members dislike being recalled at this time to re-establish a law they were previously forced to tear down. The blind belief of the Young cohorts in the infallibility of their fiscal strategist, Director of Finance Heron, is sadly shattered.

The State is accused in some quarters of exaggerating the emergency and of being rushed into these new tax negotiations by the legal actions taken by the banks, it being pointed out that, if the suits go on anyway, there is no reason for a special session now. However, there is no question as to the necessity of clearing up as soon as possible the badly muddled situation created by the repeal of the 7 per cent law applying to intangibles. This is particularly true in Southern California, where so many present and prospective residents have a large part of their property in the form of eastern securities which, under the present law, may be levied upon for amounts approximating in many cases their actual yield to the holder.

Any solution of the difficulties in which the administration finds itself is bound to involve unfair burdens upon the business interests of the State for the fundamental reason that governmental extravagance and inefficiency have raised its costs to a point where all taxes are far too high. That taxes can be cut deeply with no impairment of service has been repeatedly demonstrated by the Federal government under the business-like direction of President Coolidge. It is a lesson which most State, county and city governments have yet to learn. Until it is learned and put into practice, there can be no permanent or satisfactory solution of such problems as the Young administration and its $75,000 Tax Commission now calls upon the Legislature to solve.

UP A NAMELESS RIVER
It speaks well for the valiant men of this age that they are as ready to embark upon perilous journeys into unknown lands as were the heroic pilgrims of olden time, if not readier. The intrepid Byrd and his courageous company wave the world farewell and set off for the Antarctic. The redoubtable Wilkins prepares for another polar flight. Into that great Brazilian wilderness that swallowed up Col. Fawcett, his son and their companion and out of which Dyott is fighting his way now goes Tozzi Calvao to lead a party of scientists up a 900-mile unnamed river known by the rubber gatherers to empty into the lower Madeira River, a tributary of the Amazon. Rubber collectors have been up that nameless river 200 miles to a great waterfall, but beyond this no white man is known to have gone.

Calvao, who is in the employ of the Brazilian government, is taking his supplies from this country, and his party will be composed largely of Americans. He has been in the neighborhood of the falls before. He says that, though Col. Fawcett was killed by the Indians, they are "not dangerous when rightly approached." The trouble has been that some rubber gatherers have been in the habit of shooting first and talking afterward. "That," says Calvao, "is what makes things hard for the explorer."

Always in such cases that is what makes it hard. Our Western pioneers found that out. Those who began by treating the wild natives peaceably and kindly generally found them ready to return kindness for kindness. Those who shot first and talked afterward not only placed themselves in jeopardy but also the white men that followed them.

An explorer who, like Calvao, is ready to proceed peaceably into a land where he expects to find Indians who never have seen a white man nor heard a rifle shot, may be able to journey far without danger from wild natives. But it will be a different story if any of those natives ever have felt the sting of the white man's bullet.

DAY by day we learn more and more about this interesting and lovable old city, but we still have a great, great deal to learn. We really are a wide-eyed Columbus, daily making surprising discoveries. And so infinite is the variety of our city that there is no danger of our running out of material.

An incident yesterday, on an "S" car, proved that to us.

Heretofore we have been a bit ashamed of the fact that we still have to inquire our way about town. Some friend writes in that he thinks we ought to visit this or that point of overlooked interest, and we run down to the Information Bureau and ask how to get to it.

Our instructions yesterday were to leave that "S" car at Lemon Grove avenue. As we are too near-sighted to read street signs from a moving car we asked the courteous stranger who was our seat mate if he knew where Lemon Grove avenue was.

"No," he said. "I don't believe I ever heard of that street before. However, here's a map. I never could find my way around this town without a map."

"You're a newcomer here?" we inquired.

"Oh, no," he said. "I've lived here twenty-five years. But the city grows and changes so rapidly I can't keep up with it."

"Like a Book"

Ah, That's the Question

Leeside: I was driving a little girl out Hollywood Boulevard when we came to the sign:

Slow
Men at Work.

The child looked at them critically. "They are slow, aren't they?" she asked, innocently. "But why do they have that kind of men at work?" I told her I supposed it was some public job.—J. J.

We Use to Call Hoss Traders Tricky!

LS: The scene opens in the office of a dealer in used cars in Los Angeles; a dealer, by the way, who has two establishments, not far from one another. Into one of them enter two Long Beach youths, driving a Cadillac sedan, which they had acquired for $2800, but for which they had no great use; they'd rather have the money.

"Don't want it," replied the dealer.

This was disappointing, but the young chaps were in earnest. After a deal of dickering and horsetrading back and forth, the dealer said:

"I've a used Cadillac coupe, which I'll let you have, and give you $1000 cash, and take your car." This meant a clear loss, so a lot more dickering ensued, with a final result that they acquired a check for $1400 and the coupe. They drove away in the coupe—first to the bank, where the check was cashed, and then—to the dealer's other establishment.

More argument; one of the strongest factors being that there was no such car in the garage, but that the dealer's boast was that he had everything in stock.

"No, we haven't a coupe here, but there's one at the other place we can get any time we wish," said this manager.

"I'll prove it to you," and the manager phoned the other establishment.

"Naw, we have no such car," came the answer; "we sell cars, we don't keep 'em."

And he hung up. The discomfited fellow manager dickered with the boys. They knew what they were doing. He finally paid them $1550 for the coupe—a clear gain of $150 for their day. They took this check also to the bank, cashed it and then—returned and told the dealer what they had done. It leaked out and is the joke of auto row.

Both boys are Scotch-Iowans!—W. H. C.

"The Ladies"

What are the women going to do?
Man may be herded like a sheep
Till he's a goat, their power to keep,
And seldom will distress 'em.
But one can fancy some big boss,
Erstwhile unruffled and unross
At puny man's attack or roast
Now rising to propose the toast:
"The ladies, God—er—bless 'em!"

EXPANDING TRADE
In the hot rush of events political and so forth one thing should not be overlooked, and that is the statement of Senor Don Carlos D. Davila, Chilean Ambassador to Washington, that the growth of American trade with Latin America has been increasing greatly of late and that the republics down there are now supplied by the United States with 39 per cent of their imports.

This not only shows that American salesmen have been stepping out at a lively rate in that country recently, but it also shows that Latin America knows a good thing when it sees it and is well satisfied with what we have to offer. Ambassador Davila's report will be interesting to those who recall the strong criticism of our foreign trade policy in the years before the war. In those years our exports to the southern republics lagged far behind those of Britain and some other European countries.

Senor Davila says that in 1912 Britain had a 25 per cent share of that trade, but that our southern neighbors are now buying more from us than from Britain, France and Germany combined. And yet we are greater buyers of Latin-American products than they are of ours. The Ambassador places the aggregate of our exports to Latin America in the period from 1912 to 1927 at $11,000,000,000, while the imports from the republics amounted to $15,000,000,000.

It would seem from these figures that the balance of trade is against us, but technically speaking it is not. As the Ambassador points out, there are many invisible items that alter this apparent situation." Among these he mentions that many exports to the United States are the product of industries established in Latin-American countries but owned and operated by Americans.

Confidence in the commercial methods of Americans is increasing in the south, and it will not be surprising if our high-powered go-getters, thus encouraged, should double our business with Latin America in the next ten years.

BOOTLEG LOVE
About once a year the family wash of some silly couple is hung out in the front yard to dry. Little doubt exists that laundry work is necessary; but a view of the foul rags hardly seems essential to the general prosperity. If these things could be deodorized privately, society and youth would be served. They have no more right for free circulation than any other pest.

Each crime and its punishment ought to be sufficient deterrent. However, when an attorney announces that he has been defense counsel in 102 murder trials with the result that but one man was hanged, one man and one woman received life sentences, nine were convicted of manslaughter, and all the others, ninety in number, are walking the streets free men today, what shall be said?

Then, too, bootleg love too often seems to spring from love of bootleg.

EPOCH OF PEACE

BY CHARLES COKE WOODS

On August 27, 1928, fifteen world powers signed an everlasting condemnation of war. It was the most sublime pageantry of peace that was ever put on the programs of power. It was as dignified as life and love and the soul of mankind. The whole company of diplomats was caught in the grip of a new greatness. It was a greatness beyond that of any material achievement. It was beyond anything mechanical. It was the combined spirituality of fifteen nations' souls for the everlasting banishment of war.

Stresemann's signature on this peace document has already done more as the initial name in the list for the welfare of the world than all the swords of all the Caesars. It was a swordless Germany shaking hands with a swordless France and with all the other friendly nations. A new power has come upon the scene, the constructive power and the reconstructive power of peace. The nations are fulfilling Hugo's prophecy, that the cannon ball is to be a curiosity and a souvenir. The Kellogg-Briand Brotherhood is the substitute for swords.

Peace and labor, labor and peace must go hand in hand. The time is ripe for them to be the partners of power. War's hands are always red with the larceny of power. Men's wars have wasted more than men's works have been able to produce. Peace, prosperity, and plenty are the trio of honest toil. The Kellogg-Briand peace pact is a pact to conserve the fruits of friendliness and the hard-won triumphs of honest toil. The pact represents the union of the world's peacemakers, the service consolidation of the world's creative spirits. That great gathering at Paris was a getting together of civilization's peace trustees. It was the concurrence of kindly conquerers to close up the outdated old schools of the sword. It was substituting the brains of manhood for the bayonets of militaristic mad men.

For more reasons than one it was fitting to have the world's epochal peace meeting in the "clock room." The time had come for humanity's great friendship affirmatives to have a hearing. The high hour so long awaited by the soul of the world had struck. The friendly hands of labor and of peace united to turn the key in the door of death. They united to throw away the swords and spears to ruin and rust. The spirit of peace worked its way to that hour with more than herculean heroism. It was the long patience of power that climbed the heights to plant and unfurl those fifteen flags of freedom and peace. It was long and watchful working that won the way to that glorious goal. And when those pilgrims of peace reached that summit of the mountain of the Lord they found the Prince of Peace awaiting at the top.

For fifteen months two leaders chiefly responsible for results had been patiently working into fulfillment of the world's sublimest dream. The triumphs of labor have been many, but the victory of this peace pact must be placed at the top. "Omnia vincit labor"—labor overcomes all things. But to state the largest truth about labor another statement must be added to this one. "Omnia vincet amor"—love conquers all things, for love is back of labor. This is the soul that runs like the creative spirit of beauty through all the great services of men. Let the clocks of Paris and the clocks of the world strike the high noon of peace, the high noon of the nations.

If it was a laborious peace it was a peaceful labor. Vast volumes could be written on the lost labors of war. A new thought now is on the mind of the world. It is the practicability of the peace principle and the peace plan in the adjustments of the nations. Peace that has been idealized is now to be realized. The song of angels has come down to shed its light on the dusty ways of men. The dream has blossomed into deed.

Our statesmen of peace have opened a new school to teach the sons and daughters to think in terms of peace instead of war. Thinking war makes war. Thinking peace makes peace. As a man thinks, so is he. This new school of peace will teach the will to peace, the way to peace. The old school of the sword set the world on a false trail. The school of hate is a fool's philosophy for nations as for men. The philosophy of friendship is a philosophy of power.

This school will say that friendship is the mightiest force among nations as it is among men. This teaching of the new school will take hold of the world's mind tomorrow. The citizen students of the new school will wonder at the old idiocies of militarism. They will wonder how it was ever possible for men to think that the greatest values could be saved by destroying them. These new student citizens of the new school of peace will wonder how it was ever possible for statesmen to think that national and international difficulties could be lessened by increasing them. We will have a peaceful world when our world settles down to thinking peace instead of war.

Foreign entanglements have grown out of domestic estrangements. Nothing but the salve of understanding sympathy will heal the sore spots of the world. No man or nation can resist an understanding sympathy. Not even a dog would be a foe to the friend that feeds him. As other sires kindness is creative of its kind. No hating nation has ever bred a loving people. No loving nation has ever bred the children of hate. This is the teaching of the new statesmanship school of peace.

Better Place for Them

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In an article in your August 29 edition you say that the Park Commission is to remove from Pershing Square all of the lovely deciduous trees, some of them very old and graceful, to be replaced by (squatty) semitropical palms, etc. It is the most absurdly asinine act the Park Commissioners have done. Banana trees have a knack here of dying quickly after a touch of low temperature, and to remove trees that can be seen for many blocks adjacent to the Square is a ridiculous piece of business.

If some horticulturist has an over stock of semitropical trees and the Park Commissioners any surplus funds, I respectfully suggest that some of that surplus be used to embellish the lower stretches of Barnsdall Park at Vermont and Sunset Boulevard. It is an insult to the generosity of the donor to leave it in such disorder as surrounds the olive groves and fine buildings housing works of art.

The Human Touch

COVINA, Aug. 29.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I hasten to the defense of Gale and Harry Carr. It must be the state of mind that traces venom in the work of either.

I have read The Times for thirty years and think Harry Carr thoroughly knows humanity (that's why he likes dogs.) Can see nothing un-American, and he is unprejudiced, as without fear or favor he hands out criticism to any person or party. More power to you, Harry.

Glad He Didn't

DEL MAR, Aug. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your "Letters to The Times" of the 30th Mr. Lambrecht certainly is "all wet." I didn't notice him taking any exceptions to Gov. Smith's dig at Mr. Hoover when he, the Governor, said that an ounce of prevention was worth a pound of first aid. During the war I could have shot Harry Carr, but that was because he was telling the truth, and I knew it. I'm glad I didn't, because I love to read his stuff today.

VAN NUYS, Aug. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Of course we don't know where Mr. James J. Lambrecht was born, but if it happened to be in New York State and he had been aware of Tammany politics from his birth I do not see how he could feel as he does. New York Americans realise our famous city is more European than American because most of the latter nationals moved out of New York to get into touch with America. My ancestors did. My relatives have. Mr. Carr is so seldom flattering that he is a tonic we all need. Most painful but awakening.

MONARCHY DEAD

BERLIN — Exceedingly painful reading for the former Kaiser's household in Doorn must be the discussion now going on in the pages of the Conservative Political Weekly as to the present vogue of the monarchical idea in this country.

Thus, Baron von Esebeck, editor of a reactionary paper in that stronghold of Junkerdom, Allenstein, writes:

"Nothing has done so much harm to the monarchical idea as the Kaiser's crossing to Holland and the unresisting surrender of their thrones by the German princes. Not the Kaiser, but the monarchy itself, thereby lost the decisive battle. Moreover, while the second marriage of the master of Doorn was unintelligible to wide sections of the population, Princess Hermine's often strange manner of granting interviews caused dissatisfaction, and, finally, the numerous family scandals of the princes could not contribute to restore the prestige of the once so glorious House of Hohenzollern. But when at this juncture the German princes voluntarily surrendered their rights and accepted money compensation the idea of divine right received its death-blow."

Another correspondent, an old officer, describes the monarchy as a dream in which the youth of the party and a large part of its age have ceased to believe. "For the present," he says, "the monarchy is dead."—[London Telegraph.

PARIS (France) Sept. 2.—Since Lindbergh made his famous hop and the American Legion came to France, Americans have gotten to considering themselves mere tourists. Most of us who travel these days are "ambassadors" of one grade or another. Those who don't represent the nation as a whole bear letters from their home town, and failing in that do their own press-agenting.

However, one class of visitors who are seriously are being considered in the light of ambassadors are students, possibly because from their ranks will come the future representatives of our government. France has built an entire city for them (the Cite Universite;) Austria recently established a club for them; and in Germany they frequently are welcomed by ministerial delegations.

A group of 300 teachers and art students recently passed through Paris en route to Prague, where they are attending the Prague Art Congress. Included in the group were Dr. H. H. Powers, president of the Bureau of University Travel; Lorado Taft and Cyrus Dallin, sculptors; Prof. John Shapley of New York University; Prof. Ellsworth Woodward, director of the Cincinnati Art School of New Orleans, and Prof. Carl Heyl, principal of the West Philadelphia High School.

A group of ten American students, five young men and five young women, have been in Berlin as guests of the Carl Schurz Society. They were received last week by the German government and entertained by various German institutions and enterprises. Among those in the party are Frank A. Packard, Jr., of the University of California and Miss Hilda Wright of the University of Pennsylvania. Fifty-four students from the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts have completed a tour of the cathedrals of Northern France. More than sixty Americans representing thirty-eight States are taking the summer courses offered by the school in Paris at 9 Place des Vosges. Eighteen of the most brilliant professors of art in France are acting as faculty members.

The Tale Glee Club, consisting of forty-six undergraduates, has been touring Europe this summer, visiting Gotenburg, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Hamburg, Berlin, Dresden, Prague, Munich, Lucerne, Paris and London. The club is here as a pioneer in carrying out a great scheme to create an international affiliation of student singers in America and Europe.

And to take care of some of these visitors, an exclusively "student" hotel will be opened in Paris next month by the Foyer International des Etudiantes.

Mrs. Nettie B. Want, H. Orville Want and Miss Pearl Brenniger of Los Angeles have arrived in Vienna after a tour of Scandinavia and Germany. Mr. Want is a student at the University of California and a member of the Chi Alpha Fraternity. Miss Mary Gearhart of Pasadena is stopping at the Hotel Imperial in Vienna.

A. J. Toussing and family of Los Angeles, who have been traveling in Germany, were recent visitors to Nuremberg, stopping at the Deutscher Hof.

At the Hotel Imperial in Vienna are Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hollander of San Diego. They plan to take the cure in Carlsbad, Czecho-Slovakia, and afterward go to Berlin, Frankfort and Stuttgart and from the latter place come to Paris. They return home toward the end of October.

With the arrival of President Coolidge in Carlsbad, the social season is in full swing and the Bohemian spa once more has become a rendezvous of international royalties, financiers and society. Dining at the Olympic Palace Hotel is Miss Marie Neville of Los Angeles.

However, one class of visitors who are seriously are being considered in the light of ambassadors are artists, possibly because from their midst came the future representatives of our government. Vienna has built an entire city for the Cite Universite;) Austria recently established a club for them; and Germany they frequently are welcomed by ministerial delegates.

A group of 300 teachers and art students recently passed through Paris en route to Prague, where they are attending the Prague Art Congress. Included in the group are Dr. E. H. Powers, president of the Bureau of University Travel; Lorado Taft and Cyrus Dallin, sculptors; Prof. John Shapley of Princeton University; Prof. Ellsworth Woodward, director of the Women's Art School of New Orleans, and Prof. Carl Heyl, principal of the West Philadelphia high school.

A group of ten American students, five young men and five young women, have been in Berlin as guests of the Carl Schurz Society. They were received last week by the German government and entertained by various German institutions and enterprises. Among those in the party are Frank A. Vanderlip, Jr., of the University of Illinois and Miss Hilda Wright of the University of Pennsylvania.

Fifty-four students from the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts have completed a tour of the chateaux of Northern France. The final sixty Americans representing forty-eight States are taking the summer courses offered by the school in Paris at 9 Place des Vosges. Eighteen of the most brilliant professors of art in France are acting as faculty members.

The Yale Glee Club, consisting of fifty undergraduates, has been touring Europe this summer, visiting Hamburg, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Hamburg, Berlin, Dresden, Munich, Lucerne, Paris and London. The club is here as a piece of carrying out a great scheme to create an international affiliation among singers in America and Europe.

And to take care of some of these glee clubs, an exclusively "stunt" hotel will be opened in Paris early in March by the Foyer International des Etudiantes.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis B. Want, H. Orville Want and Miss Pearl Breniger of Los Angeles have arrived in Vienna after a tour of Scandinavia and Russia. Mr. Want is a student at the University of California and a member of the Chi Alpha Fraternity. Miss Mary Gearhart of Los Angeles is staying at the Hotel Imperial in Vienna.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bruning and family of Los Angeles, who have been traveling in Europe, were recent visitors to Vienna, stopping at the Deutscher Hof.

Mr. and Mrs. Roald Imperial in Vienna from Los Angeles and Mrs. J. S. Hollander of Los Angeles. They plan to take the children to Carlsbad, Czecho-Slovakia, and Dresden and go to Berlin. Frankfort-on-the-Maine, Stuttgart and from the latter place come to Paris. They remain in Paris toward the end of October.

Following the arrival of President Coolidge in Carlsbad, the social season there is in full swing and the Bohemian spa once more has become a rendezvous of international royalty, financiers and society. Mrs. Frank Mulhauser of the Olympic Palace Hotel and Miss Neville of Los Angeles are there.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mulhauser of Los Angeles have returned to Carlsbad and are staying at the Hotel de Paris from Cabourg. They are leaving this week for the Duke and Duchess d'Olyka in their Villa Lillinita in Biarritz.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. M. Murtry of Pasadena have been stopping at the Europa Hof in Dresden, Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seaman and Misses Helen and Frances Seaman of Los Angeles have arrived in Paris from New York and are staying at the Hotel de Crillon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hill of Los Angeles and their daughter, Miss Marjorie Hill, after visiting at the Continental Hotel in Berlin, have left for Heidelberg, whence they will go to Wiesbaden, then to Cologne and from there tour Holland and Belgium. On their way to England they will pass through Paris and sail for home from Glasgow, Scotland, the 15th inst.

The season in the Bernese Oberland is in full swing. California guests of the Regina Palace Hotel in Interlaken include Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Johnson of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wercler of Los Angeles were recent guests of the Hotel Metropole in London.

Mrs. F. B. Look and Mrs. Anna L. Bang of Los Angeles were recent arrivals at the Hotel Atlantic in Hamburg, Germany. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wiley of Los Angeles have been staying at the same hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. William Keith Scott of Los Angeles, after a visit to Brussels, have arrived at the Hotel Continental in Paris.

Students representing thirty-six nations are enrolled for the vacation courses of the German Institute for Foreigners of the University of Berlin. California is represented by Andrew Kingdom of San Diego and Arthur James Schuettner and Mathilde Elizabeth Schuettner of Sacramento.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Richards of Beverly Hills, who had been stopping at the Hotel Plaza-Athenee in Paris, have left for Carlsbad, Czecho-Slovakia.

Dr. L. J. Hoff of Hollywood recently arrived at the Hotel Bristol in Berlin in company with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Taussig. They go soon to Norway, Sweden and Denmark, later passing three weeks in Carlsbad, Czecho-Slovakia, going on to Vienna, the Italian lake district and passing the winter in Mentone and Monte Carlo. They have been traveling since April and have passed a month in Paris and another in England.

Mrs. L. B. McKinley and A. M. Hamburger, both of Los Angeles, are among the Californians taking the cure at Bad Nauheim, Germany.

Dr. McCoy will answer personal queries on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

SEPTEMBER SUN STILL STRONG

In the vast realm of space we can observe some fixed points of light—the stars. One of these, our sun, is so near that it appears to be a ball of flame. Although the sun has a bulk of 1,250,000 times as great as the earth, it appears relatively small to us. This is because of the tremendous distance between us and the sun. H. G. Wells gives an interesting example. He states that if a bullet were fired from a Maxim gun at the sun, maintaining its muzzle velocity unimpaired, it would take seven long years to reach its destination.

We cannot actually see the sun; we only see clouds of incandescent metallic vapors. These intensely hot substances vibrate with such force that they throw ether, of which space is composed, into a vibration that is carried to the earth. Upon striking the earth and material objects, these vibrations make themselves felt to us as warmth and light. Without an atmosphere to retain this warmth, this world would be a chilly place.

Sunshine is essential to life. The sun is the source of every form of energy that our complicated civilization has learned to use. Even the energy from our food is energy from sunshine that has been stored up by plants.

The sun has a remarkable effect upon brightening our disposition as well as our climates. On cloudy days we feel gloomy; when the sun shines we are cheerful. The barren wastes of the frigid lands in the Far North are caused by a lack of sunshine, the tropical vegetation of the warm zones could only grow because of the abundance of warmth.

The importance of the sun was realized even in prehistoric days, and one of the first religions of human beings was the sun worship which was based on the life-giving forces of the sun.

People who are weak and old feel comforted by basking in the sunlight. Science has discovered that sunlight stimulates the growth of children. Even many of our foods when exposed to the ultra-violet rays of the sun become more nourishing. It has long been known that cod liver oil has some property in it which prevents rickets and science now believes that is only the effect of stored up sunlight which the codfish secures from small sea plants. Scientists have named this property vitamin D, and have produced it artificially in many other foods by exposing them to the ultra-violet rays.

The stimulating effects of the sunlight upon the body are the result of the ultra-violet rays which influence the multiplication of the red blood cells and increase the body's ability to absorb calcium.

Even though the September sun is not as warm as the summer sun, in many parts of the North American continent the ultra-violet rays with which it bathes the earth are just as valuable when applied to the human body. During this season sun bathing can be used with great benefit without the danger of overheating.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: R. J. asks: "Are lemons and salt hard on the kidneys? I drink two cups of hot water with a little lemon juice squeezed into it every morning, as I have heard this was good for biliousness, but have also heard it was hard on the kidneys."

Answer: The lemon juice you take in the morning never actually reaches the kidneys. All of the citric acid fruits are beneficial to the body if used properly, but no matter how used, these fruits never have any bad effect on the kidneys. Be sure to take your water and lemon juice at least thirty minutes before breakfast. This is a good stomach-cleansing treatment and induces the flow of bile, but is best used far enough away from a meal.

Q.: Mrs. G. asks: "What do you think of the banana-nut combination which all health magazines recommend? Isn't this a protein-starch combination?"

Q.: Reader asks: "Is it possible to find out the parentage of a child by a blood test? If not, is there any other way of proving same?"

A.: There is no accurate way of determining relationship by blood tests, although many physicians have advanced claims that they have discovered methods of proving such relationship as a child to its parents. My investigations of these claims have always shown them to be exaggerated and not accurate.

CHEF WYMAN'S Suggestions for TOMORROW'S MENU

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

Breakfast

Blackberries and Cream
Waffles and Ham Honey
Milk Coffee

Luncheon

Calf's Liver Fritters
Deviled Salad Balls
Apple Cobbler
Iced Tea

Dinner

Onion Soup
Celery Pickles
Braised Beef, Grape Chutney
Potatoes Au Gratin
Pear Cream Soup
Cabbage and Nut Salad
Compote of Peaches
Nut Cookies
Coffee

CALF'S LIVER FRITTERS

Take one pound of calf's liver and boil it until tender. Then remove and chop very fine. Add to it pepper, salt, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, the juice of an onion, and lighten it with beaten whites of two eggs; add the mixture to the liver and fry. Serve with the fritters one small glass of melted currant jelly.

DEVILED SALAD BALLS

Take the yolks of four hard-boiled eggs and devil them with a teaspoonful of salt, the same amount of pepper, a tablespoonful of olive oil, a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce, to form the paste, then form into little balls; roll in powdered nuts and drop into the salad among the leaves. Cover with mayonnaise.

Extra mayonnaise may be placed in the center of the salad in a half-lemon skin, having a slice cut from the bottom so that it will stand upright.

CABBAGE AND NUT SALAD

Mix four cupfuls of finely shredded young cabbage with one cupful of chopped walnut meats, two schopped pimientos, two chopped green peppers, two teaspoonfuls of salt, four tablespoonfuls of chopped spiced spickles, and one cupful of lemon French dressing. Drain, mound on six lettuce-covered plates, cover with cooked salad dressing and sprinkle with paprika and finely chopped parsley.

APPLE COBBLER

Mix five cupfuls of peeled and diced apples with three-quarters of a cupful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of ground cinnamon, half a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of ground mace. Place in a deep buttered baking pan, dot with three tablespoonfuls of butter broken in small bits and pour over three-quarters of a cupful of water. Cover with a short biscuit dough, brush with melted butter, cut three slits in the top and bake in a moderate oven twenty minutes, pour over a syrup made by boiling three-quarters of a cupful of water with one and a half cupfuls of sugar and one tablespoonful of grated lemon rind. Bake ten minutes and serve.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department offers details on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, colds, cooking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

WAKEFULNESS AT NIGHT NOT UNCOMMON AMONG CHILDREN

Mrs. A. R. F. writes: "I have a little girl 2 years of age, who is healthy and happy. Lately we have so much trouble with her waking in the night and not going to sleep again. She has always been a light sleeper, but makes no fuss when I put her to bed at 7, but even if she has no excitement during the day she always wakens from about 11 to 2 o'clock. She keeps calling my name wanting me to come to her. If we spank her she gets hysterical, and it doesn't help much. Right now she is cutting a tooth, but she was wakeful even before this. Why should she waken? Do you think spanking would help, or letting her cry it out?"

Answer: Spanking positively will not help. You can see yourself, having tried it, that the child only gets more upset and nervous and sleep is farther off than ever. It shouldn't be looked upon as an indication of anything particularly wrong when babies or children waken once in the night. If one is a light sleeper, and hears every cry, one notices that babies do waken in the night, talk to themselves a few minutes, coo, or roll about, and then fall asleep again. When the mother is the nervous type and considers it part of her duty as a mother to take notice of every small outcry the child makes, she will rush to him, pet him a bit, give him a drink of water, change his diapers, and impress on the child the satisfactory results of making his parent hear him at night.

It is a splendid idea for any well, healthy child to sleep in a room separated from his mother. She won't be likely to hear every small noise he makes and if he really needs her she will certainly hear him. If a mother would make a practice of leaving a child alone when he wakens in the night she wouldn't so firmly establish the habit of night wakefulness and the desirability of crying a bit in order to get attention.

Now for the particular problem. For a few nights go to the child when she calls, take her out of bed and let her sit on a small jar, give her a drink of water and put a small toy in bed with her to be "company" for her until she goes to sleep again. A well-beloved doll or rag animal will be just the thing for her to cuddle.

Then in a few days, at bed time, put a thermos bottle beside the bed filled with cool water. Show her how to use it. It is simple enough if the carafe style is used, and put the side of her crib down after she is asleep so that she can climb out and use the jar. Let her learn how to manage for herself at night. One mother has suggested the use of a flashlight under the pillow, so that the child can see what she is doing. These are developments, and each mother can add new duties for the child to perform as she finds the child ready for them. At any rate a child this age can get a drink of water for herself and keep quiet so as not to deprive her parents of their needed rest.

TEACHERS OF DANCING ASSEMBLE

State Convention Will be Opened Tomorrow, With Many Features Planned

A brilliant program has been planned for the convention of the California Associated Teachers of Dancing, which opens in the ballroom of the Biltmore tomorrow morning, it is announced by Mrs. Jean Froude, chairman of the press committee.

On the opening night the pupils of Miss Norma Gould will entertain in a program at Hollywood Bowl. Wednesday evening the Ernest E. Ryans will entertain the visiting teachers.

Thursday a dinner-dance will be given at the Biltmore in honor of the president, Miss Mabel Hasse of Stockton, who has just returned from attending the convention of the Dancing Masters of America in Detroit.

Friday night will be Los Angeles night. Mrs. Lillian Payne, chairman of general arrangements, has planned a tour of ballrooms for the delegates.

LOT TRADE WITH CITY UNDER CONSIDERATION

The Schimacher Investment Company, which owns a lot with an eighty-five-foot frontage on Fairpark avenue, Eagle Rock, adjoining a corner lot with frontage of seventy-five feet owned by the city, wants to exchange the rear portion of his lot for the front portion of the city lot. In the proposed exchange the city would receive 12,325 square feet of land and would give up 7500 square feet. The Board of Public Works, however, decided to delay any decision in the matter until an inspection of the two properties can be made. The city-owned lot is now used as a corral.

THREE TO BE UNITED IN DEATH

Ashes of Dr. McBride and Wife Will Rest in Grave of Hero Son Overseas

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Sept. 2.—Uniting in death a father, mother and only son, each of whom has served humanity conspicuously in different fields, the ashes of Dr. James Harvey McBride, and Mrs. Eva Ackley McBride will be deposited in the grave of Lieut. James Ackley McBride in the Argonne Cemetery, France.

Mrs. McBride, an artist whose paintings have been exhibited in many cities of the United States, died at the family residence, 489 Bellefontaine street, last Monday. Dr. McBride, a former president of the American Academy of Medicine, and known for his philanthropic and educational work, died yesterday. He had not been informed of his wife's death.

Funeral services for Dr. McBride will be conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the chapel of the Turner & Stevens Company.

Rev. C. Rankin Barnes of St. James Episcopal Church, South Pasadena, will be officiating clergyman. The list of honorary pallbearers includes Dr. George F. Hale, Arthur Fleming, Henry M. Robinson, Dr. James A. B. Scherer, William C. Baker, John B. Miller, Dr. Jarvis Barlow, Dr. Arthur Noyes, E. S. Gosney, Dr. J. B. Condit, Dr. George Dock, Dr. Ray Smith, Dr. Fitch Mattison, Charles H. Prisk and John Willis Baer.

Capt. Paul Perigord, Dr. McBride's son-in-law and a former officer in the French army, revealed today that he and Mrs. Perigord (Emily McBride) will go to France next year for the purpose of carrying out the wishes of both Dr. and Mrs. McBride that their mortal remains be placed near those of their son.

Lieut. McBride was killed in aerial combat shortly before the close of the World War. The parents were notified of his death on the day the armistice was signed.

SUICIDE TRIAL LAID TO ILLNESS AND WORRY

Mrs. Palma T. Davisson, whom police say is the wife of the general superintendent of the Wichita Valley Railroad, yesterday attempted to end her life by swallowing poison at her home, 1848 North Cherokee avenue. The police officers, who found a note, declare Mrs. Davisson was despondent because of continued ill health and worry about her 22-year-old daughter.

Shortly after 6 p.m. the daughter returned home to find her mother still conscious, and called police. Dr. R. C. MacDonald administered first aid and had the woman taken to the hospital.

CLAIR WOOLWINE NAMED IN TAX LIEN

Claire Woolwine is one of several mentioned in income-tax liens filed by Collector of Internal Revenue Welch. A lien was filed against him for $48.64 for additional taxes for 1927. A lien of $137.27 for 1927 was also filed against Norman Trevor, 2126 Holly Drive.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Take Care of Them

Mothers, look after those baby teeth! In olden times the first teeth were pulled out on the slightest pretext, but we all know now that the child will benefit in health if the first set of teeth can be preserved until the second set appears, as much of the health and vigor of the second teeth depend upon the care the first teeth receive.

Household Topics

Garnish the dish, but not so much that it is difficult to carve or serve.

Avoid hanging starched clothes in a strong wind, as the wind will blow out the starch from the clothes.

Use the egg slicer to slice boiled beets. The slices will be more uniform and the task will be a shorter one.

Sour Milk

It is difficult to regulate the exact amount of milk required, but by no means let the surplus go to waste. If you find you have a quart or more on hand, make a rice pudding, a custard or a dish with a creamed sauce. Another pleasing way to use it is to have a slice of ham for dinner and bake it in milk in the oven for about an hour, adding milk as it boils away. Should your milk turn sour before using, gingerbread, cottage cheese, sour milk biscuits and hot cakes are all good.

Think It Over

Woodenware should dry slowly so as not to crack.

A folded envelope will answer the purpose of a shoehorn when traveling.

Cool all foods before putting them into the refrigerator. It is better for the food and much easier on the ice bill.

Keep the yeast cake in the bottom of the refrigerator until used. Never put it directly on the ice or it will spoil.

New Owners of Repetto Rancho Give Right of Way for County Boulevard

Beverly Boulevard will be opened through the Repetto Rancho, connecting with Third street at its present easterly terminus, according to announcement yesterday by Klyde Young, executive secretary of the East Side Organization. The Repetto Rancho was purchased a few days ago by O. Nickolas Gabriel and J. B. Ransom and the opening of Beverly Boulevard through the property is made possible by the deeding of necessary land to the county.

"The alignment of Beverly Boulevard from its present dead end in Montebello Park to the connection at Third street," said Mr. Young yesterday, "was definitely arranged after conferences with property owners from Whittier, Pico, Montebello, the county road department and Supervisor Beaty, chairman of the road committee.

"The East Side Organization has been the sponsor of East Beverly Boulevard since it was started three years ago. The new owners know the East Side and there will be good speed to make up for lost time."

The LAST WORD

By ALMA WHITAKER

A WILD PARTY

We were invited to what promised to be a "wild party." Mind you, the invitations gave no such hint, but everyone told us that these hosts of ours were prone to give "wild parties."

They were wealthy and so had a vast, illimitable "pre-war" stock of nefarious liquids. They played cards for high stakes. And there were dark hints about promiscuous flirtations, and the reputations of some of the guests we should meet there.

Well, there never was a newspaper person yet who could not convince himself (or herself) that it was his duty to investigate these things, to know what was going on in the city, to meet and know all kinds of people. In that respect we permit ourselves many privileged "inspections," even as some kinds of preachers do.

We were all set to be shocked—and probably leave early! When cocktails were served before dinner, it was a suitable beginning. When all the women present lit cigarettes, the atmosphere began to feel wild. During this interval before dinner I sat on a lounge with a haughty siren of perhaps 45, wearing many dazzling jewels, and carrying her own brand of expensive Russian cigarettes.

"Isn't it an exquisite cigarette case?" she asked me. "Father and the boys gave it to me for our wedding anniversary. My big boy has just joined the Navy. He passed the entrance examination with flying honors. You know he graduated from college a year ahead of his class." At which point her husband butted in teasingly. "Now, mother, bragging about your children again! Don't encourage her; she has five, you know, and everyone a priceless pearl, if you believe her;" he told me, grinning, but really bursting with paternal pride himself.

Dear me, this didn't sound like wild-party talk at all. But as I had something to tell about my boys—well, dinner was announced much too soon.

At table I sat between two dashing men of the world. One talked high politics and added considerably to my patriotic education. The other took the first opportunity to tell me he was the proud father of a new baby girl, and was soon discussing baby-feeding, nursemaids, child-upbringing, and pointing to his young stylish wife as a miracle of modern motherhood. She had duly fed the baby in the time-honored way before dressing for this party—and the miracle child could be trusted to sleep till 4 a.m. when mamma would duly feed her again!

After dinner the sinful gambling was introduced—a sort of roulette game. We bought $1 worth of chips each. The host was "banker" and during that whole wicked gamble, three wild gentlemen had furious arguments about the respective merits of their gardens and gardeners, and the right way to treat orange groves and peach ranches. One of the sinful gamblers was raising chickens on a vast scale and gave us any amount of scientific data about eggs.

One sinful bedizened beauty was, it appears, an official on the board of the crippled children's hospital, and at the end of the evil gambling she laughingly made all the winners give her their profits for the hospital.

When the party broke up at 1 a.m. and opulent automobiles with tired chauffeurs fetched all these depraved rich people away, I expect the neighbors were peeking through the blinds to see the participants in this wicked, wild party depart.

And we—oh, well, we had no idea wild parties amongst the sinful idle rich could be so domesticated.

Samuel Annis of Hartford Center, Me., visited his pasture, where he has some young stock that he had not seen for several days. The appearance of a heifer attracted his attention. When he got near he found her lower jaw wedged in an old tin can in such a manner that she was unable to graze. She had grown thin. It was with considerable difficulty that the can was removed from the animal.

REMOVE MAKE-UP with PALM and OLIVE OILS

HERE is a way to make washing your face an actual beauty treatment. Women are amazed at the softness of their skin, by the fine texture of their pores, as a result of this complexion habit.

If the skin is regularly cleansed each day—if make-up and grime are thoroughly removed—natural charm results. The most effective means to do this, in gentle safety to the skin, is by daily use of Palmolive Soap.

Its rich, luxurious lather embodies two famed beauty oils—the oil of olive and the oil of palm. They gently penetrate and cleanse the pores when applied in the following way and keep your skin radiantly clear, gloriously soft and charming:

Each night wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive. With your two hands massage the magic lather of its oils into your pores, cleansing them thoroughly. Then rinse, first with warm, then cold, water. Dry by gently patting with a soft towel. Add a little cold cream for dryness, perhaps, but that is all.

TREE TEA

ORANGE PEKOE

Whether you wield a racquet outdoors, or sit astride a swivel indoors, the heated question of the hour is—"How can I keep cool?" The answer is—Tree Tea Iced! To make really good iced tea, you must use a tea of full flavor with strength enough to withstand the dilution caused by pouring over ice.

Tree Tea Orange Pekoe is that kind of tea

NEW WORLD PEACE PACT WINS PRAISE OF PASTOR

Rev. W. C. Isett Calls Signing of Treaty Most Interesting Event in History of Mankind

Declaring that the signing, by fifteen nations, of the Briand-Kellogg peace pact is "the most interesting event in the history of the world," Rev. William C. Isett, pastor of the Union Church of Los Angeles, in his sermon yesterday gave credit to the church for its splendid part in bringing about such an agreement between nations and pleaded for a united Christendom to maintain the ideals established.

Mr. Isett spoke in part as follows:

"War now is considered an international crime and the nation that resorts to it will be an international criminal. War was not a crime in 1914, and each nation engaged in the World War was a law-abiding and peaceful world citizen. We are now to create a new psychology. Although war is a crime, and is so to be regarded by the nations, it will not be necessary to repent of this sin in order to reform the world, but only to learn a new psychology. War was not a criminal in 1914 because there was no law against it. Now it is a crime to go to war because there is a law. It is considered a legal crime and not a moral one. Strange reasoning, but true. It is the most interesting thing that has occurred in the history of the world. War is a calamity which befalls a nation because of sin. It is classed with pestilence and famine. Will we ever come to the place of outlawing pestilence and famine—making it an international crime to permit either of them in the world? A new world psychology can be created only by putting into practice Christ's command to love one another.

"If any credit is given for the peace pact of Paris it should be given to Jesus Christ, and to the church which he established. If it is maintained, it will be by the heroic work of the church, the only agency in the world dedicated solely to the one end of bringing all nations of the world into one homogeneous unit. This treaty is the beginning of a new era, but only the beginning. Can the church rise to its responsibility? Not unless its forces, too, are united. Nations united for peace demand a church united for power to enforce peace."

CRIMES OF YOUTH LAID TO PARENTS

Dr. W. W. Bustard, evangelist, was the preacher yesterday at the First Presbyterian Church at Hollywood. Announcing himself as a champion of modern youth, Dr. Bustard said:

"If youth today is not what it ought to be, much blame is to be found in the home. Parental delinquency today is far more serious than juvenile delinquency. The blame partially lies also in the educational system of today which is not sufficiently moral or religious. Youth has never been so free as today, and history proves that all freedom is at first abused."

SPIRITUAL ALCHEMY THEME OF SERMON

A sermon on "The Inner Alchemy" was preached yesterday by Swami Dhirananda at Mt. Washington Educational Center. The speaker said in part:

"Converting baser metals into higher ones, as done by alchemists of the Middle Ages, was the beginning of chemistry. No matter whether all its claims are true or not, alchemy stands as a symbol of progressive psychological and spiritual experiences. Transformation and transmutation of the grosser into the better is alchemy. The better may mean the more materially valuable or more spiritually helpful. A Savior's love of mankind is the highest alchemized product of the selfish love of an individual, a householder, and expanding love of a nationalist, a reformer and a humanitarian. When stubbornness changes into tenacity, restlessness of spirit into active propensity, meddlesomeness into service, inquisitiveness into investigating spirit, passivity into patience, worry into calm and deep thinking, sense pleasure into intellectual and artistic exultation, passion for life into love of its law—this is all inner alchemy. It can be brought about through systematic training and canalizing of forces."

DR. H. C. CULBERTSON SPEAKS FROM KMIC

In an address from radio station KMIC yesterday Dr. H. C. Culbertson discussed the question "Did prohibition increase drinking among our young people?" He said in part:

"My answer to this question is 'no.' All this would have come anyway if prohibition had never been adopted and would have been far worse if the saloons had remained open and liquor free. The wildness of some social sets among our youth today, and the crime wave which rose a few years ago, must be ascribed to a variety of causes.

Youth has been plunged into a new era of unparalleled frankness, freedom and power, for all of which they have not yet learned to adjust themselves by greater self-control and higher ideals of character. Not the great mass of our youth the country over, but the superficial type of youth, the froth and foam, have been carried away by these conditions, but they would have been injured far more terribly, and vastly larger numbers of them would have been injured, had not prohibition been enacted and at least partially enforced. Out of all the turmoil will come new adjustment to new conditions, the development of stronger character to use and not abuse the new freedom and new opportunities of our day."

BIBLE IS CALLED DANGEROUS BOOK

Prof. Carl S. Knopf of the University of Southern California preached at the Church of the Messiah yesterday on "A Dangerous Book." He said in part:

"The Bible is the most dangerous book in the world. Any book that makes a slave equal to Caesar, a cooley equal to a mandarin, a woman equal to a man, a child worthy of love rather than exploitation, is bound to unseat governments and foment discontent. The Ten Commandments are not true because they are in the Bible, they are in the Bible because they are true. The infallible Bible is not an infallible set of letters and punctuation marks, it is an infallible epitome of the best concepts of God, man and the universe. In a husk of verbiage lie the kernels of eternal truth. Jonah's whale isn't much as a whale, but is a marvelous bit of stage property in a racy burlesque on narrow bigots who would rather keep a straight theology than to help a groping world find its way to the light."

BETTER DAYS FOR WORLD PREDICTED

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin preached at Temple B'nai B'rith yesterday on "Fulfillment of Prophecies." He said:

"The world has not yet caught up with the ideals of the prophets. However, we are making progress. Economic and social conditions are constantly improving. A higher standard of ethics has entered into business life. One reads of scandals, corruption and perversion of justice but these evils are featured and enlarged upon to the point where one is likely to forget the good that exists. In time our social and economic problems will be solved. Excitement, harangue, abuse will not solve them. The solution will come through a slow but steady process of spiritual education and sound thinking. The day will arrive when the dreams and visions of Isaiah and his brother-prophets will be solved here upon earth."

"MAN" DISCUSSED BY CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS

"Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon yesterday at all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The lesson-sermon included the following selection from Genesis, 1: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him."

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. Matter is not that likeness. The likeness of spirit cannot be so unlike spirit. Man is spiritual and perfect; and because he is spiritual and perfect, he must be so understood in Christian Science."

PRAISE FOR HOOVER VOICED IN SERMON

Two services were conducted yesterday at the First Immanuel Presbyterian Church in observance of the fortieth anniversary of the church's existence. Dr. Herbert Booth Smith in his morning sermon on "The Measurements of Life," called attention that time, or length, is not a sufficient factor in life, which must be measured by its broadness and its height, or accomplishment and religious idealism.

In the evening the sermon topic was "My First Interview With Herbert Hoover and its Religious Lessons." This meeting, Dr. Smith declared, was in September, 1918, when religious leaders were called in conference by President Wilson and his Cabinet officers, and where he was greatly impressed with the high ideals of Mr. Hoover in his food-conservation campaign. The full vesper chorus choir under the direction of Frans Hoffman sang at both services.

CONTRACTOR GADD'S MOTHER SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Anna Smith Gadd, mother of Peter R. Gadd, Los Angeles contractor, died last night at her home at 981 South Serrano avenue. Pneumonia caused her death following an illness of one week. Her husband passed away eight months ago. Mrs. Gadd, who was born in Ireland, had made her home here for the past year, having come from San Francisco, where she resided for fifteen years. Besides her son, she leaves two daughters, Miss Isobel Gadd of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Elizabeth Davidson of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Thomas O'Rourke of San Francisco. Funeral arrangements are pending.

CITY HALL GROUNDS BEAUTIFIED BY LAWN

Record-breaking crops of grass now are waving in the breezes that sweep past the City Hall. One week ago there was not a vestige of grass growing on the grounds around the building. Due to high-powered gardening methods, choice of suitable soil and fertilizer and miles of pipe supplying water to hundreds of automatic sprinklers, newly planted grass sprang into view within forty-eight hours with the assistance of the sun. Now it is three inches high, providing a beautiful green sward in strong contrast to the big white building.

RITES FOR AIR-CRASH VICTIM TOMORROW

Funeral services for Raymond Seider, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Seider of 909 Normandie avenue, who died on Friday as the result of a plane crash at Kelley Field, San Antonio, Tex., will be conducted tomorrow at 9 a.m., at the Church of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. Seider was 24 years of age and a student flyer. Military honors were paid him at Kelley Field on Saturday, after which his body was shipped to his parents in Los Angeles.

BANDITS FLEE IN GUN FRAY

One Believed Wounded as Officers Chase Pair of "Party Burglars" While Bullets Fly

Guns blazed between two negro burglar suspects and Officers Boydstun and Stewart early yesterday morning when the officers surprised the pair attempting to enter the rear rooms of the home of A. Capassa at 1165 West Thirty-ninth street.

After a dozen shots had been exchanged during an exciting chase between houses and through alleys in the vicinity of the Capassa residence the officers checked up the results to find that neither of them was hit, one of the suspected burglars apparently had received a bullet wound as he had bled freely, and both suspects had succeeded in escaping.

"PARTY BURGLERS"

As Boydston and Stewart told the story, they were "staked" opposite the Capassa home, where an entertainment was in progress. They were there because of numerous recent complaints of two negro burglars breaking into homes in that neighborhood while residents entertained guests. The men are known as the "party burglars."

The officers had not waited long, they said, when the two suspects appeared. One went around one side of the Capassa home, while his partner took the other side. The officers walked across the street and ordered the pair to hold up their hands just as they were about to climb into the home through a rear window. Both suspects ignoring the command, ran.

Boydstan fired two shots. One of the suspects dropped, then scrambled to his feet and ran around a rear corner of the house and jumped a fence into an alley. At the spot where he fell the officers said they found considerable blood, indicating that the suspected burglar had been badly wounded.

FIRE RETURNED

The chase continued. As the suspects fled across an open space between two houses the officers fired again several times.

The suspects, just before they leaped another fence, whirled about and returned the fire. Bullets whistled by the officers' heads.

Again the suspects fled into a dark alley. The officers, unable to see the fleeing men, kept up the pursuit by the sound of men scrambling through a pile of boxes in a rear yard.

A second time the suspects broke into the open where reflection of a street light disclosed them to the officers and another exchange of shots took place. Again no one was hit.

Dodging behind a house, the suspects squeezed between two garages, out into an alley, and were seen no more by the officers.

MEDICAL HELP SPANS SEAS

Treatment Prescribed Via Radio for Sick Man on Distant Ship

Dr. J. B. Oliver, surgeon at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, last night prescribed a treatment for a member of the crew of the steamship Orleans speeding toward the Panama Canal and 500 miles from Los Angeles.

A radio appeal for medical advice was received from the vessel by L. Winser, operator at the Mackay Radio Company station at Elysian Park, early in the evening. The message stated that a member of the crew, who had been operated on at San Francisco three weeks ago for an infected toe, was running a fever of 104 deg. and also was suffering from chills. Dr. Oliver was called by the radio station and he at once outlined treatment for the stricken man. A few minutes later his advice was being flashed to sea.

ART PLAYS SHYLOCK TO MISS O'DAY

Actress Loses Pounds of Flesh in Heroic Measure To Regain Symmetry

Molly O'Day, screen actress, who underwent an operation for the removal of surplus fat, was resting nicely at the Queen of the Angels Hospital last night and was smilingly happy following a day with many visitors and friends who had just learned of the weight-reducing move, hospital attendants announced.

MOLLY O'DAY

The delicate operation, designed to remove flesh from the hips and legs of the actress, was performed Thursday morning by Dr. R. B. Griffith, but details were kept secret until yesterday to allow the patient time to recover from the effects of the almost two-hour anaesthetic and to permit the four incisions to begin healing.

Only Miss O'Day's mother was cognizant of plans for the operation. Miss O'Day will remain in the hospital for at least two weeks, undergoing a rigid diet and special treatment for further reduction.

The actress has been rapidly gaining weight for the past year and although under contract to First National has been unable to make any pictures, she declared, and after other flesh-reducing methods failed she decided on the surgeon's knife as the final resort.

ADVERTISING CLUB OPENS TOMORROW

Session With Chamber of Commerce to Start Off Fall Season

The 1928-29 season of the Los Angeles Advertising Club will open tomorrow noon at the Biltmore, at a joint meeting with the Chamber of Commerce. The guest of honor and speaker of the day will be Secretary of the Navy Wilbur. KHJ, the Don Lee station, will broadcast the program.

The club opens the year with over 900 members whose leaders have outlined a program of great activity, especially in educational lines. The club will conduct a weekly round table, a direct-mail department and a window display department, where technical phases of advertising and merchandising will be discussed in open forums.

President Nater today announced the following committee chairmen: Harry Day, attendance; Harold G. Ferguson, better business bureau; John Jay Messler, "Blue Pencil" (official club publication); Fred T. Hagelberg, budget; Hollis M. Wade, club contact; Ned B. Johnson, conservation; J. H. Bushnell, program; Charles Rachal, reception; H. B. Wright, social events; C. H. Mansfield, "stunts"; Victor Langford, window display, R. A. Brown, welcome new members.

DOORS OF RADIO SHOW TO OPEN

Annual Exposition Ready for Public at 2:30 p.m.

Breakfast Club Trades Frolic to be Broadcast

County Stations Co-operate With Star Acts

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

In its short term of existence the radio industry has developed various specialists who bid fair to rival even the experts of older industries for the superdevelopment of one or more of the human faculties.

For years the English tea-testers have held a unique position for the exceptional development of their sense of taste. Now the radio industry offers in competition the tone-tester, rivaling the tea-tester for acute development of one of the human senses, but, instead of supersharp sense of taste, the tone-tester has an exceptionally highly trained keen sense of hearing.

In fact, all of the various phases of radio manufacturing have developed specialists in the various branches of endeavor. The radio show beautiful, which held its preview yesterday and which opens to the public this afternoon, will display the latest and best in sets, parts, accessories, television entertainment and everything else allied with the field of radio and broadcast.

The National Radio Show Beautiful will be opened formally at 2:30 p.m. today. The Ambassador Auditorium, the scene of the exposition, has been increased in area by more than 20,000 square feet, and is specially decorated and lighted for the occasion. Prior to the opening a free entertainment program will be presented in the Ambassador Theater at 1 p.m., where the public may meet favorite radio entertainers. Those who attend will be given free tickets to the show proper.

I venture to say that the display will show little that is really new. The changes of the past year have not been technical ones. They have been almost wholly in the line of refinement.

Some of the star radio acts, from fifteen of Los Angeles county broadcast studios, will parade their wares before the trades at 9 o'clock this morning.

The occasion will be the monthly meeting of the Radio Trades Association of Southern California which will be held in the Breakfast Club open-air pavilion.

This takes the place of the banquet held in previous years the evening of the pre-view radio show day. The various members of the trades, and all exhibitors, will meet in the Labor Day frolic and will then trek over to the Ambassador Auditorium in preparation for the afternoon crowds on the opening day.

KFWB will broadcast the morning program at 9 o'clock. The meeting will entirely dispense with business. After the morning ham and eggs, the various performers from the fifteen stations will keep the gathering at the breakfast tables until the affair is over.

From KHJ, Charlie Wellman will again entertain the radio trades. Then from KMIC, Little Eddie Barnes and Mrs. Eddie will strut their stuff in the Orpheum act they used to do years ago.

The KEJK offering will be a chorus of sixteen voices, while Collett Francey, French dancer and singer, KNX's contribution to television, will represent the Hollywood station.

The acts from the other stations have not been made public, but they will be headliners.

WKY TO BE BACK ON THE AIR

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Sept. 2. (AP)—Completely rejuvenated, station WKY, which was the first in the Southwest, will go back on the air October 1, next, under the auspices of the Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times.

WKY was purchased recently by the Oklahoma Publishing Company, owner of the two newspapers. Two 150-foot steel-meshed towers are being put up ten miles northwest of Oklahoma City. The studio will be in a business building a mile from the downtown section.

Negotiations are under way for a connection with the National Broadcasting Company for a place in the national hook-ups.

One of the services of WKY will be an hourly market report for farmers, supplied by the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman, a weekly agricultural journal published by the Oklahoma Publishing Company.

SKELETON BELIEVED IDENTIFIED

Man With Wooden Leg and Cork Arm Thought to be "Gibson" of Sawtelle

The skeleton of a man with a wooden leg and cork arm found in Sepulveda Canyon, near Beverly Hills several days ago, was identified tentatively yesterday as that of a man once known as Gibson and who lived, five years ago, at 1740 Butler avenue, Sawtelle.

This information was given to Sawtelle police by C. S. Agnew of 1736 Butler avenue, Sawtelle. Agnew stated that about five years ago a man by that name, answering the same description, lived at the Butler-avenue address, which at that time was One Hundred and Seventh street. This man, Agnew stated, left his newly-wed wife one day leaving a note that he contemplated suicide. He never was seen afterward, Agnew said, and the wife, after selling her personal effects a few days later, also left and never was heard of again by persons in the Butler-avenue neighborhood.

Beside the skeleton, which was discovered by a range rider, the police found an old rusty razor and also a small bottle. The suicide theory was accepted by the police as the cause of death of the man in the belief that the bottle had contained poison.

Boy Bitten by Trained Simian

Eddie Schukert, 3 years of age, was treated at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital yesterday for wounds on the arm and hand as the result of having been bitten by a chimpanzee that went on a rampage at the Labor Temple picnic in Rosehill Park.

The animals were part of an act on the picnic program. One had just completed a roller-skating act and the other, was on the tight wire when he decided to take the day off. Insistence on the part of Trainer Dave Lewis enraged the animal, which jumped into the grand stand and bit the child, who was there with his older brother and his baby sister. After being treated by Police Surgeon Jacobs the boy was taken to his home at 1143 McKenzie street by Special Officer Wooten.

FREAK BLAST TAKES LIFE

Man Lighting Cigarette Close to Vacant House Window Dies in Explosion

Piehm lived with his sister and her husband in a rear house at 5714 1-2 Ruthellen avenue, according to police. The house in front, owned by Harry A. Metzger of 1801 South Ardmore avenue, recently had been vacated. The gas was left turned on, it is believed.

Last Friday afternoon Piehm was walking by an open window of the front house when he struck a match to light a cigarette. Instantly there was a terrific explosion within the house accompanied by a blinding flash of flame through the open window. Piehm suffered burns which, according to a Coroner's office report, resulted in his death yesterday.

An inquest will be conducted sometime tomorrow.

TRIUMPH MARKS BOWL CLOSING

Goossens Becomes Idol of Music Fans

Boy-Violinist Earns Warm Appreciation

Deficit of Thousands Wiped Out in Minutes

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The last Bowl concert of the season of 1928 was a Goossens triumph.

Patriotism, loyalty to the Bowl and general enthusiasm created by a program that was so good it was exciting, and by the extremely clever bally-hooing of Huzo Kirchhofer, all combined to make it a thrilling night, and the deficit of several thousands of dollars was wiped out by competitive bidding from the audience. Master Harry Ben Gronsky, a 15-year-old violinist of remarkable power, held the huge crowd in rapt attention with his playing and was wildly applauded.

Eugene Goossens has had a cumulative success this season. At the beginning of his two weeks' engagement he was unfortunately confronted with decidedly skeptical audiences. Many of the listeners had not heard enough of his work during the two previous seasons to feel certain that he would be able to lift them out of the pall of musical gloom, into which the indifferent successes of some of his predecessors had cast them. It was, therefore, necessary that Mr. Goossens should woo them back to music.

The very real and genuine demonstration of approval given him on Saturday evening by the fans and by the orchestra members, proved beyond a doubt that he had won them. And when, at the end of the evening, Mr. Goossens paid his compliments to the audience by conducting an unexpected and stirring performance of "The Star Spangled Banner," enthusiasm knew no bounds. He suddenly became a Bowl idol. There are not many. Alfred Hertz is one and he is spoken of as the father of the Bowl. Mr. Goossens could be described as its favorite big brother.

Harry Ben Gronsky might be designated as the Bowl's wonder-child. He made his debut with the Max Bruch concerto in G minor. It is an interesting coincidence that Mr. Goossens also made his debut as a young boy with this difficult concerto with a London orchestra.

Young Gronsky's playing is distinguished for its depth of tone and its quality of thoughtfulness. He is a born violinist and he has been fortunate in his training. He feels his music, it is a part of him, and although he has been much feted, for he is truly precocious, Master Gronsky does not show a trace of artificiality. With his tone of unusual beauty and his expanding mental grasp and seriousness, this youngster will probably develop into one of the master violinists.

His performance of the Pugnani-Kreisler Praeludium as an encore was nothing short of astounding. Naturally, he was free to display more of his own musical nature in this work, which was done with piano accompaniment. Not that the orchestral accompaniment conducted by Mr. Goossens for the concerto was not everything that understanding and sympathy could suggest, for in this accompaniment the orchestra and the conductor were particularly gracious. One is not free as a bird, however, upon the occasion of a first appearance with orchestra, before a crowd of 20,000, especially if one is still in knickerbockers.

Mr. Goossens conducted the Tschaikowsky Fifth Symphony and Les Preludes by Liszt on this closing program and the audience was obviously loth to depart at its conclusion. Thus, the last Hollywood Bowl concert of the summer reached a very high point of artistic accomplishment and of tremendous enthusiasm and as the crowd walked down Pepper Tree Lane there was a perceptible feeling of regret mingled with the happiness of enjoyment.

GHETTO LIFE SEEN IN SHRINE PICTURE

In the picture, "April Fool," which had its first showing in Los Angeles at the Shrine Auditorium yesterday, Alexander Carr, in the character of a discharged pants presser, finds his life vocation just because of the joke of some mischievous boys on a rainy night in April.

The film, laid in the Ghetto district of New York, starts bravely out as a character study and then, just as if to fool its audience, takes a melodramatic twist and furnishes considerable suspense as bonds are stolen, an innocent man accused and one of these true-love romances is nearly thwarted.

Carr, who incidentally appeared in person on the Shrine stage last night, makes a capable job of his role. Snitz Edwards is seen as the heavy while Duane Thompson and Raymond Keane supply the love interest. Mary Alden is seen as the proprietress of a delicatessen shop while Baby Peggy is Carr's little daughter.

The new Shrine bill includes as well a second-run feature, Warner Baxter in "The Coward," and shorter subjects.

Stamper Tunes Intrigue Ear

The kind of music that visitors to Broadway, and home-grown New Yorkers too, pay $5.50 each to hear is splashed in generous quantities upon "Swanee Moon," the newest Publix production from the hand of Frank Cambria. The revue is now playing at the Metropolitan Theater.

Dave Stamper, who for many years wrote most of the tune hits for Ziegfeld's "Follies," is now composing exclusively for Publix Theaters, and his first efforts, "Blame it on the Moon," and "Swanee Moon," are the orchestral and vocal hits of this production.

"Mid-Channel," a Drama, Revived

Ivis Goulding

Is cast in the play by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero which, with Conway Tearle and Ann Davis in its leading roles, comes tonight to the Belasco Theater.

MARITAL WOES AIRED IN SHOW

It never fails to bring guffaws and snickers from a well-primed vaudeville audience—that ever-favored reproach of the tearful or fire-eating wife to her errant spouse—"but, dearie, before we were married you promised me . . . "

Insert it in any one of three of the six new acts of vaudeville at the Hillstreet this week, and it will fit right into place. There are three acts, following one another in succession, which are devoted to the proverbial husband-wife argument.

Irving Newhoff and Dode Phelps start it with plaintive little songs about "don't you love me any more?" "What Does It Matter?" and similar questions. They manage to insert a wistful, tender note into their repartee, which, incidentally, is carried on almost entirely in songs, and you like them.

Paul Morton and Billee Stout continue the argument, only they get quite raucous about it. They say very horrid things to each other. Billee doesn't like the way Paul carries on at parties and Paul makes remarks about saving Billee from being an old maid and what he thinks about her father, brother, uncles, cousins and the other members of her family.

You are just getting nicely warmed up to the battle when the curtain goes up upon a bedroom scene wherein Jack Norworth and Dorothy Adelphi insult each other. Jack wants to go to sleep but Dorothy won't let him. Perhaps, for all its naughtiness of setting, this act is the best of the three. Wisecracks are flipped adroitly and rapidly, and there is genuine humor in many of them.

As the telephone operator of the switchboard of a metropolitan hotel, Ruth Warren, has an opportunity to air her views on life and to slip over more wisecracks. Miss Warren has a good deal of personality and is well liked.

Two silk-hat lads who dance and juggle canes are Gilbert and French. They start the program. Bee and Ray Goman in "Dance Scandals," a pleasing revue, conclude.

The picture is Johnny Hines's latest comedy for First National. If you enjoy Johnny, you will like him in this story of an ambitious inventor of a blotter-less ink. His adventures take him on board a yacht owned by a lunatic and lead him into one scrape right after another, from all of which he emerges undaunted, smiling and the ever-clever Johnny boy. The title of the film is "The Wright Idea" and it is by Jack Townley.

'FAZIL' TO BE HEARD AND SEEN

Fox Film Synchronized; "Barker" Also Scheduled for Loew's State

"Fazil," is to have its first showing with sound effects and synchronized music in Los Angeles soon! This will also mark the debut of the feature photoplay in sound at Loew's State, and the first popular showing of this picture.

Charles Farrell and Greta Nissen are the lovers in the picture which has been briefly but effectively described as "hot!" It is said to be leaving a trail of broken records in other key cities where it has shown, and will be seen here the week of the 14th inst.

Another photoplay in sound is First National's "The Barker," a colorful drama of carnival life from the play by Kenyon Nicholson, which will also be shown at Loew's in the near future. The sound mechanism reproduces the mixed noises of the circus, the shouting of the barker, the ballyhooing and effects characteristic of the circus. George Fitzmaurice produced the picture with an all-star cast including Milton Sills, Dorothy Mackaill, Betty Compson, Sylvia Ashton, and Doug Fairbanks, Jr.

Seasoned South Sea Traveler Lauds Cinema

Praise for the production is being given by former residents of the Pacific Islands, visiting Hollywood, who have viewed "White Shadows in the South Seas," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's first sound picture. They are lavish in their encomiums of the authenticity of life and customs in the insular paradise.

Most recent of the former residents to laud the presentation at Grauman's Chinese Theater is Mason Mitchell, who was Theodore Roosevelt's aidedecamp and who for twelve years served as Consul for the United States in the Samoan Islands.

In paying high tribute to the production while addressing a meeting of the Adventurers' Club, Mitchell declared the film was the most realistic screen picture of the South Sea Islands ever obtained.

"During my twenty-four years in the consular service I have been to the far corners of the earth and have lived to see them brought back to us through the motion-picture," he said. "But never has there been a film of such accurate detail and faithful reproduction as 'White Shadows in the South Seas.'

"It is not the South Seas the tourists see when they make a hurried trip. It is a deep and sympathetic understanding of those child-like people and the simple charm of their existence in a lotus-eating land. In filming this picture W. S. Van Dyke has earned the sincere gratitude of every man who has given a portion of his life to exploring these strange places of the earth. He has done something they have been unable to do—he has brought home to us a beautiful memory of a dream country."

DARINGLY ORIGINAL PICTURE SCREENED

A remarkable product of the motion-picture studio, the arresting photograph of a thought, is "The Last Moment," which made its official Los Angeles debut yesterday afternoon at the Broadway Palace. Evolved on celluloid by Paul Fejos, a director, and Leon Shamroy, a cameraman, working in unison to make their impress on the world of the cinema, the film picks up a man at the moment of his demise and then, by the use of the flash-back, traces his existence from that hour when consciousness began for him to that during which he shuffled off his mortal coil.

Prevented by its very originality of theme from being other than what is called, in the trade, "an artistic success," the picture nevertheless makes a concession to popular taste by adopting, in half its scenes, the conventional method of screen story-telling—which is to say, from the viewpoint of the outsider. The impressionistic method—what Robert Sherwood designates as employing a camera in the "first person singular," i. e., photographing that which a character sees with his own eyes—is what makes "The Last Moment" an extraordinary achievement, so imaginatively has it been realized by Fejos and Shamroy.

Made in Hollywood under the sponsorship of Samuel Freedman and Edward M. Spitz, the picture employs in its cast Otto Matiesen as its "hero;" Georgia Hale, Lucille La Verne, Isabel Lamore, Hector Sarno and many others. The nature of the treatment gives small opportunity for "acting" in the accustomed sense, since events move rapidly and subtitles are altogether absent, but Matiesen and the others perform acceptably when called upon to do so.

It is doubtful if so unusual a film has come out of California since F. W. Murnau's "Sunrise." Beyond question, it is one which foreign countries, notably Russia and Germany, would hail as a master achievement had they created it. In any event, the American who takes his movies seriously will find it well worth his time, and the American who doesn't will find the "something different" of which he is so unceasingly in search.

Unhappy Thais Left Standing in Stage Ruin

When Leah Winslow was playing leads in a stock company in Brooklyn she had a "harrowing" experience. She was filling the title role in "Thais," and in the denunciation scene, after the slave had been dragged off, she heard a sudden roar of laughter from the audience. Looking out of the corner of her eye, she discovered that the clumsy extras, who were supposed to have the slave captive, had pulled with them practically the entire garden and the scenery had fallen over, so that Thais was left declaiming in what seemed to be nothing less than the ruins of Pompeii.

"I like exotic, interesting roles," asserts Miss Winslow. "Although off the stage often am taken for a business woman, nevertheless roles of that type are not to my liking. My favorite one is La Cavallini in Edward Sheldon's 'Romance' and another great favorite is the Portugese mother in 'My Son'."

ILLINI BAND, ROY BARNES LEAD ACTS

Louise Howatt, Radio Star, on Program of Moderate Interest

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Vaudeville historians—there must be persons somewhere who keep track of these things—will doubtless make an entry in their chronicles that this week at the Orpheum Theater is the one that came just after Jeanne Eagels and just before Margaret Anglin. And, if pressed for further details, they finger their long beards and scratch their pates ere recalling finally that this was the bill on which the Illini Singing Band appeared, they will have hit upon the one act of them all particularly worth hitting upon.

Not, of course, that the Illini Singing Band from the University of Illinois is very much more than a singing band should be; or that, by the same token, merit is conspicuous by its absence from all the other divertissements concocted by the variety folk for serving this week. There are T. Roy Barnes, Mary Haynes, Louise Howatt, Hayes and Cody and others—and these might reasonably be depended upon to have their moments.

A smooth routine, expertly manœuvered, is the chief distinction of the musical corps from the State best known for keeping (or at least trying to keep) Chicago within its spacious confines. The Illinoisans, playing as well as singing, offer a medley of college and university airs, a snatch of jazz, a descriptive piece, a political "rally" and their champion drum major in an exhibition of skill—all in a manner which shows that they know what they are about.

T. Roy Barnes, a gentleman given to excessive garrulity, paces back and forth in an agitated fashion and delivers himself of opinions on Hollywood, where the movies are made. He describes a restaurant at one of the studios, to which come actors in every conceivable kind of costume and where one may see Elinor Glyn trying to explain her much-touted "it" idea to King Solomon . . . Barnes also recites "On the Road to Mandalay," changing words to meet local conditions. This is very long.

Louise Howatt, "Radio's Happiness Girl," after being introduced by an offstage announcer, sits at a piano and sings popular and once-popular songs in what seems to me an expressionless way. I haven't a radio, and I may be wrong.

Mary Haynes also sings—or rather, she tells stories and acts them out. Miss Haynes is better for vaudeville than Miss Howatt. I don't think she would be so effective on the radio, but she is a good bet for television. She makes funny faces.

Jacque Hayes and Irene Cody—one of them owning what she calls "a double voice"—are "The Two Extremes;" one very fat and one very thin; Gus Stewart and Ollie Olive take turns doing "Dances Old and New;" Vivian and Walter, a good-looking couple, revel in "Artistic Athletics," and John Monroe and Tom Grant have a bouncing act in "Go 'Head Charlie."

MUSIC PLAY NOTED FOR FOOTWORK

"Runnin' Wild," Colored Show, Hailed by Mason First Nighters

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

"Runnin' Wild," which must have surprised the staid Mason Theater with its lusty lunged singers, may not have the same high degree of merit that has marked one or two previous colored musical shows, but there is more than enough of the old pepper to last through a performance. It was greeted enthusiastically by a big audience last night.

Miller and Lyle who produced, and added to the merriment of the show in New York, are still in New York. "Runnin' Wild" is in Los Angeles. As Hannibal remarked thoughtfully in "The Road to Home," "that explains a great deal." Gallie D. Gaston and Amon Davis are good comedians, but they aren't Miller and Lyle.

The show is composed mostly of dancing, very lively dancing at that, and music. One or twice during the evening I thought there was going to be a plot, but then a bevy of chorines would burst out of the wings, and the plot faded away. But, after all, a plot is something of a nuisance in a musical play. One is always mistaking the soubrette for the ingenue.

There is one song number in "Runnin' Wild" which assumes the proportion of a hit. "Old Fashioned Love" has a pleasant melody, and the sort of sentiment that seems to exist only on Valentines nowadays. It is nicely done by Aurora Greeley, Quintard Miller and Ina Duncan. The song, "Runnin' Wild," is the bluest of the blues.

Dudley Dickerson's dancing scored the heaviest hit of the evening, although the Ali Brothers are clever hoofers, too. Among others in the large cast are Claud Collins, Leroy Broomfield, Marcus Slayter, Irene Pondexter, Edith Spencer, Cliff and Radcliffe, Emma Hawkins and Gertrude Saunders.

The strongest feature of "Runnin' Wild" is in its ensemble work. The chorus is hard working, and the costume changes are numerous. The Charleston number really should be dropped from the show, however. By now, it must be as familiar as the measles even in places where they are still voting for Andrew Jackson.

There is a capital jazz band accompanying the show.

SERIAL MEN ACCLAIM HER AS GIRL CENTAUR

Ann Little, who has joined the Henry Duffy Players at the Hollywood Playhouse in "Lombardi, Ltd.," was featured for several years in picture serials, particularly of the western type. "I played in so many outdoor thrillers that producers could not imagine me on anything but a horse," says the actress. "Then I played a drawing-room role in a picture opposite Robert Warwick and they decided that I was capable of other things."
